CHILDREN OF ASIA

Abandoned, Lonely, Foster Parent Plan Gives Them Hope

By SUSAN RILEY

For $10 a month you can adopt a child you'll never see.

You will be feeding him, educating him—maybe saving his life—but never meeting him.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova calls the starving children of Asia "my children," but she's more than willing to share them with you through the Unitarian Service Committee Foster Parent Scheme.

For $120 a year a child can be fed, sheltered and given medical treatment in one of the USC's 26 foster parent homes overseas.

Of her recent trip to Asia Dr. Hitschmanova said, "I saw scars on the children that will never be erased.

"But I also saw some children in USC homes learning to stand on their own feet."

The USC has helped more than 15,000 children since the Second World War.

"This year I still have about 100 children unassigned to foster parents," she said. "More and more are being abandoned by their parents because of hunger."

In USC homes they find more than food and warmth.

"They also receive education. They long cherish the memory of school and are so eager to learn," said Dr. Hitschmanova.

"There is great power in human beings," said Dr. Hitschmanova who rarely discusses her personal philosophy.

"It is there for us to use, and you can see it in little children.

"But these children," she said, speaking of the orphans in India and Korea, "are disabled and maimed in outlook. There is hope, if you give them opportunity, even for the most forgotten, the most maltreated."

She has seen "miracles" performed for these children when they are given the opportunity. Opportunity

Homemade U-Boat Used To Flee East Germany

BERLIN (UPI) — A young musician today said he escaped from communist East Germany in a homemade submarine.

West German refugee officials said Bernd Boettger, 28, was telling the truth about his undersea flight from the East German Baltic Sea coast to a Danish lightship.

Boettger told newsmen he piloted his self-made U-boat 15½ miles, part of it underwater, at a speed of three miles an hour Sept. 8.

"I was dressed in a frogman's outfit sent by my aunt in West Germany. I wore a belt with 12 pounds of lead in it to keep deep under water until I got past the searchlight, watchtowers and police patrol boats along the East German coast," Boettger said.

Proudly he showed newsmen the tiny craft he built at cost of $50.

"My next trip will be across the English Channel next year," he said.

His getaway machine consisted of a 22-pound motor enclosed in a watertight cylinder with a two-foot snorkel attached. The snorkel kept the underwater motor supplied with air from the surface as Boettger steered it away from communism to the Danish lightship Gedser.

"The whole coast is heavily guarded and it would have been impossible to escape in a rowboat or sailboat that could be seen on the surface," he said.

He tied a 10-foot long rope to the motor and was towed to the west.

"This is a new invention and I have applied for three patents on it in West Germany," he said. "Right now the U-boat must keep close to the surface so the snorkel can get air but soon I will be able to really dive when I perfect it."

He said the trip from his beach, nine miles east of the East German port of Warnemuende to the Danish light ship, went without mishap.

"There was no trouble although I was a bit frightened when a giant cod popped up in front of me," he said. "And the wave made me a bit seasick and I had a stomach ache. I was not prepared for the waves by my two years of training and experimenting on inland waters."

Story of Courage Of Heart Patient

"He may not be alive to read this."

So said the story written about Montrealer Gaetan Paris for Weekend Magazine which appears with Saturday's Times.

The words proved prophetic. Mr. Paris, Canada's second heart transplant patient, died Nov. 30.

Mr. Paris won't read his story. But readers across Canada may well find it inspirational.

The story is an intimate look into the private life of a man who fought heart disease for five years. Five months ago he was given a chance to start life all over again—this time with the vibrant young heart of a 23-year-old accident victim.

Doctors said the heart didn't fail, that Mr. Paris died of asphyxiation following an attack of indigestion.

Mr. Paris is dead, but his personal story lives in Weekend. It's recommended reading for those who enjoy tales of courage.

MPs Hear Plan To Streamline House Rules

OTTAWA (CP)—The special committee on Commons procedures submitted its report to the House today and its recommendations for sweeping changes were promptly branded by the opposition as debate-throttling closure.

The bulky report, arising out of weeks of consideration by an all-party committee, among other things proposes abolishing the traditional House committees of supply and ways and means—main vehicles now for debate.

The whole procedure of debates, referral to committee, length of speeches and hours of sittings would be drastically revamped if the report wins parliamentary approval.

But outside the chamber, opposition spokesmen began whetting their knives.

Gerald W. Baldwin, Conservative House leader, termed it a government bid to apply closure to debate. Other party spokesmen were preparing detailed criticism of the document.

DENIES CLOSURE

Mr. Blair denied in an interview that the proposals amount to closure. The purpose was "to get Parliament to use its time more effectively and more efficiently."

He said the areas of sharpest disagreement are over the allocation of time for certain debates and the new procedures for dealing with supply motions—the motions that give the government money to meet day-to-day bills.

The committee proposals would give Commons committees more authority—and more work. In essence, much of the subject of debates now conducted on the House floor would be shifted to the committees.

The report recommends these committees improve the quality of their debates and hopefully win for committee members more recognition than they now have as back-bench MPs.

On the committee of supply—a committee of the entire House which scrutinizes government spending—the report says:

"This is not a forum in which a detailed scrutiny of estimates can be realistically attempted."

Bell Asks Rate Hike; Not In B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Bell Canada applied to the Canadian Transport Commission today for approval of higher telephone rates, to take effect next March 1.

The increases for private-line residence service, if approved, will go up by 40 to 70 cents a month in most communities served by Bell in Newfoundland, Quebec, Ontario and the far North.

Telephone service for business establishments will be raised more than residential service.

Long-distance rates will be raised for most calls requiring the services of a long-distance operator, but no increase is planned for long-distance calls over 35 miles dialed directly by customers.

In Vancouver, British Columbia Telephone Company said it will not follow the Bell Canada lead in seeking increases in telephone rates.

J. Ernest Richardson, president, said in a statement that the company "has no plans at present to apply to the Canadian Transport Commission for any general revision of its present rate structure."

"Our basic rate structure for exchange service has remained unchanged since 1958," the statement said.

The statement said advanced technology and productivity and the rapid growth of B.C. had assisted in maintaining existing rates.

Suit Asks Accounting

VANCOUVER (CP)— Crown Trust Co. filed suit in British Columbia Supreme Court on Thursday against Centennial Mortgage Corp. Ltd., one of the Commonwealth group of companies under the receivership of A. D. Peter Stanley. Crown Trust asks for an accounting of what may be owing to holders of certain notes and debentures issued by Centennial in 1961 and 1962 under trust agreements.

No Question Of Voice For Indians

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today there's no question of the National Indian Brotherhood having a voice in the federal-provincial constitutional conference two weeks hence.

He said in a Commons reply for Robert Simpson (PC—Churchill) that he knows of no request from the Brotherhood for a role.

Mr. Trudeau said only federal and provincial government representatives will address the meeting.

Snowstorm Halts Traffic, Shipping

TORONTO (CP) — Southwestern, eastern and central Ontario were hit by a major snowstorm Thursday, which caused several power failures, a number of minor traffic accidents and for a time forced the closing of two highways and Welland Ship Canal.

High winds hindered ship traffic on Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. Ship traffic resumed on the Welland Canal as the storm tapered off.

At least one traffic fatality was attributed to the storm when a woman was killed in a two-car crash in London.

Provincial police at Stratford said a 12-mile stretch on Highway 8 to Mitchell had to be closed for three hours when snow driven by winds up to 60 miles an hour reduced visibility to a few yards and built snow drifts up to four feet.

In the Lake Simcoe area, Highway 69 between Brechin and Washago was also closed to traffic for several hours.

Orillia received about eight inches of snow.

Winds up to 45 miles an hour caused a two-hour power failure in the Sarnia area.

Winds up to 55 miles an hour brought down several power lines in Mississauga, just west of Toronto, and resulted in short power failures in surrounding areas.

Two houses being transported by tractor-trailers on Highway 27 northwest of Toronto were blown off the road.

N.Y. State Battered

NEW YORK (AP) — A storm whipping in off Lakes Erie and Ontario with winds up to 60 miles an hour left as much as 18 inches of snow in northern New York state Thursday and battered other sections of the state.

No Evidence Of Genocide, Says Report

OTTAWA (CP) — The international observer team for Nigeria reported today that it found no evidence that the federal Nigerian army is practising genocide against the Ibos.

In a report on its activities from Sept. 24 to Nov. 23, the four-nation team, including a representative from Canada, said that in the areas it visited the federal military government was protecting Ibo people and Ibo property.

The observers neither saw nor heard evidence that the federal army is following a policy of genocide towards the Ibo people, it said.

'ASSIST IBOS'

"There is evidence that the federal military government and the Nigerian army have a program to assist all persons affected by the war, including Ibos.

"Based on what the observers saw and heard they are of the opinion that the use of the term 'genocide' is unwarranted."

The report was signed by Maj.-Gen. W. A. Milroy of Canada, Maj.-Gen. Arthur Raab of Sweden, Col. Alfons Olkiewicz of Poland and Brig. Sir Bernard Fergusson of Britain.

Its findings were broadly in line with three interim reports issued since the team went to Nigeria at the invitation of the Nigerian federal government to investigate charges by secessionist Biafra that Nigerian troops were trying to exterminate the Ibos.

COMMISSIONER of baseball, William D. Eckert, resigned today in a sudden move that surprised the baseball world. The announcement was made in San Francisco.

Some Progress At Paris Talks

Times News Services

SAIGON—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops launched a major assault against 37 South Vietnamese bases and towns overnight in the heaviest shelling since the Nov. 1 halt in bombing of North Vietnam.

The bombardment was followed by a ground assault by North Vietnamese troops on the key U.S. base at Dong Ha just below the demilitarized zone.

While the Communist assault continued, American and South Vietnamese diplomats in Paris reported some progress in peace negotiations and there were indications that the full-scale conference could begin next week.

In South Vietnam, Viet Cong and Hanoi forces fired between 300 and 400 mortar and rocket shells, killing at least 27 South Vietnamese and wounding 104.

The majority of the rocket and mortar attacks came in an arc northwest to north of Saigon. Guerrillas in that area also rampaged through a hamlet, killing 11 persons, wounding another 22 and burning 25 houses.

In 28 of the attacks the targets were 10 provincial capitals and district towns and 18 South Vietnamese military bases, a government spokesman said.

The government said that since the halt in the bombing there have been 115 shellings of provincial capitals and district towns, with 56 civilians killed and 498 wounded.

DOWN TWO 'COPTERS

The American command also announced that two U.S. helicopters were shot down within 10 miles of heavily defended provincial capital of An Loc Wednesday and Thursday, killing all eight crew members.

At the northern end of South Vietnam, U.S. bombers and the battleship New Jersey made coordinated attacks Thursday on North Vietnamese gun positions and bunkers inside the demilitarized zone for the second time this week.

U.S. headquarters said shells from the New Jersey's 16-inch guns and the bombs from the jets smashed five 50-calibre machine-gun emplacements, 15 bunkers and 65 yards of trenches.

Military spokesmen said U.S. marines overran 30 enemy bunkers 11 miles south of Da Nang, and apparently there was no resistance. The marines reported finding 58 bodies.

Both Sides Square Off Over Table

Times News Services

PARIS — A serious disagreement has broken out at the peace negotiations here on whether the four delegations will sit at a square or rectangular conference table.

North Vietnam's chief delegate, Xuan Thuy, told reporters at a reception Thursday night that North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front want a square table. This would underline the Communist view that the Paris conference is to be a four-party affair.

They said the Americans plugged for a rectangular table, with two long sides representative of the U.S. view that the talks will be between a Communist delegation and a joint U.S-Saigon delegation.

U.S. Ambassador Cyrus Vance and North Vietnam's Col. Ha Van Lau, who have been conducting the private sessions, were scheduled to meet again today or Saturday to tackle the table issue again.

This was part of Operation Meade River, a two-week-old hunt for a force of North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong guerillas posing a potential threat to Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city.

A spokesman said the 7,000-man force, which includes South Vietnamese infantry and South Koreans, have killed 499 guerrillas. About 50 U.S. marines have been killed, and other allied casualties are reported light.

In the Paris peace negotiations U.S. officials said agreement has been reached with Hanoi on five points:

- The first session of the broadened conference will immediately start discussing pro-

SOLUTION PREDICTED TO END COLLEGE TURMOIL

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters) — Police guarded San Francisco State College today after a day of violence in which they drew guns and fired Mace, a debilitating chemical spray, at students who stopped street cars and rolled parked cars at them.

There was, however, a slight hope that a dispute which kept the university in a state of turbulence for a month might be settled.

It came after a conference between the acting university president, Samuel Ichiye Hayakawa, and San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto.

Hayakawa, a native of Vancouver, said he would be making an announcement that "can serve as a breakthrough toward resolution of campus turmoil."

He refused to go into details but Alioto said "Come February 1, there will be a school of ethnic studies at San Francisco State."

Negro demands are the heart of present unrest at the college and black and white militants demand a special school to include Negro studies.

The trouble Thursday started as about 80 student strikers marched into the university administration building, banging on walls, beating garbage cans and smashing up pictures of past presidents hanging on the walls.

Policemen standing guard nearby drew their guns and fired a canister of Mace.

Other police then moved in as the students retreated.

DRUG BILL INTRODUCED BY DAVID ANDERSON

OTTAWA (CP)—A private member's bill that would require drug companies to state secondary effects of a medication clearly on the container label was introduced in the Commons Thursday by David Anderson (L—Esquimalt-Saanich).

He said that at present, for example, there is no law requiring a manufacturer of anti-histamines to state that the product has a tendency to slow reflexes and induce sleep.

bought with Canadian generosity.

But money is only part of the need. Personal contact between children and their foster parents, even if by letter, is important.

Dr. Hitschmanova sees most of the children in her four months overseas.

"After meetings here, I am usually surrounded by foster parents asking about their children," she said.

Even if communication is second-hand, she said, "what the child needs most is a close personal relationship."

Once a child is educated he is free to leave the home and earn a living.

cedural matter for the duration of the talks.

- The Allied and Communist sides will each have two separate spokesmen. This means that the Americans and the South Vietnamese will brief newsmen on their side while the North Vietnamese and the NLF will address the press separately on their side. The agreement was considered a major Allied concession, allowing Hanoi and the Viet Cong to consider themselves two separate delegations.
- English and Vietnamese will be the two official languages with French being used as the working language for translations.
- The delegations will meet—presumably next week—in the same room where U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats had negotiated arrangements leading to the U.S. bombing halt.
- Although each delegation will be allowed to establish its own records of the proceedings, newsmen will not be allowed into the negotiating sessions.

U.S. officials said they expected the American delegation to contact North Vietnamese diplomats Saturday in an effort to complete an agreement on the procedures so that the talks could get started.

The consultations today involved Cyrus R. Vance, deputy leader of the U.S. team, and South Vietnam's ambassador to the United States, Bui Diem. Diem arrived in Paris early today with instructions from President Nguyen Van Thieu.

More Turmoil Plagues Italy

The protests broke out in Rome, Naples, Bologna, Anzio and other cities and police said that while little violence occurred today traffic was tied up.

In Rome, premier-designate Mariano Rumor was reported close to forming a centre-left coalition that would end a 17-day political crisis that toppled his predecessor.

EMERGING as victor in Venezuela's close, drawn-out presidential election is Social Christian Party candidate Rafael Caldera. Although the official vote is continuing, indications are Caldera will take office in March. He is leading Gonzalo Barrios of the ruling Democratic Action Party by 40,000 votes.

'Conscription' Of Children Denounced

QUEBEC (CP) — Leaders of Quebec's major political parties Thursday denounced a demonstration in front of the legislature building which involved a large number of school children.

The 3,000 demonstrators, organized to oppose a planned language-rights bill, broke 60 legislature windows with snowballs.

Spearheaded by the French-language Mourvement pour l'integration scholaire, the marchers included a large number of students — some of them only 12 years old — who had been let off school to join the protest.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand accused teachers of creating a climate of anarchy in Quebec by involving the pupils "who don't even know why they were brought to the legislature."

It is "disgusting that these poor children who understand nothing were conscripted" as marchers, Opposition Leader Jean Lesage said in the legislative assembly.

Rene Levesque, leader of the separatist Parti Quebecois, called it a "criminal act" to lead children of 12 and 13 into the march.

Raymond Lemieux, president of the mouvement pour l'integration scholaire, told reporters he was grateful to the pupils for taking part in the demonstration, which he called "an excellent lesson in living history."

U.S. PLANS WAR TEST IN EUROPE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. defence department announced today that 15,500 American troops will fly to West Germany next month to take part in war games near Grafenwohr, only 30 miles from the Czech border.

The exercises, which will continue into February, were regarded as a reaction to the Soviet block invasion of Czechoslovakia. The Pentagon said 12,000 army troops and 3,500 airmen would be involved.

The games will cost an estimated $20 million.

The principal army units will be the two brigades of the mechanized 24th Infantry Division now stationed at Fort Riley, Kan.

Air force combat squadrons, flying a total of about 100 F4 Phantom jets, will be drawn from Holloman AFB, N.M., and Mountain Home AFB, Idaho.

The defence department said that the army troops will return to the United States after the manoeuvres, but the air force squadrons "will remain temporarily in Europe to complete additional training before returning to their bases in the United States."

In another change, the department announced that the one 5,000-man brigade of the 24th Division now in Europe will remain there indefinitely instead of being rotated back to the United States as previously planned.

"This will enhance the continuing readiness of the 24th Infantry Division primarily by reduction of frequent personnel shifts," the announcement said.

"An earlier concept that the brigades of the 24th would succeed each other on temporary duty in Germany has been revised."

Plane Crew 'Intoxicated' By Gas

LONDON (AP) — The crew of a chartered British airliner were gassed by carbon monoxide from a faulty heating system before the plane crashed into a French mountainside last June 3, says an official report published today. All 83 persons aboard were killed.

The report of the investigotion by the French transport ministry said the pilot of the DC-4 Skymaster and his crew were "intoxicated" in the final minutes before the crash, their reflexes were dulled, their judgment impaired and their speech was slurred in conversations with the airport control tower in Perpignan just before the crash.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS — A strong disturbance brought rain and snow and southerly gales as high as 64 miles per hour to the north coast early this morning. Clouds spread rapidly into other coastal regions this morning and snow showers were reported on the lower mainland. The main cloud decks with steady precipitation will reach the west coast of Vancouver Island this morning and the inner coasts this afternoon. Snow flurries will also penetrate the central Prince George region this afternoon. The southern Interior will enjoy sunshine before the overcast reaches there later today. A few snow flurries will accompany the disturbance through these areas tonight and Saturday. Unsettled air which follows will bring showers to the coast Saturday but temperatures will be a little milder in the south.

Hooke's Withdrawal Stuns Alberta Socreds

HOOKE
. . . backs Reierson

EDMONTON (CP) — A new leader will be chosen by the Alberta Social Credit League tonight, but two members of the old guard dominated the first two days of its annual convention.

The highlight of Wednesday's opening session was the party's farewell to Premier E. C. Manning, who has led it for the last 25 years.

On Thursday, it was the turn of A. J. Hooke, 63, minister of lands and forest, holder of seven cabinet portfolios and the only man who shares with Mr. Manning an unbroken term in the legislature since the first Social Credit sweep to power in 1935.

Only a week after his surprise entry into the leadership race, Mr. Hooke electrified the delegates at the close of his campaign address Thursday night by announcing his withdrawal and throwing his support to Ray Reierson, 49, minister of education and labor.

Four other candidates remain in the race: Walter Buck, 37, a member of the legislature for Glover Bar; Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart, 44; Municipal Affairs Minister Harry Strom, 54; and Highways Minister Gordon Taylor, 58.

The major portion of Mr. Hooke's campaign speech, a fighting defence of old-line Social Credit principles, offered no hint of its climax.

In a policy seminar earlier in the day, he had startled younger delegates by advocating that the party seek to revise the monetary reforms introduced by the late William Aberhart in the 1930s and abandoned when the courts found them beyond the powers of a provincial government.

At the time, he accepted one delegate's challenge to repeat before the full convention and the cameras of an Alberta television network his proposal that the province make a second attempt to print its own money.

When his turn came on the platform, Mr. Hooke did not mention monetary reform.

But he introduced a touch of the brimstone of the early years when he branded the graduated income tax as an instrument created by Karl Marx to enable democracy to destroy itself.

Youngster Captivates Delegates

EDMONTON (CP)—A Grade 10 student captivated the Alberta Social Credit leadership convention Thursday when he introduced the nominator of Highways Minister Gordon Taylor.

"Let me speak from experience," said 15-year-old Richard Peterson, telling the delegates why they should vote for Taylor. "From Grade 7 to 9 . . ."

When the laughter subsided, Richard explained that Taylor and his highways department hockey team had challenged the midget team at his Edmonton school.

"We were younger and in better shape, but we never managed to beat them."

The 58-year-old minister had also pitched against the school baseball team, "after his arm was oiled with Koufax 27." The boys hadn't beaten him at that game either.

Taylor had escorted Richard's class on tours of the legislature and the highways department building, on which "we could eat as much as we wanted."

'Contempt' For Session Developing

Public contempt for the provincial legislature is developing because a materialistic administration runs it like an 18th century saloon, Liberal Leader Pat McGeer claimed Thursday evening.

He was addressing about 75 persons who attended the Victoria Liberal Association annual meeting in the Greater Victoria Art Gallery.

He said "the big deal" industrial development and money-making programs dominate the sessional debates because the government was only marginally interested in educational, recreational and cultural values.

"As a result, there is a certain contempt setting in for the Legislature," Mr. McGeer said.

"This is reinforced by the fact that our deliberations are not publicly known.

"When we don't have enough consideration to publish our debates, I suppose that it must result in a feeling around the province that what we are doing now can be done better."

For Men of Good Will

THE FORTHCOMING FEDERAL-provincial conference on constitutional amendments is rightly being heralded as one of the most crucial and important in our history. So complex are the matters at issue, and so highly charged with emotion in some cases, that deadlock on many points is to be expected. What we no doubt will have will be a series of constitutional conferences which will achieve success to the extent that they can gradually erode fixed positions and effect compromises. This process itself will be in the Canadian tradition.

While almost any time in a nation's history is a critical time in which to start altering the legal foundation of the country's social and political structure, the present is for Canada a particularly delicate period. The vital problem of the two founding races, although receding from the extremist proportions of a year or two ago, is yet far from solved.

The French-English language and race confrontation, with the people of Quebec determined to establish their culture and speech as a viable part of the new Canada now emerging, calls for statesmanship, negotiation and understanding of a high order. In particular it calls for guarantees that will convince French-speaking Canadians that they do not face engulfment in a non-French tide, that they need not fear, and fight against, any plan of English-speaking Canadians to destroy or bury their Gallic heritage.

Constitutional amendment therefore has two essential facets: it is at once the means by which Quebec's fears may be removed and Quebec's personality ensured; and it is also the possible source, in the heat of formulation, of frictions which could exacerbate and widen the racial gulf which we are striving to close.

A heavy responsibility therefore rests on those who will participate, apart from their basic purpose of writing a viable set of guarantees and rules for the nation. They must maintain Canadian unity in the present while they are trying to assure it for the future.

The traditional tensions within the Canadian entity are well known. The geographical pull—East versus West; the economic—industrial versus agricultural; the population—urban dwellers versus rural; the political—provinces versus Ottawa; the social—wealthy versus poor; (although this has rarely been a dominant one). But the greatest dichotomy has been that which, while often quiescent, has underlain all our national development since the beginning—the historic differences between the French-speaking and the English-speaking people of this land. It will be a tragic result if, in the process of fashioning a constitution acceptable to all Canadians, various items come to be argued on racial lines rather than on their own merits.

Many matters of traditional or governmental importance to Canadians will, in the natural course of evolution, undergo change. Properly presented, many issues will eventually win adherents among all the racial elements of Canada, but if handled in a rash or parochial manner, they could quickly take on racial associations and become the basis of disruptive struggle between English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians.

Politicking may easily provoke such situations; statesmanship may with luck avoid them. That is the challenge before the men who will attend the constitutional conference. Let us hope, for the future of this country, that they can rise to it.

Changing Roles

IN THE WAKE OF LAST month's financial crisis there has been widespread speculation about emerging trends in Europe and future power balances. The consensus is that West Germany by virtue of its proven financial strength has begun to assume a leading role. By refusing to revise the value of the mark upwards, the Bonn government emphasized its new-found supremacy at the price of straining relations with both London and Paris.

What course is open to these two beleaguered capitals now? France evidently intends to maintain its close relations with the West Germans despite its diminished stature. This is almost a personal accomplishment of President de Gaulle, however, and may not survive his passing. Britain, because of her closer ties with North America, is in a different position. Mr. George Ball, a long-time member of the U.S. State Department and former Ambassador to the U.N., suggested this week that the best policy for the British would be to concentrate more on Europe.

Mr. Ball suggested that the special relationship between Britain and the United States impedes the former's entry into the European community by providing the French president with "an excuse" to block membership in the Common Market. A further increase in West Germany's influence is foreseen by Mr. Ball after de Gaulle goes, and he says Britain should be in a position to balance this power position.

What effect such a policy would have on Canada's relationship with the United Kingdom is uncertain. One thing is sure, however: this country must be prepared to support Britain in the greatest freedom of movement in future negotiations in trade or other fields, so that it can find the best means to retain its vital place in Europe and the world.

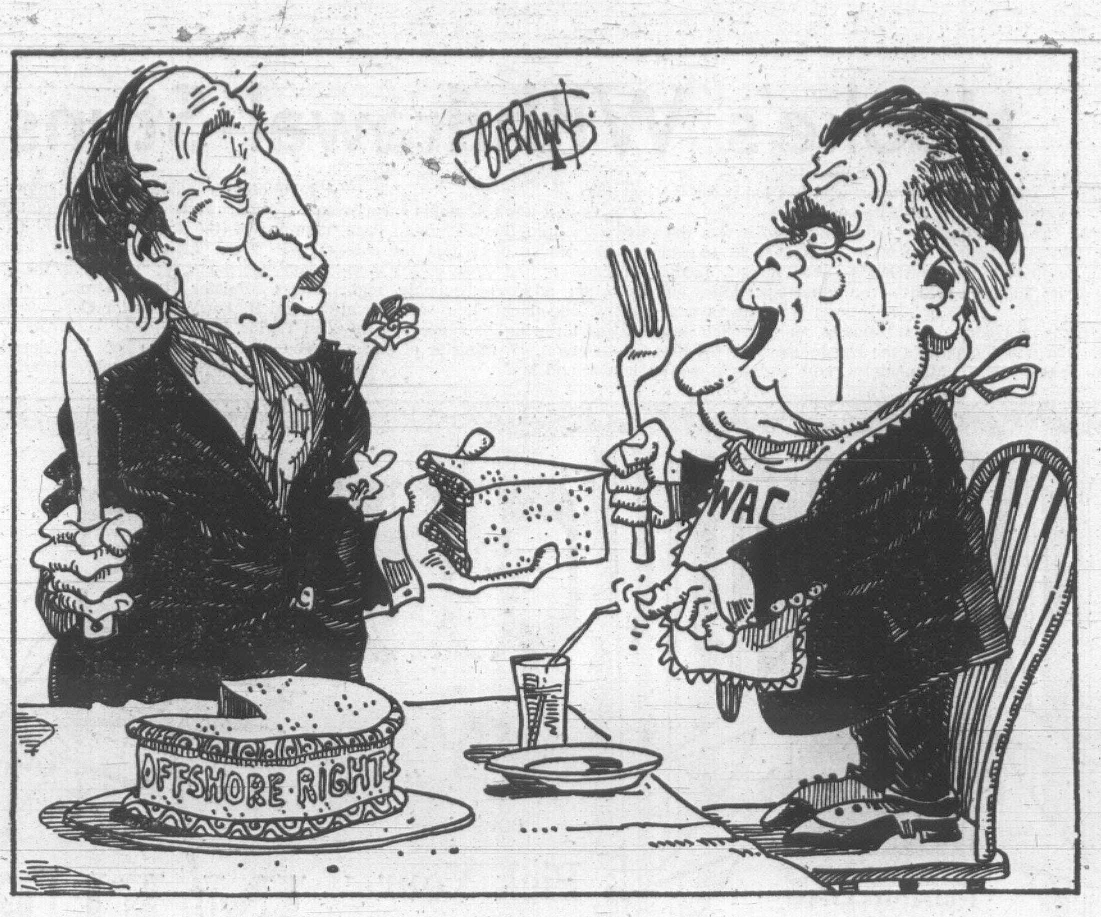
Dr. J. V. Fisher

PREMIER BENNETT HAS PAID a public tribute to the late Dr. John Villiers Fisher which will be echoed by innumerable people in British Columbia's public life acquainted with the outstanding service he performed for this province.

Through the regimes of half a dozen premiers Dr. Fisher brought to the civil service the abilities of an excellent mind finely trained in financial and economic affairs. He buttressed capability with whole-hearted concern for the welfare of British Columbia.

He is remembered chiefly for the competence with which he held the post of deputy minister of finance in good times and in bad. Under his direction, the department met the stresses of changing administrations, changing concepts in finance and the inevitable strains that occurred in federal-provincial relations. Beyond retirement age, he continued to serve in such capacities as economics adviser to the government and as agent-general for British Columbia in London.

Mr. Bennett has called him an example for young British Columbians hoping to enter public service—a fitting epitaph for a man who went the extra mile in the discharge of his important duties.



"... I want the other slice ..."

FROM OTTAWA ...

By V. J. MACKIE

Studying the PM's Liberal 'Bible'

FOLLOWING the federal-provincial talks early in November, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau found himself under fire in the Liberal caucus as left-wing Liberals protested that the party appeared to have spawned a government that was retreating from welfare programs and from the Rowell-Sirois report on federal provincial relations. Several Liberal backbenchers did not like the party's new position on medicare for example, or the suggestion that the government that spends the money should raise the taxes.

Mackie

Other declarations that came out of that conference caused unrest in the Liberal ranks. Mr. Trudeau's members who were disturbed about some of the decisions stood up to protest behind the closed doors of the caucus. The prime minister vigorously defended his government's position. He suggested that those members who were agitated should go back and read his book on "federalism" published early this year.

They had obviously missed some pertinent paragraphs and he strongly recommended they read it again, or in some cases for the first time, if they wanted to learn where the party is heading under his guidance.

Several Liberal MPs took that advice. In some offices on Parliament Hill it is now referred to as the "new Liberal Bible." It is well thumbed. More than one member of the caucus has found points made by the prime minister that he had missed in his first hurried reading of "Federalism and the French Canadians." This is understandable as many read it in the hectic days of the Liberal leadership campaign and there was a flood of literature from would-be Liberal leaders at that time.

Sometimes Painful

Gerard Pelletier, now secretary of state, a long time friend of Mr. Trudeau, wrote the preface to the French edition. He warned the reader: "Some passages in this book are painful to read. Not that they are obscure; for the discussion is lively, clear and never dull. But it does happen that in reading some of his (Mr. Trudeau's) pages we are caught by our flagrant ignorance.

"At other times, our most secret prejudices, our weaknesses of thought, however well concealed are suddenly violently illuminated by his uncompromising analyses. The experience is painful; it is also extremely beneficial," wrote Mr. Pelletier.

There are those among the Liberals who would agree with Mr. Pelletier on rereading the Trudeau book. They found it "a painful experience." Some found it not entirely beneficial, others found it more illuminating now in the light of statements and actions of the prime minister since the general election.

Many members of the Liberal caucus now have a better understanding of the new Liberal leader. His discussions of federalism and the relationships with the provinces in the book bear second reading as a follow-up to the federal-provincial talks with the finance and health ministers and in preparation for the tough talks yet to come this month when the provinces once again go to Ottawa.

'Caught Hell'

The unhappiness manifest among some members of the caucus over his government's decisions came as a surprise to Mr. Trudeau. In the words of one leading Liberal, "the government caught hell." But the prime minister was not just on the receiving end. He fired back. He lectured the Liberals on their failure to do their homework and learn where they are heading, what the government hopes to achieve and how it will proceed.

Those who are re-reading the book will not get much enlightenment on the government's social welfare policies as they appeared to emerge at the last federal-provincial talks. Those policies—which are contrary to Liberal policies of the past—are being dictated by soaring costs. The government was forced to recognize that it has to call a halt to open-ended spending in this field.

The emphasis in Ottawa and the provinces will be on fiscal restraint. Committees are being set up to re-examine the high cost welfare programs that are shared by the provinces and federal governments.

The big "L" Liberals are disturbed because they have heard the possibility discussed in some government circles of major cutbacks in social welfare over and above what has been already announced. The federal government by the hard decisions already taken and disclosed at the federal-provincial conference early in November, expects to realize savings amounting to more than $100 million. Ottawa hopes to save at least 10 per cent of future annual health services bills by cutting out some programs and increasing the efficiency of others.

What has some of the big "L" Liberals bewildered is the talk behind the scenes that perhaps the time is not too far distant when family allowances might be dropped and the money spent to better benefit elsewhere in the welfare field. Many Liberals have come to regard family allowances as a symbol of Liberalism.

No 'Sacred Cows'

However, Finance Minister Edgar Benson said recently in an interview that he did not think there are any programs that are "sacred cows." He stressed that there are programs in the federal government that need to be changed and if the government found it would be advisable to alter those programs they would be changed.

The government asked deputy welfare minister Dr. J. W. Willard to make a report on the welfare programs and their effectiveness. When completed it will be studied by the cabinet. It should be completed by the year-end. It was commissioned several months ago. It was prompted because of the puzzlement in the administration as to why there is still so much poverty prevalent in Canada when there are such extensive social development programs.

Family allowances is one of the programs under examination. The prime minister has indicated that some such programs might have more effect if some degree of selectivity was introduced rather than following the principle of universality. Through selectivity it could be converted into an anti-poverty measure. But it is only one of several programs being studied.

Dr. Willard's report will go to a committee of the cabinet. There the problem of universality versus selectivity will have to be threshed out and decisions made. Don't be surprised if the family allowance plan undergoes alterations. This would be in line with former Conservative Manitoba premier Duff Roblin's thinking in the year or more before he left the premier's office.

It is no wonder that some of the big "L" Liberals in the party caucus have raised their voices. They are finding that Prime Minister Trudeau meant what he wrote when he declared in the foreword to his book: "The only constant factor to be found in my thinking over the years has been opposition to accepted opinions."

Trustee Qualifications

May I outline trustee qualifications as seen by a teacher?

1. The trustee must be prepared to actively promote the highest standard of education through public relations campaigns and community involvement.

2. Must have a high regard for the teaching profession and its service to the community.

3. Must avoid ever using the elected position of trustee for expression of personal bias on political or religious views.

4. Must have due regard for confidential matters and not betray privileged information.

5. Must have time to meet teachers and all community groups to hear views on education.

6. Must be knowledgeable on new school designs and involve teachers in the design and planning of new schools.

7. Must have as the major educational objective the development of the individual pupil to the highest self-concept of personal worth and self dignity.

8. Must strive to insure that all pupils are provided with useful education to 18 years of age.

9. Must be adequately informed on contemporary educational patterns and aware of proposed trends under way in pilot projects.

10. Must recognize the needs and opportunities for pupils at all post-secondary educational levels and the relationship of these institutions to our secondary schools.

11. Must have, as the prime motivation for community service, a fundamental interest in the education and well being of our children—Ross Regan, 2nd vice-president, GVTA.

FROM LONDON

By TIM TRAYNOR

Two Sides to the Coins

EUROPEAN commentators have been badly shaken by the outcome of the recent financial convulsion. The consensus is that pressures within the European monetary system should have been countered through moderate changes in the value of the German mark and the French franc, thus avoiding a deflationary clampdown and other innovations inhibiting trade and financial freedom. Despite the support measures arranged for the franc at the crisis meetings of the Group of Ten in Bonn, it is generally agreed that there was a movement away from intergovernment co-operation in the interests of monetary stability.

Traynor

The reluctance, for nationalistic reasons, to make remedial adjustments in exchange rates is seen as a retrograde development fraught with danger for the monetary system and thus the economy of the Western world. The measures adopted may quell the crisis for today, but, say many observers, it merely offsets deep disequilibria in the monetary system, and these may give rise to a new crisis at any time.

Susceptible to Pressures

The franc will remain susceptible to new pressure for a considerable period, and the danger is that in any new franc crisis a far greater devaluation would be necessary to relieve the pressures on France than would have been necessary under current conditions.

A substantial devaluation of the franc could precipitate a disorderly shakeup of currencies generally, undermining the current monetary system, which is based on stable relations between the values of non-Communist currencies. Such a breakdown could well exacerbate the deflationary, protectionist process now under way in Europe, ultimately bring on all-out protectionism in America, and possibly even a collapse on the pattern of the 'thirties.

Observers here cannot but marvel at General de Gaulle's skill and audacity in turning the danger surrounding the franc to his own advantage. By holding out against devaluation, he keeps the franc, and the world monetary system with it, in a precarious position. In their own interest, the other major powers are obliged to throw their weight behind the franc, as could be seen in the solicitous attitude of the United States and Germany.

Beyond this, however, there is every sort of recrimination among the three leading European countries. Gen. de Gaulle is condemned for reckless intransigence, the Germans for meanness and even arrogance in their refusal to ease the pressure on the system by revaluing the mark. The Germans are infuriated about what they consider excessive British pressure for revaluation of the mark.

Mitigating Factors

There are, however, some mitigating factors which may come into sharper focus once passions have subsided. Though there has doubtless been an element of nationalism is the defensive attitude toward exchange rates, it should be pointed out that within the context of the European Common Market changing currency values is a highly complicated process.

The member countries are bound within a single agricultural price system, which would be thrown into confusion by a change in the value of one currency, let alone two. Had one or both of France and Germany altered currency parity, the likelihood would have been that German farm incomes would have fallen and French food prices risen.

Against this background, there is an argument for maintaining present currency values, if at all possible. The argument is strengthened in the case of France by the fact that, despite the disruption of last spring, it is by no means certain that the French economy is too weak to support the existing currency parity. There is a good deal of justice in the argument that to devalue would be to give official sanction to the view of those who moved their money out of France on the grounds that the events of the spring had introduced an element of instability which would ultimately undermine the currency. It is certainly understandable that the Gaullists have chosen to meet this tendency head on, rather than bending to it.

Could Be Transient

Considering the always-sensitive political situation in Germany, there is something to be said, too, for the decision not to revalue the mark. The Germans argue that their dominant monetary position, being a reflection of their current dominance in the trading field, could easily pass away of its own accord at any time, should trading fortunes decline, as they have in the past. With their currency at the existing value, which is admitted to give them trading advantages, they would not be hit too severely in a recession.

If, on the other hand they had given away their advantage, such a session might have proved far more serious, possibly leading to a domestic political crisis similar to that which brought the present coalition government to power.

A. T. Goward, local manager of the Victoria Gas Company, has written council to say that the company makes about five tons a month of coke breeze which the city could have for $1.50 a ton. This material is useful in the laying-down of macadam roadways. Mr. Goward then stated that there were 75 tons of clinkers at the gas works which the city could have if it carted the material away.

It's Bryce Mackasey, the 47-year-old minister of labor and he's a little out of place in this eclectic administration that combines the cool intelligence of the new technocrats, long since bored by the conditioned reflexes of small "l" liberalism, with the hard cynicism of the veteran ministers whose political steepings have grown dark and bitter, like tea bags left in the pot too long.

Mackasey has never for a moment in a hard lifetime been either cool or cynical. He charges into each day, his enthusiasm tempered by an inner awareness of his own vulnerability, a craggy character with calloused hands and uncalloused instincts.

The labor portfolio he occupies has for years been a throw-away job held by a succession of misfits, time-serving tokens to Ottawa's reluctant recognition that labor too has a legitimate claim on the benefits of our evolving society.

Lobbied to Get the Job

Mackasey lobbied with both Pearson and Trudeau to get the labor job and he's already turning what was a minor portfolio into the main source of compassionate policy-making in a government publicly dedicated to the Just Society.

His department, which has suffered from low morale since its staff was reduced by two-thirds in 1965 when most of its newsworthy functions were transferred to the then new manpower ministry, is being revitalized with a new deputy, new ideas and Mackasey's own inexhaustible zeal.

The minister loves his title, his department and his responsibilities. He's proudest of what he calls "my war room"—an office on the thirteenth floor of his department building, manned by busy assistants putting little plastic markers into a wall-size pegboard.

It's a giant critical path flow chart which keeps track of Mackasey's daily timetable and tries to correlate it with 23 new programs under study in his department.

It also lists some of the main events in Mackasey's future and the biggest, brightest marker of them all is reserved for December 19, 1968—the day he hopes Canada's railways will reach an agreement with their operating unions.

Intervention Unusual

Mackasey's intervention in the rail wage dispute at this early stage in the negotiations is highly unusual. Contracts are normally allowed to run out without action being taken until a crisis stage is reached, usually in midsummer, and steps to recall Parliament have to be made (or threatened) to impose some form of compulsory arbitration.

Instead, Mackasey has, with the consent of both management and the unions, injected the services of a mediator to attempt a settlement now even before the current contract runs out—while there is still what Mackasey calls "a residue of goodwill on both sides." (The unions are asking for a 32 per cent increase in a two-year contract.)

"I'm determined to stop the ritualistic dance of having major disputes go to conciliation and arbitration," he says. "Nobody wants a strike. It's an admission of defeat, like two nations that drift reluctantly into war." He plans to expand his policy of strike prevention by developing a group of expert mediators ready to move into threatening situations.

Bryce Mackasey

Mackasey had his first personal triumph in labor relations when he'd been in his department less than three months.

This was his last-minute settlement of the grainhandlers strike on September 13, 1968, when he went over the heads of the negotiators and hammered out an agreement directly with management at 5:30 in the morning of the day Parliament opened. (It was probably the only strike in Canadian history settled by a minister of labor wearing a tuxedo. Mackasey went to the negotiations straight from the Governor-General's Ball inaugurating the new session.)

Earlier in the year he visited the Montreal waterfront to make sure that management had put in new washrooms for dockworkers promised in a conciliation report. When he found they were inadequate he put pressure on the companies for new facilities and attended their unveiling.

Mackasey's feelings for labor are in the bone. The son of a CNR machinist, he served for 12 years as a shop steward for the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, made two attempts to take university courses but had to quit each time to help support his family.

He earned part of his tuition by playing hockey and fighting sixty welter-weight bouts (he won fifty-nine) and later by operating a small printing firm.

Gets Stanfield's Goat

In the House of Commons, Mackasey is one of the few ministers able to rouse the ire of Robert Stanfield who once called him "the Liberal party's 'Hatchetman' " a label Mackasey boasts about whenever he gets the chance.

The real test of Mackasey's political skill will come when he introduces legislation incorporating the recommendations of the Freedman Report, which will limit management's rights in layoffs resulting from technological changes. "Management must realize," he says, "that the real philosophy of the Freedman Report makes it very clear big business today has a moral responsibility, before introducing technological changes, to make sure these changes cause the minimum of disruption, that they are revealed soon enough to make certain that employees have time and opportunity to adjust to those changes. I hope that this moral obligation becomes more and more apparent to management, that it's reflected more and more in collective agreements, that it's reflectected more and more in positive action."

Despite the heart attack he suffered while cheering on Trudeau's supporters on the day of the Liberal leadership convention, Mackasey puts in a 14-hour day and seems to thrive on his exhausting schedule.

Avoided Cabinet Fights

He has so far avoided major clashes with the reactionary elements within the Trudeau government but he did argue vigorously inside cabinet against E. J. Benson's $120 limit on the 2 per cent tax imposed in the last budget.

Not the least of the qualities that makes Mackasey unusual in this regime is his sentimentality. He was committed wholeheartedly to Lester Pearson ("I love the guy") and had to leave the caucus at which the former prime minister announced his resignation last December because he was crying too loud to stay.

Despite his "war room" and his "critical path flows," he's not really at home with the technocratic aspects of this administration and no one would be very surprised to see him resign within the next four years on a question of deeply felt principle.

Meanwhile he goes on attacking accepted beliefs, laughing a lot, crying a little, and taking risks where other ministers scurry for the safe options.

"I never saw a man in my life I felt afraid of," he says, and then adds reflectively, "I guess I'm not really intelligent enough to be scared."

Here We Go Round Profligate's Pole

By GEORGE BAIN

OTTAWA — The National Museum of Man, which is described as one of the complex of national museums of Canada, has just announced that it has let contracts worth more than $300,000 for study and research.

For instance, Dr. Pearl Weinberger, an Associate Professor of Biology at Ottawa University, is conducting "controlled experiments of the effects of vocal and instrumental folk music on the germination and growth of plants."

By one of those strokes of chance that regularly leave me agog, it happens that once, in the course of my professional duty, I came across the trail of a woman who claimed to have excited potted marigolds into increased growth by doing the Indian Bharata Natyam dance in front of them each morning.

If that information is of any use to Dr. Weinberger, she is welcome.

Another of the studies—72 are listed— is by Dr. Milton R. Freeman, of Memorial University. His is described as "a comprehensive study among Canadian Eskimo groups focusing on man-dog interaction in its several forms."

I hesitate to speculate on what that may involve, and Dr. Freeman will have to struggle along without me.

However, if it's not too late, I wonder if I could make an offering to Mrs. Margaret McTaggart, of Vancouver? She is making musical transcriptions of English folk songs recorded in British Columbia by Dr. Fern Pickering and Kenneth Peterson, and it happens that I am in possession of a rather rare old English folk song from British Columbia.

It is usually sung by a mixed group of young people, who, having covered themselves with oak moss and blue paint, raise cups of warmed mead and sing (preferably in a sylvan glade):

A marvellous man is Bennett is he,
Sing ho, sing hi, sing fiddle-dee-dee,
He dwells on a throne on the Western slope,
Defender and Sachem, Oracle, Pope,
Symbol of goodness, and progress, and hope,
A marvellous man is Bennett is he.

At the end of each verse, the young men and women join hands in a ring and dance around what is called the Profligate's Pole, which symbolizes the central Government, or Ottawa. On a count of three, the dancing stops, and a patriarchal figure steps to the centre to sing this haunting (solo) chorus:

Don't you go, my Mary Jane,
For you won't get back aye-gain,
If you once dee-part this land that Bennett's saved,
Though the East may spell romance
It's all deficit finance
And French in schools and other things depraved.

At this, the circle breaks up and the young people scurry back to their original places, shaking their hands over their heads and exclaiming, "Hail—British Columbia!" They then take up the folk song again.

Snakeless the Eden of Bennett's B.C.,
Sing vow, tee-dow, and Gag-lee-ar-dee,
The province is pure, unencumbered by debt,
Folk earn a livin' with minimal sweat,
They'll make it a branch of the REAL Heaven yet,
Snakeless the Eden of Bennett's B.C.

It is worth noting here, that when the first English settlers arrived in British Columbia, bringing with them their folk songs, the Bennett they sang about was a mythical figure, of supposedly magical powers, who dwelt in a fold in the Cotswolds.

(Or on a cot in the Foldswolds, if any. The important thing is that the Bennett of the song was a mythical figure, and has remained so to this day.)

Once more the singers make their ring around the Profligate's Pole, and, again, the patriarch comes forward to sing a cautionary chorus.

Don't you go, oh, Billy boy,
You're our very life and joy,
And Ottawa, a jade that stirs our fears,
It is fickle, nothing loath,
To amend, rewrite, or both
A constitution every hundred years.

All back to places.

The air of a yeoman has Bennett has he,
There's nothing that's fickle, reformist in him . . .

Chiang Tightens the Screws

By STANLEY KARNOW

TAIPEI, Taiwan — The Chinese Nationalist regime appears to be alienating increasing numbers of scholars, students and professional people here by intensifying its crackdowns on alleged political dissidence in this island redoubt.

Repressive measures within recent months have ranged from the arrests of suspected Communist sympathizers and elements believed to favor Taiwanese independence to the closing of a bookshop that specialized in liberal Western literature.

Several prominent figures, including a former Chinese ambassador to Washington, have also been attacked by conservative Nationalist publications for maintaining close relations with United States academic circles and accepting funds from American philanthropic foundations.

In style if not substance, these moves somewhat resemble Red Chinese campaigns against intellectuals who fail to conform to Communist leader Mao Tse-tung's orthodoxy. The official line here, set by President Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang, tolerates no criticism of the Nationalist hope of recovering China.

CHING-KUO

In the estimation of observers here, the nationalist repression reflects a variety of trends that have evolved in Taiwan over the past few years.

The island's remarkable prosperity has contributed to broader education and increasing pressures for liberalization. But at the same time, the growing influence of Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo, the president's elder son and heir-apparent, has strengthened the focus on authoritarian methods.

Denied Family Visit

Moreover, some analysts here suggest, the termination of American economic aid in 1965 has reduced Taiwan's dependence on the United States and, as a result, has lessened the Nationalists' concern with the effects of their conduct on U.S. public opinion.

The latest crackdown here has been against seven young men accused of having held secret meetings since 1966 to study Communist documents, foster the establishment of socialism and promote the "liberation" of Taiwan.

Arrested in June and tried by a military court on Nov. 8, the seven defendants are liable to imprisonment of 10 years or more. They have not yet been sentenced and, judging from similar cases in the past, could remain in jail awaiting sentence for as long as two years.

According to their indictment, which has never been made public, the group violated a temporary 1949 statute for the "suppression of rebellion" by listening to Chinese Communist radio broadcasts and circulating the works of Mao Tse-tung.

The indictment specified, however, that the group, which called itself the "Taiwan Democratic Union," did not go beyond discussions of radical ideas.

In addition to the seven defendants, at least 11 or 12 others are said to have been involved with the group. It is uncertain how many of these have been arrested or when they will be tried.

U.S. Aid Terminated

As in similar cases here, the group was held incommunicado during the investigation and was denied visits by family or friends for five months following the arrests. The court martial, conducted by three officers of the Taiwan garrison command, was held in secret.

The head of the purportedly pro-Communist group, Chen Yung-shan, 31, was scheduled to go to the United States last September on a $3,500 grant to attend a writers' workshop at the University of Iowa.

The grant was partly provided by the U.S. Educational Foundation, an official American body. At the time of his arrest, Chen was an employee of Pfizer Limited, the Taiwan subsidiary of the American pharmaceutical firm.

Funds for Chen's legal defence have been promised by the University of Iowa. But efforts by the director of the Iowa writers' workshop, Paul Engle, to elicit information from the Nationalist authorities have met with failure.

High-Place Relative

An unusual member of the group was Chiu Yen-liang, 23, a student of anthropology at Taiwan University. Chiu is the brother-in-law of Chiang Wei-kuo, President Chiang's younger son and head of the Nationalist army's military academy.

According to sources acquainted with him, Chiu strongly opposed the Kuomintang and sometimes indicates his interest in defecting to Communist China.

Less publicized abroad, however, was the roundup last summer of seven employees of the government radio station, charged with operating a Communist network to broadcast state secrets to Red China.

In addition to these arrests, numerous Taiwanese professors have lost their jobs for suspected political activities aimed at gaining more of a voice in public affairs for the island's native population, which outnumbers the mainland Chinese here by about 10 to one.

The present conservative atmosphere contrasts with the relative intellectual freedom that existed here a decade ago. Among other things, the Nationalists were anxious at that time to create a favorable image in the United States.

But since then, the Nationalists, have shown less and less tolerance for unconventional attitudes, and much independent political thinking is likely to be labeled as "pro-Communist."

Western leanings are also frowned upon and even a prestigious figure like Wang Shih-chieh, a former ambassador to the United States and now director of the Academia Sinica, has come under fire for his friendship with Harvard professor John K. Fairbank.

In some ways, this insistence on intellectual conformity has prompted youths to react excessively by adopting views that actually seem communistic. Accordingly, many of those arrested are really in possession of Communist literature and have, therefore, committed a crime.

For the most part, though, young people here seek to escape rather than rebel. Of the estimated 2,500 youths who go to the U.S. to study every year, for example, only about five per cent return.

At the same time, as the old leadership of Kuomintang dies, the lack of political vitality here is bound to affect the future organizational structure of the Taiwan government.

Thus the island is incongruously caught between economic excitement and political stagnation, with the diehard Nationalists striving, like bourbons, to hold back intellectual change that is certain to engulf them eventually.

Today,
your car insurance
protected you from hailstorms, fire and falling stars, vandalism,
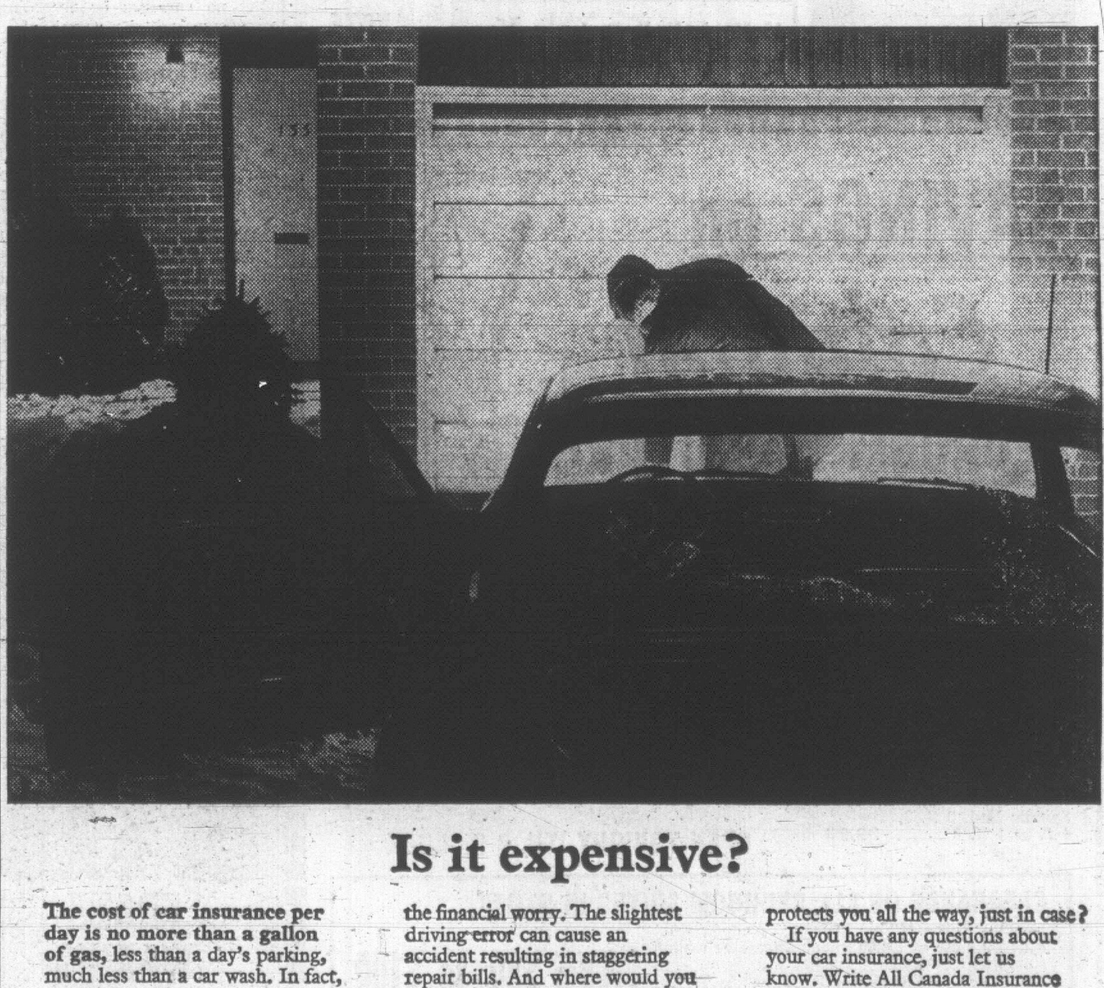
other drivers…and yourself.



Is it expensive?

The cost of car insurance per day is no more than a gallon of gas, less than a day's parking, much less than a car wash. In fact, the average driver pays no more than 35¢* a day for car insurance.

If you are in a serious accident, car insurance can make the difference between financial security—and bankruptcy. A personal injury accident causes physical suffering. Car insurance helps relieve the financial worry. The slightest driving error can cause an accident resulting in staggering repair bills. And where would you be if your car caught fire or was stolen? When you realize how much you get, for so little, car insurance is quite a bargain.

Of course, accidents are just so many ifs. Until you have one. And we honestly hope you don't. But isn't it comforting to know car insurance protects you all the way, just in case?

If you have any questions about your car insurance, just let us know. Write All Canada Insurance Information Service, Suite 200, 170 University Ave., Toronto 1, representing the majority of competing insurance companies in Canada.

Rapid Expansion Concerns Candidates

Two incumbents and four newcomers are competing for three seats on the Sooke school board in Saturday's elections.

In the Belmont sector, board chairman Dr. James Portelance and trustee Mrs. Isabelle Reader are being challenged by James Chidlow and former trustee Darvis Cook.

In the outlying Milnes Landing area the contest is between Ronald Fitton, a trustee in 1963-64, and Alfred Raue.

School enrolment has just passed 5,000 in the sprawling district, encompassing Langford and Colwood and reaching west to Port Renfrew. Rapid expansion appears likely in the area with a power project at Jordan River next spring expected to draw many construction families with school-age children.

CANDIDATE VIEWS

Brief summaries of the candidates:

In the Belmont sector (two seats open):

James Chidlow, 47, of 3672 Happy Valley Rd., a navy fire fighter, he has three children, one in school. This is his first attempt at public office.

"Somewhere along the line we've got to find a way of utilizing our schools more fully to offset rising costs," he says.

Buildings should not be phased out just because they are old. Mr. Chidlow suggests repairs are sometimes cheaper than renewal.

His job allows him the necessary time to devote to the trustee's task, he adds.

Darvis Cook, 46, of 1076 Jenkins Ave., a plywood worker, was a school board member in 1966-67.

Using education funds to best advantage is the main job of trustees, he says. He is opposed to amalgamation of the three school districts in the capital region.

Dr. James Portelance took over chairmanship of the board two months ago with the resignation of John Bartanus when he moved from the district.

He feels amalgamation of school districts would lead to loss of contact between public and trustees. The school board's primary task is good management of the district's swift expansion.

Mrs. Isabelle Reader, 3608 Happy Valley Rd., a housewife completing her 14th year on the school board.

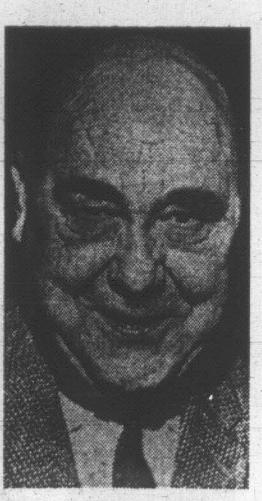
JAMES CHIDLOW

DARVIS COOK

DR. JAMES PORTELANCE

MRS. ISABELLE READER

RONALD FITTON



ALFRED RAUE

Finance is always an issue trustees have to battle with, she says. In addition, she is concerned with the type of program offered in the classroom.

"I think the most important thing is for the young to learn how to learn, to attain a sense of values in this changing world and to learn at an early age how to make decisions."

The quality of teachers and the quality and size of school libraries are vital, she adds. Providing good education without overburdening the taxpayer means "walking a tightrope."

Milnes Landing sector (one seat open):

Ronald Fitton, 46, of 6470 Sooke Rd., a radio and TV technician, was a trustee in 1963-64 and has one child, in school.

The school board's job is to see children get the best education the system can provide, he says. More co-operation is needed between parents, teachers and administration and particularly, closer ties between taxpayer and board.

Mr. Fitton said he wants to see the overloading of teachers stopped and to ensure there is economy and efficiency in management of the school district.

Alfred Raue, 57, of 6656 Horne Rd., a retired building supply businessman, has one child in school and is seeking public office for the first time.

He is concerned with providing enough classroom accommodation for anticipated enrolment increase when work begins on the power project.

Another subject he feels needs study is the tax contribution from trailer home owners towards schools. He is not convinced these residents are paying enough towards education of their children.

Uvic Senate Open Meeting Interest Lags

Interest in the first public meeting of the University of Victoria senate has been slow to build up.

Tickets for the 50 or 60 persons to be permitted in a public gallery during the meeting went up for grabs Wednesday and only five persons asked for them.

Two of those were members of the public not connected with the university, a registrar's office source said.

The senate decided to go public only three weeks ago, after years of traditionally meeting in private.

Reports of several university committees will be discussed, including one suggesting stronger advisory systems for students and looser regulations governing examinations.

Another report deals with entrance requirements for students coming from outside the province and from regional colleges in British Columbia.

The tickets granting entry to the meeting—obtainable from the registrar's office—stress that no cameras or recording equipment will be permitted.

Brain Damage Killed Woman Road Victim

A 27-year-old woman killed in a traffic accident Sunday died of head injuries and brain damage, a coroner's jury was told Wednesday night.

Dr. Kenneth Thornton, Royal Jubilee Hospital pathologist was testifying at the inquest into the death of Mrs. Dolores Halbert, 65 Kingham Place.

The woman died six hours after a head-on collision on McKenzie Ave. The inquest will resume in the Saanich courtroom at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 16.

COAST TO COAST NEWSPAPERS SELL THE MOST

Sewer Contract Charges Spark Candidate Exchange

Sparks flew between Ald. Leslie Passmore, a member of the regional board, and Gordon Campbell, one of the board's critics, at a Saanich all-candidates meeting Thursday.

The exchange came during replies by the candidates to a question on the regional board. Mr. Campbell charged the board with having let $5.5 million in contracts for construction of a sewer network.

He quoted a newspaper column and an unidentified engineering company as sources for his charge that this money was being spent by a body that was not responbislbe either to local councils or the voters.

Ald. Passmore read from a letter from Mayor Hugh Curtis, chairman of the regional board, that denied the charge. It was dated Sept. 25 which showed, he said, "how long this lie has been spread."

Ald. Passmore later apologized to Mr. Campbell and the meeting for his use of the word "lie."

The letter stated that a regional sewage network is expected to cost about $5.5 million, but the only contracts so far let are for a preliminary study of the situation. The value is $23,500.

He suggested "a responsible candidate" would have contacted board officials to check his facts before laying charges.

Only six of the eight candidates for four council seats appeared at the meeting in Frank Hobbs School on Haro Road.

26 ATTEND

They were heard by 26 people which brings total attendance at the two Saanich all-candidate meetings to 61. Saanich, the largest Vancouver Island municipality, has 29,783 eligible voters.

Candidates Roger Bishop and Lionel Speller were unable to attend.

Frank Waring, seeking his first council seat, warned the audience that proper sewage treatment facilities will cost "a lot of money."

He said council should not fight with the senior governments over the issue. Rather it should co-operate with the provincial government "to make the best deal possible."

Garbage collection in Saanich is becoming too expensive, he said. The municipality should take over collection itself and stop having a contractor do it.

Ald. Ed Lum said both financial assistance and initiative for anti-pollution schemes should come from the provincial and federal governments. "Pollution knows no boundaries."

Ald. Harold C. Todd warned that while "there is a move afoot" to put planning under regional board jurisdiction, local planning should be left to local government. The municipalities are "more sensitive to the wishes of the people."

Ald. Alan Newberry said there is a priority need in Saanich for an expanded library system.

"There should be branch libraries throughout the municipality."

Saanich now has only one, he said.

Boys' Parliament Session Dec. 27-31

The organization describes itself as a training-ground for citizenship, parliamentary procedures and learning government systems.

Its projects include running the George Pringle Memorial Camp at Shawnigan Lake for a week and last year they helped build a combined church and meeting hall on the Nitinaht reserve on Nitinaht Lake.

The Victoria meeting runs from Dec. 27 to 31.

'Learn to Live With Pollution'

By JOHN SLINGER

Ontario's resources minister has added pollution to the list of things we will always have with us.

The important thing is to learn to live with pollution at a tolerable level, J. R. Simonett told a press conference at the conclusion of a Canadian Council of Resources Ministers seminar Thursday.

He agreed with a suggestion that the tolerable level has been passed. Once it is brought within bounds, though, a lot of money will have to be spent "just to stay with it."

Federal and provincial ministers and civil servants attended the seminar on water resources at the Empress Hotel.

B.C. Resources Minister Ray Williston said one consensus of the council was a need to gather all pollution problems and controls under a single authority.

There now is duplication of efforts of such agencies as the provincial health department and the federal fisheries department.

Federal Industries Minister Pepin said a second consensus concerned a change of federal focus on water policies and problems.

The ministers agreed that water issues should be settled along regional, not provincial or national lines.

The federal government should concentrate its efforts on major programs that have interprovincial or international implications.

It was a switch from earlier federal thinking that the government should be involved in all aspects of water.

Ministers emphasized to reporters that the meeting was not to draw policy. It was to exchange information on local problems and discuss guidelines for possible presentation to the various governments.

A slightly critical note was added by J. S. Cram, a former senior editor of the Family Herald, commissioned by the council to write a book on Canadian water needs and resources.

He said the ministers and other experts were off the track when they expressed concern about depletion of rivers and lakes.

There is 80 times more ground water—soaked into the soil—than there is surface water, he said.

Oil Company Rejects B.C. Payment Demand

By JOHN MIKA

Shell Oil Company today dug in its heels and said it doesn't owe the provincial government some $1.3 million in offshore oil exploration fees which Premier Bennett demanded it pay up.

The argument dealt a severe blow to the B.C. cabinet's bargaining position on the continental shelf jurisdiction dispute with Ottawa because it showed even the business world doesn't take seriously Premier Bennett's claim of ownership.

The B.C. cabinet, almost stridently, has derided the Supreme Court of Canada's opinion handed down 13 months ago that under the constitution the federal government and not the province has title to the continental shelf.

Shell Oil's action shows that the B.C. cabinet claim to jurisdiction not only lost in the courtroom but also in terms of practical politics.

SINKING 11TH HOLE

The company, only one with an offshore drilling rig which now is sinking its 11th hole near the Queen Charlotte Islands, touched off the whole issue by beginning its undersea exploration program about eight years ago.

Almost immediately the federal and provincial governments locked into an argument as to which authority had jurisdiction to issue exploration permits — and collect royalties if a strike was made.

Shell, prudently hedging its bets to avoid being squeezed as the man-in-the-middle, took out federal permits in 1961 and provincial permits in 1963 on about 13 million overlapping acres of sea bed along the west coast of Vancouver Island and other parts of the B.C. coast.

Under the various terms, it paid only a nominal sum to the federal government which issued permits designed mainly to ensure certain levels of exploration but the provincial permits resulted in a payment to B.C. of about $2.5 million in permit fees until 1967.

Since then, the provincial terms have required a payment of about $1.3 million for last year and this year. But it hasn't been paid by the company.

'REMAIN IN TREASURY'

Only Tuesday, Premier Bennett said that Shell Oil had continued paying its offshore permit fees into the provincial treasury "and there it will remain" no matter what happens at any meeting with the federal government to discuss splitting offshore revenues.

He used the Shell Oil payment as one of the supports to hold up his argument that despite the Supreme Court of Canada's opinion, B.C. owns the continental shelf and has complete jurisdiction.

He said he would take this argument to Ottawa and demanded a private Ottawa-B.C. meeting to decide the question next spring on the grounds that it was Shell's activity here which made B.C. the only province with anything actively at stake.

But Thursday it was learned that Shell Oil, which has a vital interest in making the right decision, stopped paying the provincial permit fees last year.

Deputy Mines Minister Kenneth Blakey said the company was "in default" for its 1967 and 1968 payments and Premier Bennett warned "if I was them I'd pay up — I suggest they do it now if they haven't already."

He wouldn't say what retaliation — if any — he would mount if his warning was ignored.

Shell Oil company's Calgary office today issued this statement:

"Shell Oil Canada confirms that since the opinion of the Supreme Court on the offshore mineral rights reference was handed down, the company has ceased making payments to the provincial government of British Columbia under terms of the provincial permits granted and is continuing its west coast offshore exploration program under the terms of the permits issued by the federal government."

Bodyguard Held

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Peter Joseph Notaro, 55, described as a bodyguard for reputed Mafia leader Joe Bonanno, turned himself in to the U.S. marshal's office in Tucson Thursday.

Notaro was indicted by a federal grand jury in New York two days ago in connection with an alleged credit card swindle.

U.S. commissioner Raymond Terlizzi ordered Notaro held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Elderly Woman Injured in Mishap

An elderly woman who police said twisted her ankle as she was about to cross a street, fell to the roadway and was struck by a car, is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mrs. Alice Ritchie, 61, of 3126 Harriet, suffered bruises and a broken wrist in the collision Thursday at the corner of Broad and Fort.

Police said the driver of the vehicle was Peter Wong, 3585 Richmond. He was attempting to park his car, police said.

No Outside Vending

LONDON (Reuters) — Westminster City council Thursday night rejected 28 to 26 a plan to stand contraceptive vending machines outside barber shops and drug stores here.

Council member John Walker-Smith, who proposed the plan, said he thought it better that people should be promiscuous with contraceptives than without them.

Tories Walk Out In Ottawa Row

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative MPs stormed out of the Commons transport committee today, leaving it without a quorum after 30 chaotic minutes of arguments and motions.

The opposition MPs said the meeting could not get under way without a chairman.

Conservative MPs shouted that Mr. Blouin was removed because he was in the chair Nov. 28 when a Conservative motion to delay proposed abandonment of CNR passenger rail service in Newfoundland was passed.

Liberal MPs said Mr. Blouin was ill and in hospital and tried to have Vice-chairman Pat Mahoney (L—Calgary South) run the meeting.

The high point came with a 9-to-9 deadlock vote on a Liberal motion to have Mr. Mahoney become chairman.

Strachan Supports Bennett on Offshore Criticism

By JOHN MIKA

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan Thursday lined up with Premier Bennett in resisting Prime Minister Trudeau's proposal for splitting jurisdiction and revenues from the continental shelf.

But the NDP leader also took a swipe at Mr. Bennett for an irrelevant proposal on extending the province's boundaries instead of raising important issues for B.C. at the constitutional conference opening in Ottawa Dec. 16.

Mr. Strachan told reporters he has "to support Premier Bennett in being critical of the federal proposal on offshore minerals" — but in fact he went much further than the premier in criticizing Mr. Trudeau's proposals.

NOT JUSTIFIED

Mr. Strachan said he accepts the judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada that the continental shelf belongs to the federal government and believes "there should be a division of the revenues—but not of mineral administration."

He said the monetary split should depend on negotiations and the costs of administering the undersea resources and would not suggest his personal opinion on how revenues should be split.

But he attacked Mr. Trudeau's monetary split as "completely arbitrary and a unilateral decision obviously" that had not been backed up by a rational argument to justify its form.

'NONSENSE'

More important, Mr. Strachan said, it was "nonsense" for Ottawa to set up a new and additional administrative agency to oversee the continental shelf minerals when the province already has a department for administering mineral development.

He said Ottawa should negotiate a monetary split of revenues and put administration entirely into provincial hands.

"I disagree with the whole Trudeau concept," he said.

Then, training his guns on Mr. Bennett, he told enquiring reporters that he thought the B.C. delegation to the constitutional conference should raise five subjects.

"In my opinion, these five things—rather than talking about taking over the Yukon—would be better serving Canada and British Columbia," he said.

The changes he advocated were:

- Transfer of jurisdiction over native Indians to the provinces along with financial resources which would allow the provinces to produce more improvements in the Indian condition than Ottawa has done;
- Create a national policy for protecting Canadian investors—through a federal agency similar to the Securities Exchange Commission in the U.S.—to prevent repetitions or recent financial scandals in Ontario and the need for the current B.C. investigation of the Commonwealth group of companies and individuals, some of whom have been charged by Ottawa with income tax offences;
- Set up a national policy, along the lines of the Watkins report, to open up ownership opportunities for Canadians in foreign companies now operating in Canada but freezing out Canadian investors;
- Establish a national agency for "pollution control and elimination because the provinces can't do it alone;"
- Create a more effective national housing policy to replace the present situation in which Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation is unable to assist home acquisition except for families with income levels of $8,000 or higher a year.

CFB to Fete Deprived Children

Three Christmas parties for paraplegic, handicapped and underprivileged children will be held in the Old Gymnasium at the Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, Dec. 18.

They are being organized by officers and men of CFB Esquimalt, who have donated more than $850 for the purchase of gifts for the children.

The parties are timed as follows: 10 a.m., British Columbia Society for Crippled Children; 1 p.m., Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children; 4 p.m., Indian children from local reservations and children of needy families.

Entertainment will include movies, magic, carol singing, a trampoline gymnastic display, clowns and distribution of gifts by Santa Claus.

Candy, ice cream and soft drinks will be served.

Next Week Set For Uvic Exams

Next week is Christmas examination time for mor ethan 3,100 students of the University of Victoria.

More than 200 formal exams have been scheduled to run through to Dec. 17, registrar Ronald Ferry said Thursday.

In addition, an unknown number of classroom examinations will be held by professors for senior students.

Most of those writing their term papers are students in first and second year—the 3,100 total.

Students have also been given a logner than usual holiday this year, until Jan. 6, because students can't be expected to travel back to the university for one or two days of classes before the weekend, Mr. Ferry said.

NEW DATSUN 1600
more than ever,
the more-for-your-money cars

three for the road The Datsun 1600 changed a lot of people's ideas about economy cars. It proved that a compact-sized, low-cost car can look good, give five hefty Canadians a quiet and comfortable ride, handle and perform like high-priced imports — yet still be economical to run and low on maintenance.

This year, the new Datsun 1600s are loaded with more new ideas and features to make them even better and safer than ever before! We also added a new model.

Now you have a choice of three Datsun 1600s: the sporty new 2-door, a deluxe 4-door and deluxe family wagon.

engineered for safety The Datsun 1600 is one economy car that didn't skimp on safety. To start with, Datsun has a specially designed impact-absorbing body to protect passengers inside the car.

And the Datsun 1600 sedans have a remarkable all-independent suspension system that makes the car amazingly nimble, easy to handle and gives a smooth, level ride over the roughest Canadian roads.

Disc brakes up front, now with the double protection of twin master cylinders, stop you sure and straight. Other standard safety equipment: a life saving collapsible steering column, headrests, belt/shoulder harnesses, 4 headlights, heavily padded dash and interior fittings, plus quite a few more.

Datsun 1600 is probably the safest economy car you can own.

96 hp, 100 mph, 30-35 mpg
Datsun's got safety and performance.

In its price class, only Datsun 1600 gives you a high-performance 1600 cc overhead cam engine that's good for 96 HP and 100 MPH. It means great pick up and all-day cruising at 70 MPH. And all the time you'll get 30-35 miles per gallon.

Go for the butter-smooth 4-on-the-floor with stick or the 3-speed Borg-Warner automatic—either way you've got a lot of fun-driving ahead of you!

quiet and comfortable The Datsun 1600 has "windows up" ventilation. Fresh air streams in through adjustable ventilators on the dash, circulates, and stale air is automatically extracted through rear vents. The instant-acting heater/defroster keeps you warm and your windows clear through the coldest Canadian winters. You get a quiet, comfortable ride in a Datsun!

We've got 150 Datsun dealers coast-to-coast in Canada and $1,000,000 in parts to back you. There are more than 700 Datsun Dealers in North America — so you're never far from service. Test drive Datsun 1600 at your nearest dealer soon!

Contract Awarded

VANCOUVER (CP) — University of British Columbia said Thursday a contract worth almost $3,000,000 has been awarded to Laing Construction and Equipment Co. for an addition to the UBC biological sciences building. The addition will provide both teaching and study space.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto, N.Y. Post Gains

Both Toronto and New York markets edged higher today. Trading was active at Toronto and moderate on Wall Street.

Price changes were generally small on both exchanges.

AT TORONTO, in industrials, Famous Players gained 3 to 76½, Bell 1⅞ to 49¾ and Consolidated Bathurst 1⅞ to 22.

Home Oil A rose 2⅝ to 37⅛, Canadian Superior 2½ to 55½ and National Pete 80 cents to $7.00. Scurry-Rainbow lost ½ to 43¾.

Bethlehem Copper was up ⅞ to 17⅞ Bankino 80 cents to $7.75 and Preston ¾ to 20¼.

At NEW YORK, an improvement by steels was linked with news of recent price boosts and a more favorable attitude towards steel stocks in some Wall Street quarters.

American Telephone recouped a point of recent losses taken in reaction to the higher interest rate for commercial borrowers announced by U.S. major banks early this week.

Consolidated Bathurst gained 2¼ to 22¼ and Fleetwood 1 to 25. Famous Players fell 3¼ to 71 and Texaco 1½ to 31½.

Home Oil issues were strong as the company's A stock climbed 2¼ to 36¾ and the B, up 1⅝ to 37¾.

Among the most active traders, Massey-Ferguson rose ⅜ to 23¼ and Levy ⅜ to 36½. Husky and Price slipped ⅛ each to 25½ and 14 respectively.

AT LONDON the government stocks continued to decline and equities were unsettled today on the stock market.

Dollar stocks were mostly lower, with Standard Oil of New Jersey, U.S. Steel and General Motors showing losses of 2 to 3½. Chrysler and Gillette both added about $4, while Ford and Shell rose 2½ each.

Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas fell 3 among Canadians, while Cominco, Pacific Pete and Imperial Oil all lost about 1½. Brazilian Light and Power and Hiram Walker edged higher.

Toronto Dominion rose 7 shillings among the banks. Nova Scotia and Imperial Commerce improved but U.K. issues eased. Insurances were quiet.

AT VANCOUVER Sunlite led the oils section in pre-noon trading, jumping $1.50 to $11 on 33,200 shares.

In the industrials, Fields gained $1 to $20 and PWA was .25 better at $13.75. EDP lost .50 to $20.50.

Marshall Creek was the most active mining issue and lost .05 to .65 on 208,000 shares.

Alwin rose .15 to $2.40 on 21,200 shares and Kimberley put on a similar amount to $1.95.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Oilseeds maintained a stronger price pattern to the close of trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, but volume turned light at mid-session.

Export interest in rapeseed continued moderately aggressive but prices moved up due to light offerings coming from commission houses and locals on the scale up.

There was a little short covering in flaxseed, mostly by locals.

Oats saw a moderate amount of domestic shipper buying and December and May futures moved up fractionally.

CANADIANS GETTING FAT

EDMONTON (CP) — The president of Canada Trust-Huron and Erie thinks Canadians are living too high on the hog for their own good.

"There is only so much money in Canada and we have to decide how to use it best," J. Allyn Taylor said.

"If we spend it on medicare, or similar things, it means we have that much less to reinvest for productivity purposes."

He said Medicare should be pulled back and public spending restrained.

NOVEL program of taking art to industry will have Victoria sendoff Tuesday when Victoria Chamber of Commerce president Clare Copeland opens Art Gallery exhibit of Dutch works painted for cigaret factories.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

Editor: G. S. Kent

Commonwealth Group

Receiver A. D. Peter Stanley's control over the Commonwealth Trust group of companies is extended to Monday by Mr. Justice T. A. Dohm of the British Columbia Supreme Court.

The application to continue Mr. Stanley's receivership was scheduled for opposition from company lawyers but Mr. Justice Dohm was committed to a jury trial which had priority over the Commonwealth case.

Mr. Stanley was appointed receiver over the companies early in September after an investigation was launched by William Irwin, provincial superintendent of Brokers.

Log Export Drop

A Pacific northwest lumberman says log exports to Japan will decrease for the next several months.

G. Cleveland Edgett, Portland, vice president of Western Wood Products Association, said Japanese port facilities are jammed with logs.

"The overcrowding is primarily due to panic log buying policies by Japanese trading houses following indications earlier this year that limitations would be placed on the export of logs from federal timber lands in the U.S." he said.

Bethlehem Steel

Bethlehem, the second largest steel producer in the United States, will increase the price of galvanized steel sheets $8 a ton, effective Dec. 16.

Identical price increases on the same product was announced earlier by U.S. Steel Corp., the largest producer, and Republic Steel Corp., third largest producer, also effective Dec. 16.

VSE Seats Sold

Two seats on the Vancouver Stock Exchange have been sold for $45,000 each.

F. H. Deacon and Co. Ltd. of Toronto has purchased the seat of J. Royden Morris, and Union Securities Ltd. of Vancouver has bought an exchange treasury seat.

Lornex Mine Must Export

VANCOUVER (CP) — If the Lornex mine near Ashcroft, B.C., is to go into production, it must have the right to export concentrates, shareholders of Lornex Mining Corp. Ltd. were told Thursday.

Company president Robert D. Armstrong said both the market for its production and the financing to start production were dependent on sales to Japan which precluded being tied to a smelter in British Columbia.

IUC-Brazilian L&P

International Utilities Corp. has increased its holdings of Brazilian Light and Power Co., Limited, to approximately 1.8 million shares, or slightly in excess of 10 per cent of the total oustanding, said John M. Seabrook, president.

Earlier in the year, the company stated it had acquired about 8 per cent of the stock of Brazilian Light, but that it had no intention of seeking operating responsibility.

Kidd-Texas Gulf

Earnings from the Kidd Creek copper-zinc-silver mine of Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., 15 miles north of Timmins, Ont., continued to increase from 1967 levels in the first nine months of this year, the company said Thursday.

Texas Gulf Sulphur, a New York-based company, gave no break-down of earnings from its various operations. But last year the Kidd Creek mine, which went into production in 1967, accounted for about $20 million in revenue, about one-third of Texas Gulf's earnings.

Montreal Firm Joins Amex

MONTREAL (CP) — The board of governors of the American Stock Exchange have admitted Nesbitt, Thomson and Co. Ltd. of Montreal as an associate member firm.

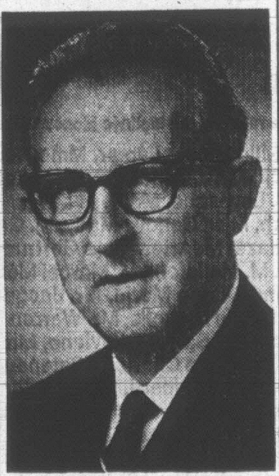
Nesbitt, Thomson was elected last Feb. 21 as a member of the New York Stock Exchange, becoming the first Canadian firm to take advantage of the amendment to the rules permitting Canadian memberships.

The firm, founded in 1912, describes itself as a "broad line" investment banking and brokerage house with about 600 employees in offices across Canada and in New York and London.

In addition to being an associate member of the American and New York stock exchanges, the company is a member of the Midwest Stock Exchange, the Toronto Stock Exchange, the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, the Vanouver Stock Exchange and the Winnipeg Stock Exchange.

Announcement

SARAN LINED PIPE COMPANY



WILFRID E. MILLS

Mr. J. A. Kloustin, President and Sales Manager of Saran Lined Pipe Company, Ferndale Michigan, announces the appointment of Mr. Wilfrid E. Mills as District Manager for the Province of British Columbia.

The Saran Lined Pipe Company is the world-wide distributor for the Dow Chemical Company Moraf Brand plastic lined steel piping systems (pipe, fittings, valves, pumps and allied products).

Mr. Mills has been employed by Huntington Rubber Mills of Canada Limited for the past fourteen years, where he was responsible for the marketing of these chemical-resistan piping products. The market areas he will service include pulp and paper, chemical, petroleum refining, plating, metal processing, water treatment and other wet process industries.

Mr. Mills' new duties will commence December 16th, 1968, and he can be contacted at his office at 933 Main Street, Vancouver, B.C., telephone 685-4724.

CP Air Global Meeting

CP Air's global conference here next week gives the company a chance to show off its new Boeing 737 jet to the general public.

But the aircraft itself is no stranger to Patricia Bay Airport, where for a week it has been making bumps-and-circuits as part of CP Air pilot orientation procedure.

The newest commercial airliner in the world, the 737 wears flame orange, red and silver company colors, the first plane in the CPA fleet to carry the combination.

SALES MEET

Reason for its arrival is the company's international meeting of sales representatives, being held at the Empress Hotel for the first time. The sales agents — many of them nationals of the more than 21 countries they represent — will come in two groups, one landing at 3:20 p.m. Sunday and the other at about the same time Tuesday.

Between 85 and 100 representatives will be taking part, as well as Vancouver-based corporate officers including Victoria native Bryan Renwick, vice-president of sales and traffic; Nanaimo expatriate J. K. Dakin, assistant vice-president sales and traffic, and former Victoria newspaper reporter James McKeachie, special public relations representative, or in his place Reid Moir of the public relations staff, a frequent visitor to Victoria while he was the army's B.C. Area PR officer.

WESTERN REGION

Those in the Sunday group will be meeting Monday and Tuesday for their western region annual conference, covering the area west of Winnipeg to Asia. The rest, from Europe and the Mediterranean area, join them for Wednesday to Saturday meetings.

Their discussions will all be private, but will be concerned mainly with implementation of policy in the 1969 sales program for each region in connection with new tariffs, new aircraft and new routes and schedules, as well as stepped up charter flight activity.

Co-ordinator of the conference is James D. Mutch, Victoria-based sales manager for Vancouver Island.

The Empress will show all its facilities for tourist and convention guests and the B.C. department of travel industry will sponsor a luncheon for the visitors Wednesday.

Fare Cuts Proposed

LONDON (CP) — Special low air fares among Commonwealth countries was proposed by Conservative leader Edward Heath Thursday in a speech stressing realism and mutual co-operation as the foundation for strengthening the 28-country association.

By making price reductions, with their government's approval, airlines "could make a vivid and dramatic contribution to Commonwealth relations," Heath said in a speech before the Royal Commonwealth society.

"What might be lost out of season by not charging the full fare would, I know, be recouped many times over by the better relationships and the new sense of identity that springs from an understanding of different ways of life and of mutual problems.

"And if empty seats in the aircraft were to be used up in this way, the loss to the corporations would be negligible. All it requires is imagination in working out such a scheme and the will to see it through."

Quebec Dollar Drain Ends

By BORIS MISKEW

MONTREAL (CP) — John Leonard Walker, newly-elected president of the Bank of Montreal, is confident in the investment opportunities in Quebec despite separatist outbursts that have helped drive capital out of the province.

"I don't think Quebec will separate, but we've got to solve the French-English problem and this will require goodwill on the part of both the major ethnic groups."

The papermaker apprentice who turned banker said Thursday the situation has improved in the last 18 months. There was evidence early in 1967 that money was being sent out of the province.

Investors were removing capital from Quebec and individuals were moving money to banks in such Ontario centres as Ottawa, Cornwall and Lancaster.

"I think there's been far too much talk of Quebec separation, and this is bound to raise thoughts in the minds of people not fully informed."

However, said the 59-year-old executive, "there's a good opportunity in Quebec where the natural resources alone certainly are not fully developed."

Mr. Walker, born in Kenora, Ont., succeeded R. D. Mulholland, 64, who has been named vice-chairman of the board. Mr. Walker was senior executive vice-president and general manager before assuming his new position.

REORGANIZED BANK

As president, Mr. Walker serves as chief operating officer of an organization with nearly $7 billion in assets and more than 18,000 employees and pensioners.

He is regarded as a chief architect in the implementation of the bank's sweeping reorganization which began in 1965 shortly after his appointment as general manager, and which has resulted in a jump in 1968 operating profits.

Mr. Walker said the bank had trouble for many years in finding suitable French-Canadian employees in Quebec but now there is no difficulty. He said a number of them now are interested in going outside of Quebec for two or three years to gain experience.

And persons from outside Quebec are joining the bank in the province. The bank has its own staff instructor in French, and anyone at head office wishing to spend one hour a day—on company time—learning French is given the opportunity. A working knowledge of French under the program is acquired in about six months.

PORTRAIT of top Canadian banker John Leonard Walker, 59, shows him in his office shortly after being elected president of the Bank of Montreal. A Kenora native, he was an apprentice papermaker before joining the bank in the days when bank employees had plenty of status, little pay.

Bond Yield At 7.7% High

OTTAWA (CP) — Yields on long-term federal government bonds rose this week to an average of 7.07 per cent, breaking the previous record of 7 per cent set last May 22, the Bank of Canada reported Thursday.

The central bank's average of all federal bonds maturing or callable in 10 years or more, except the three-per-cent perpetuals, was 6.95 per cent last week and 6.98 per cent the previous week.

While prices weakened for the medium and long-term bonds, prompting the rise in yields, interest rates on day-to-day loans closed at a lower average Wednesday, of 4.9 per cent compared with 5.2 a week ago.

Three-months treasury bills sold Thursday at prices yielding investors 5.7 per cent, compared with 5.66 last week and 5.65 per cent a week earlier. The six-months yield was up to 5.8 per cent from 5.73 in each of the two previous weeks.

Currency in circulation and chartered bank deposits held by the general public — the public money supply-totalled $26.42 billion on Nov. 27, a modest increase of $140 million from the previous week but still below its Nov. 6 peak of $26.84 billion.

Government of Canada balances in the chartered banks and the Bank of Canada totalled $940 million on Wednesday this week, down $147 million from last week but still well above average.

Canada Savings Bonds holdings were $6.445 billion down $24 million on the week, representing the first redemptions by bond holders since the highly-successful sale of new bonds last month. Total holdings were $49 million higher than a year earlier.

WING WORK WORTH $9M

FORT ERIE — Negotiations are now in progress between Fleet Manufacturing Ltd. and Avco Corporation for the Canadian-based company to produce certain assemblies for the L-1011 tri-jet wing. Avco Aerostructures division of Nashville, Tenn., is under contract to build the wings for the Lockheed jetliner.

Structural assemblies under discussion by the two companies centre on portions of the wing control surfaces, for a potential cost of $9 million.

Companies Grab Land

CALGARY (CP) — Royal Canadian Ventures Ltd. and New Continental Oil Co. of Canada Ltd. have announced acquisition of mineral permits on 192,000 acres near Wollaston Lake in northeastern Saskatchewan.

The permits, in three separate parcels, are near what could be a significant uranium find announced Tuesday by Gulf Minerals Co. of Pittsburph, Pa.

The two companies, both subsidiaries of Dynamic Petroleum Products Ltd. of Calgary, also hold permits on 345,000 acres in the region, 400 miles northeast of Saskatoon.

The two companies expect to start exploratory work in the area by the start of 1969.

Gulf, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Gulf Oil Corp., plans to start a $750,000 exploration program in the area as soon as field conditions permit.

VICTORIANS GIVE BLOOD

Monday at Royal Roads Military College, 207 pints of blood were given by staff and cadets. About 194 pints were collected at CFB Esquimalt, Tuesday. Wednesday at the Parliament Buildings 357 gave blood.

Clinic officials are "quite pleased" with the turnout but the demand for blood never disappears.

The next clinics will be at Red Cross House, Fort St., Dec. 19, and at HMC Dockyard Dec. 20.

BARNES

Sawmill Manager Retires

From stenographer-clerk to Victoria sawmill manager for B.C. Forest Products Ltd. spans 45 years of company service that ends Dec. 31 for well-known Bert Barnes.

To help mark the occasion, the board of directors of B.C. Forest Products will meet in Victoria next week prior to a company send-off Thursday in the Georgian Lounge of the Empress Hotel.

In his years at the sawmill, Mr. Barnes saw employment rise from 20 0in 1923 to 1,100 today, making BCFP the city's largest industrial employer with payroll and benefits worth $7.7 million.

When he joined the firm it was the predecessor company, Cameron Lumber Co. Ltd. in which he became assistant sales manager, then sales manager when BCFP bought the mill in 1946.

CAME IN 1920

Three years later, he was made manager of Victoria sawmill division with the death of A. W. Millar, and in 1963 when the company bought Moore-Whittington mill, this became Point Ellice division and was added to Mr. Barnes' responsibilities.

A graduate of Brandon Collegiate Institute in 1918, Mr. Barnes joined a flour milling firm as steno-clerk, coming to Victoria in 1920 with his family. He worked as a buyer for Kelly Douglas Co. Ltd. until it closed its Victoria wharehouse operation.

He is a member of Uplands Golf Club, Union Club and Canadian Club, and his hobbies include gardening, photography and travel.

New manager of the sawmill division will be Walter Nelson, now manager of the company's Youbou sawmill division. Rex Humphreys, manager of the company's Victoria plywood division, also becomes senior representative for community relations, a post vacated by Mr. Barnes.

Esquimalt Youngsters Want Pool

Esquimalt swimmers without a pool in which to plunk are taking up a petition asking the municipal council to build one.

In four nights, eight young volunteers have come up with 455 names on a petition saying they want the municipality to construct a swimming pool for local residents, said spokesman John McQuillin, 1189 High Rock.

He said approval of the idea is running to 90 per cent and the committee expects to have at least 1,200 names by early January when they plan to take the idea to council.

Mr. McQuillin, 21, said they plan to ask for a simple pool with a small gallery and a lunch counter. They suggest leaving construction of a more elaborate, competition pool to another municipality.

A pool referendum was turned down in 1964 because facilities at Naden were available to both naval personnel and civilians, he said Since unification of the armed forces, use of the pools has increased and civilians can get in only about one hour a week.

The committee suggests a pool could be constructed along with the community centre recently proposed by council by the Esquimalt Lions Club. The centre then would have attractions for both the young and the elderly.

Mr. McQuillin said both the municipal arena and curling rinks are self-supporting and the committee believes a pool could also pay its own way.

Paving Project On Cross Road Suffers Delay

Paving of Cedar Hill Cross Road from Henderson Road to Cadboro Bay will not be completed this year, Oak Bay Mayor Fred Hawes said today.

Work crews have been moved off the reconstruction project there to complete paving on Windsor Road and a 40-car lot in the Oak Bay Village.

"It is doubtful that we will have the work done by the end of the year," Mayor Hawes said. "It will be February before the paving is done."

The work on Windsor and the parking lot will take an estimated two weeks to complete and curbing must be completed on Cedar Hill Cross Road, he said.

Honor Suggested

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Diefenbaker, former Conservative leader, proposed Thursday that a mountain in British Columbia be named after H. H. Stevens. Mr. Diefenbaker spoke at a birthday party for Mr. Stevens, 90, an MP for 30 years who was a federal trade and commerce minister.

B.C., Austria Agree to Nab Bad Husbands

B.C. and Austria have agreed to reciprocal arrangements for prosecuting deserting husbands who face court orders in either area to support their families.

A cabinet order Thursday stipulated reciprocity under the Maintenance Orders Act.

It means an Austrian in B.C. can be forced to meet the maintenance order obligations imposed on him by an Austrian court, and a British Columbian in Austria can be prosecuted for failing to meet the conditions set by a B.C. court order.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said B.C. has similar reciprocity with most of the United States and several other European countries which have comparable legislation.

Answering a question, he said the reciprocity was arranged with the Austrian consul-general in Canada and not through the external affairs department, but added that it was a constitutional procedure.

Habs Draw With Boston; Red Wings Clip Rangers

By Canadian Press

Phil Esposito may have been giving away family secrets Thursday night, but apparently none of his Boston Bruin teammates were listening.

The 208-pound centre scored two goals on his younger brother Tony to salvage a 2-2 tie for the Bruins with Montreal Canadiens and make the first full National Hockey League game for the 25-year-old goaltender a frustrating experience.

The tie for Montreal, coupled with Detroit Red Wings' 4-2 win over New York, left the Canadiens and the Rangers tied for first place in the Eastern Division with 32 points apiece.

Tony was called up from Houston of the Central Hockey League last week when Gump Worsley's fear of flying forced him to leave the Canadiens in Chicago while they were en route to Oakland.

He played 26 minutes against the Seals, handled six shots and let in two goals as Montreal lost 5-4. But if it hadn't have been for his big brother Thursday night, Tony would have been unbeatable.

Bobby Rousseau and Yvan Cournoyer scored for Montreal as Tony stopped 33 shots, 13 in the first period.

DOUGLAS SPARKLES

In Detroit, defenceman Kent Douglas scored one goal and assisted on two others as the Red Wings moved into a fifth-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks at the expense of the Rangers.

Ed Hatoum, a 20-year-old rookie, Pete Stemkowski and Frank Mahovlich scored the other Detroit goals to extend the Wings' unbeaten streak to three games.

Douglas, top-scoring defenceman in the NHL with 20 points, including 18 assists, also figured in Rod Gilbert's goal for the Rangers. Gilbert's centring pass deflected in behind goaltender Roger Crozier at 17:07 of the second period off Douglas while New York had a man advantage. Defenceman Jim Neilson scored the other Ranger goal.

Meanwhile, the Canadiens, who have only a tie in their last two games, may be playing with emergency replacement goaltenders for a while yet.

FORMER CANUCK

Worsley has been ordered to take a month's rest and Rogatien Vachon is still out with an injured hand, leaving Esposito and veteran Ernie Wakely, called up from Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, to handle netminding chores.

Tony was a standout on the U.S. collegiate circuit with Michigan Tech before he turned pro with Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League last season.

The Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. native played 62 games behind the last-place Canucks and finished the season with a 3.20 goals-against average.

BOTHERSOME BROTHER

No brotherly love was shown at Boston Gardens Thursday evening as Bruins' Phil Esposito (7) slaps shot past his brother, Montreal goalie Tony Esposito (30). Phil scored both Boston goals as teams fought to 2-2 National Hockey League draw. Canadien defencemen Jacques Laperriere (2) and Larry Hillman couldn't check Phil on this scoring play. Canucks Must Be Impressed

By The Canadian Press

Wayne Carleton says he wants to play for Vancouver Canucks. But it's hard to tell whether he's trying to impress them—or depress them.

Carleton, who led Phoenix Roadrunners to a 3-0 victory over Canucks Tuesday, gave Phoenix a 2-0 lead Thursday night in Phoenix and Canucks had to scramble for a 2-2 tie before 2,992 fans.

Meanwhile, in Seattle, San Diego Gulls stretched their WHL lead as they had 14 players figure in the scoring in an 8-5 win over Seattle Totems before 3,088 spectators.

Carleton scored at 2:42 and 11:45 of the first period in Phoenix before John Gofton cut the margin to 2-1 and Darryl Sly added a third-period marker to give Canucks the tie.

VICTORIA DEAL

Carleton would probably have been playing for Canucks but for terms of an agreement under which Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL sold their old Victoria Western League franchise to Phoenix.

Carleton had asked to go to Vancouver if he couldn't stick with the Leafs.

In Seattle, Totems picked up a 1-0 lead at 4:09 of the first period. Then San Diego came up with five goals and led 5-1 and 6-3 by periods.

TWO FOR CARMICHAEL

Bruce Carmichael scored a pair for Gulls and singles were contributed by Len Ronson, Willie O'Ree, Fred Hilts, Warren Hynes, Jack Stanfield and Ed Ehrenverth.

San Diego beat goalie Jim Armstrong for five goals and Don Head for the other three. Armstrong made six saves before Head came on in the second period and stopped 13 shots in the last 35 minutes.

Scott Wants More Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Fullback Bo Scott was offered a new contract by Ottawa Rough Riders Wednesday and asked for a few days to think it over.

Scott played out his option with the Grey Cup champions this year when he and general manager Red O'Quinn couldn't agree to salary terms.

The club said in an announcement that Scott and O'Quinn discussed a new pact and that Scott agreed to think it over.

Scott, Ottawa's best ground-threat and the Eastern Football Conference's leading rusher in 1964, was rumored to be heading for Cleveland of the National Football League.

Chinooks Caught In Holiday Crush

VANCOUVER — Call it the pre-Christmas crush.

That's how it is around first place as Killarney and North Shore Mountaineers rambled to victories in the Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League on Thursday.

Killarney dropped CYO Saints 107-80, North Shore shaded Vancouver Grocers 59-58 on a pair of last-second free throws.

The results left North Shore, Grocers and Victoria Chinooks all tied for first place, four points ahead of Killarney. Victoria, however, has two games in hand on the four mainland entries as teams pause for their annual, three-week holiday break.

Killarney had little difficulty with the Saints as all five starters hit double figures. Bob Steeves (25), Elgin Reid (19) and Frank Roetering (19) led the way.

Ed Richmond counted his 14th and 15th points on foul shots to wipe out a 58-57 IGA lead and pull off a victory for North Shore.

Walter's Boy to Get Top Dodger Position

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Walter O'Malley says he plans to retire as president of the Los Angeles Dodgers after the 1969 baseball season.

O'Malley, 65, told newsmen Thursday he will turn the presidency of the National League Club over to his son, Peter, now vice-president in charge of operations at Dodger Stadium.

O'Malley said he will remain as chairman of the board of the team. He made the announcement at the major leagues' winter baseball convention. Since 1961, O'Malley has been the National League's representative on baseball's executive council.

O'Malley became president of the Dodgers in 1950 and eventually acquired two-thirds of the club's stock. He moved the team to Los Angeles from Brooklyn after the 1957 season.

Real Madrid Out Of Cup Scramble

MADRID (Reuters)—Rapid of Vienna moved into the European Cup soccer quarter-finals Wednesday night, despite losing, 2-1, to Real Madrid.

Rapid won the first leg of the second round clash, 1-0, in Vienna last month, and their away goal Wednesday counted double under the competition rules. It gave them a 3-2 winning aggregate. They now play Manchester United.

Dr. Fager Picked As Horse of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Tartan Farm's Dr. Fager has been named U.S. Horse of the Year by the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

The four-year-old son of Rough 'n Tumble, recently retired to stud, received all but one of the 55 votes by the board of selection.

CROSS-COUNTRY EVENTS SET FOR BEACON HILL

Victoria YM-YWCA will stage an invitational open and age-class cross-country meet Dec. 14 at Beacon Hill Park with event scheduled to start at 1 p.m.

In age-class competition, races will be run for boys and girls in peewee, bantam and midget divisions. Special events are slated for juvenile boys, "masters" (30 years of age and older) and joggers, who will attempt to trot 1.8 miles to a set time of 14 minutes.

In open races, the men will travel a five-mile course while the women will run 1.8 miles.

Entries should be submitted by Saturday.

Hearings Long, Tempers Short

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — One thing has changed since the hearing on Dancer's Image opened Nov. 18. Calmness has been replaced by tension, tempers and weariness.

All three were evident Thursday when the state called its last witness, Dr. Francis Ozog, to testify before the Kentucky Racing Commission.

The commission is considering an appeal by Peter Fuller, owner of the colt, who is trying to recover the $122,600 purse denied him because of a report showing the presence of phenylbutazone in Dancer's Image.

Ozog, racing chemist for the state of Colorado, is considered an expert on phenylbutazone because the medication is permissible in horses running in his state.

He was about to present a number of slides of crystal tests he had made in order to compare them with those taken by Kenneth W. Smith, the chemist for Churchill Downs.

When Ozog produced the slides, Fuller's chief counsel, Arthur Grafton, demanded that the commission prohibit the use of such material as evidence.

CALLS IT IRREGULAR

"This is highly irregular and unusual," Grafton complained to the commission. He pointed out that Ozog sat through most of the hearings acting as a consultant to the commission's attorney, George Rabe.

"You cannot allow a man to sit here and hear testimony, then let him go home, make some experiments, and then bring them back here to be used as evidence," Grafton insisted.

He was overruled by commission chairman George Eggner, who explained:

"We have allowed both sides wide latitude in this case."

"You are trying to let two witnesses testify at the same time," he stated.

Eggner went along with Grafton's argument and explained to Smith that he could run the projector but make no comments.

When Ozog finally got a chance to speak, he said that the slides of crystal tests he had taken compared favorably with those obtained by Smith in drawing up his report on Dancer's Image.

Vikings Clash With Butlers

Both Stockers North Americans and University of Victoria Vikings will be gunning for top spot in the Vancouver Island Hockey League tonight.

Stockers take on Queen's Own Rifles in the opening game at 7:45 in Esquimalt Sports Centre while Vikings, who are three points behind leading Stockers, face Butler Brothers in a four-point game at 9:15.

Rowing Coach Quits St. Catharines Club

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) —Gerry Lienert, for 10 years one of Canada's most successful rowing coaches, has resigned as coach of the St. Catharines Rowing Club for business reasons.

Zeke Must Top Colts Or Packer Reign Ends

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packers' three-year reign in the National Football League may come to an end this Saturday when they take on Baltimore Colts.

Zeke Bratkowski is figured to get the starting nod at quarterback for the Packers.

Regular quarterback Bart Starr hasn't thrown in practice yet this week and he is recuperating from a rib injury that was aggravated in last week's loss to the San Francisco 49ers.

Sitting on the Baltimore bench will be Johnny Unitas, while back-up quarterback Earl Morrall leads the Colts into battle.

Morrall has been at the reins all season while Baltimore has racked up an 11-1 record.

If Minnesota, Chicago and Green Bay should all lose this weekend, the division title would not be decided until the final day.

STAYED 28 DAYS . . . . . . AT QUEEN'S PARK

Docherty Moves Again

LONDON (AP) — Tommy Docherty quit as manager of Queen's Park Rangers Thursday after only 28 days as leader of the English League Division I soccer team.

He was the 689th English soccer manager to lose his job in the last 20 years.

Docherty played 25 times for Scotland and turned out for Arsenal, Preston and Celtic.

Controversy has followed Docherty wherever he has gone as manager. He was previously manager of Chelsea and Rotherham United.

Of his latest resignation, he said: "I am leaving on a matter of principle."

He was apparently referring to the refusal of the Rangers' board to spend $104,000 on a player Docherty wanted from Rotherham United.

Troubled Major Loops Duck Important Issues

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Faced with a possible player strike and dwindling attendance in major league baseball parks, the American League in changing some spring training rules and the National League will test lights in its ball parks.

That's the gist of what happened in the final full day of baseball's winter meetings.

Only a one-hour session was planned today, to discuss lowering the number of players a team can carry to 23 from 25.

Thus it appears that the winter meetings will again end a day ahead of schedule with more important matters put off until later.

FURTHER TALKS

The division of money for the inter-league playoffs that will be held for the first time in 1969 and the realignment of the minor leagues were put off for further talks.

The playoff money split was postponed, said National League president Warren Giles, because, "that's not until next fall. We don't have to decide that now."

However, he did say, "the winners of the playoff should not be rewarded very much for being in the playoff because they share in the World Series money."

DISCUSS PCL DEC. 14

Minor league realignment was put off because no agreement could be reached on how the Pacific Coast League should be indemnified for losing teams in Seattle and San Diego to the American League. A meeting is set for Dec. 14 in Phoenix, Ariz., to decide the matter.

The subject of the player strike, threatened Wednesday by the Players Association if agreement on a pension-fund dispute couldn't be reached, was not discussed.

However, John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners, did issue a press release disputing the association's contention that management was delaying negotiations. It ignored the association's charge that players were being pressured into signing their contracts.

EXPERIMENTAL RULES

American League President Joe Cronin said experimental rules would be made during the 1969 spring training season, but that they would not be used during the regular season.

Among the experiments are a permanent pinch hitter, a permanent pinch runner who could be used at any time and awarding an intentional walk automatically rather than throwing four balls.

Giles said the National League will test all its lighting systems to make sure outfields were as well lit as the infield area. This was a suggestion of the New York Mets.

First Title Defence

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Foster has agreed to make his first defence of the world light-heavyweight boxing title against Frank DePaula of Jersey City, N.J., Jan. 22 at Madison Square Garden.

POWERBOAT PILOTS GET RACE AROUND BRITAIN

LONDON (Reuters) — An international powerboat race over a 1,700-mile course around Britain has been announced.

The Daily Telegraph newspaper, joint sponsor with the British Petroleum Company, said the race in July would be the toughest, richest and longest powerboat event in the world.

The race would start and end at Portsmouth, South England. It would be over a series of stages, the maximum being 210 miles with no racing at night.

The newspaper said an over-all winner leading throughout the race could win as much as $42,000.

Cats' Third Line Diverts Pressure

Because they form the third line, Doug Gibson, Dave Williams and Scott Munro have been missing out in some of the point feasts enjoyed by the "big gunners" on the Victoria Cougars' team.

But coach Doug Anderson hands the line a big "assist" on an effort that has carried Cougars to within two points of first place in the B.C. Junior Hockey League.

Anderson also expects "a notable contribution" from the Gibson-Williams-Munro line Saturday night. That's when the Cougars go prowling—at Memorial Arena, against Vernon Essos—for a share of the lead.

The so-called third line was one of Cats' best last week when Victoria won three of four starts. They scored timely goals and played good positional hockey.

More important, to Anderson and the "big gunners," is the fact that Gibson, Williams and Munro seem to be diverting some of the checking pressure exerted on the high-scoring line of Grant Evans, Len Barrie and Bruce Cowick.

IT ALL HELPS

Gibson, one of the few American-reared players ever to make the grade in junior "A" hockey, has shown consistent but gradual improvement all season. The line's "blossoming-out" in recent days can be credited to the improved play of Williams and Munro.

Williams, one of Victoria's three holdovers, is off his personal scoring pace of last season but has been a steadying influence for his rookie linemates.

Munro delighted Anderson with a display of confidence and aggressiveness in recent games. Munro picked up only four minor penalties in his first 11 games and more than doubled his count with 15 minutes in two games. He scored a goal in each of the two games and checked strongly.

Ranger Centre Will Undergo Spinal Fusion

MONTREAL (CP) — Centre Orland Kurtenbach of New York Rangers will undergo spinal fusion surgery in New York Tuesday and then spend six months recuperating from the operation, Emile Francis, New York general manager says.

The 32-year-old Kurtenbach was scoreless in the first two games he played with Rangers this season. He complained of back pains and did not see much action.

The Rangers shipped him to Omaha of the Central Hockey League two weeks ago to round into shape.

"He failed to show any progress and we've been advised to have the operation," Francis said. "We've also been assured he'll return for next season.

Steelie Time Is Here Again

By STEWART LANG

The weatherman has been letting us know in the past few days that winter has returned and that means its steelhead time again. It's time for those dedicated anglers who are willing to battle iced-up lines, treacherous river bottoms and cruel weather in the hope of catching steelies, to get tackle ready.

Lower temperatures have resulted in better fishing conditions and steelhead are being reported from most streams in the west and east coasts of Vancouver Island.

Near Victoria, the closure on Goldstream has been lifted and the ban on fishing lower parts of the Sooke River ends at midnight tonight. The Sooke, with steelies showing near the potholes, is rated a good choice for the weekend.

Other rivers that could be worth a visit include the Jordan, San Juan and Cowichan, where a few steelhead have been taken from the lower reaches.

Anglers in the Port Alberni area, who were having good success until water levels surged upward, are expecting to again hit fish in the Somass, Stamp and Ash rivers.

On the other side of the Island, the Puntledge has been producing and catches are improving in the Campbell and Quinsam.

Salmon anglers who don't mind cold fingers are finding fun with winter springs in lower-Island waters, where fisheries officers have reported catch average of almost 1.5 fish per boat.

Sheltered Saanich Inlet has been favored by many and springs up to 21 pounds have been hooked around Tod Inlet, Willis Point and Indian Bay. Dark plugs attached to short lines have been working well at Tod Inlet.

Winter springs, following a large amount of feed, are also testing tackle in the Goldstream area.

Husky springs are also hitting lures near Brotchie Ledge off the Victoria waterfront and off Oak Bay, where Trial Island has been popular spot. Springs are also cruising in Sooke waters, where deep fishing has been productive at Pedder and Becher bays, Secretary Island and off Whiffen Spit.

Aussies Crush Tourists

BRISBANE (Reuters) — The West Indies cricket team crashed from a powerful start to total collapse against Australia today on the opening day of the first test match.

Australian pace bowler Alan Connolly did most of the damage as the West Indians—with a powerful score of 187 runs for the loss of one wicket at tea time—finished the day with 267 runs for nine.

Connolly took four wickets and gave up 41 runs. He bowled a superb new-ball spell of three wickets for one run in three overs.

He mowed down the cream of the West Indian batting—Gary Sobers, who scored only two runs; Clive Lloyd, who scored seven, and Basil Butcher, who got 22—and also got bowler Charlie Griffith out for eight.

The collapse came after a record second wicket partnership in which Joey Carew and Rohan Kanhai put on 165 runs.

Carew was run out for 83 and Kanhai was eventually out for 94.

The five-day match is the first of five in the West Indian tour of Australia.

Two American Clubs To Test Hoop Vikings

University of Victoria's basketball Vikings could be headed for a double dose of trouble at their Gorden Head gymnasium tonight and Saturday.

Vikings tangle with a pair of American squads, starting at 8 tonight with a clash against Olympic College of Bremerton. Opening tonight's program at 6 will be a game between Victoria Chinooks of the Inter-City Junior League and Centralia (Wash.) College.

It will be the tall Centralia team that tests the Vikings Saturday at 8. Heading the Centralia crew are six-five centre Irving Reedy and a pair of six-three aces—forward Don Biglow and guard Ken Wastradowski.

Possible producers of big trouble on the Olympic College club are quick guard Keith Gundleginger and six-four centre Frank Blum.

Saanichton Hoop

Saanichton clubs will clash with visiting squads in three Peninsula Basketball League games Saturday night at Saanichton Agricultural Hall.

Brentwood pre-midget girls will hit the floor at 7 p.m., Cordova Bay boys will follow at 7:45 and View Royal juvenile boys will test their hosts at 8:30.

Hornets Test O'Keefes; Cup Play Starts Sunday

Victoria O'Keefes get a break from Pacific Coast Soccer League chores but not from the booting business this weekend while first-round matches in Jackson Cup competition highlight action in the Victoria and District Soccer League.

Meeting O'Keefes in an exhibition match at Centennial Stadium Saturday will be Mount View Hornets, the provincial high school champions.

Action is slated to start at 2 p.m., and all proceeds from the game will go to the United Appeal.

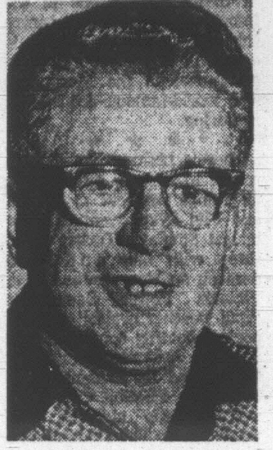
While O'Keefes are expected to win, they are not anticipating an easy afternoon. Several of the Hornets are rated as good prospects to move up to O'Keefes and the speed of the students could produce some problems for the defending Coast League champs.

KICKERS MEET SAINTS

All District League games are scheduled at 2 p.m. Sunday with the cup contests certain to attract the most attention as Victoria West of the first division tackle the second-division Watson's Hotspurs at Heywood Avenue and Hourigan's Kickers (division one) go against William Head Saints at Topaz Park.

Saints will be playing away from the William Head grounds for the second time. Their last appearance on a city soccer pitch was in an exhibition match four years ago.

League matches for other second-division clubs are listed in Sports Menu below.



BOWLER OF WEEK

Blazing finish carried Joe Smith to men's tenpin award in ninth week of annual Times Bowler-of-the-Week Competition. After starting with games of 184 and 204, Joe finished with 243 effort to top division with 631 series in Monday Mixed League at Mayfair Lanes.

Red Machine Wows McLeod

By PETER BUCKLEY

MOSCOW (CP)—The coach of Canada's national hockey team used words like "fantastic" and "wonderful" Thursday to describe the Soviet Union's No. 1 team which had defeated the Canadians, 6-0, Wednesday night.

"I have never seen a hockey team as good as this one, I swear," Jackie McLeod said between mouthfuls of Swiss steak in his midtown hotel after running his team through a one-hour mid-day workout.

Asked specifically whether he meant to include the National Hockey League in his assessment, McLeod said yes.

"Individually the Russians would probably be lost against NHL players because they play together but as a team they're great. They impressed me more this year than they ever have."

PINDER HURT

However, McLeod said the Russians also were the dirtiest team he has ever seen. When he played against them in 1961 "they were not nearly as chippy—none of this spearing and so on you see now."

Wednesday's game left the team without the service of Gerry Pinder, one of its smallest and scrappiest members, who tangled with a massive Soviet defenceman near the end of the game. He emerged with a bleeding nose and a sprained ankle that is expected to keep him out of action for at least two weeks.

IN BETTER SHAPE

McLeod said several other Canadians are bruised and sore. A report by the Soviet news agency Tass said the Canadians had "played rather rough, seeking to reduce the pace which did not suit them."

Tass said Pinder in particular "tried to aggravate any incidents throughout the match."

McLeod said the Soviet players were in much better shape than the Canadians and added: "There's just no way in our system (way of life) to get players into the condition they're in."

Canadian amateurs cannot afford to train and play 11 months of the year as the Soviets do, he said, and even professionals wouldn't put up with that prolonged discipline.

McLeod said Canadians had not played as well in the tournament as he felt they could have but he thought the matches had been good practice and an "education" for the players.

He had particular praise for forward Steve Carlyle, just turned 18. McLeod said he was astonished at how well Carlyle played.

The Canadian and Soviet squads are scheduled to play exhibition games today and Saturday.

Buzz Still Firing But Painters Bow

Buzz Wilson continued to carry the scoring load, but it didn't help the Empress Paint cause in the Stuffy McGinnis Hockey League Thursday.

Wilson scored both of his team's goals—his ninth and 10th in two games—but Empress dropped a 5-2 decision to Victoria Automatic Transmission at Memorial Arena.

That enabled Transmission to grind to within one point of the second-place Painters while Ingraham Buckaroos padded their lead with a 5-0 shutout of last-place Drake Hotel.

Despite his two goals, Wilson also lost ground. Ingraham's Gord Strongman counted twice and set up a third to run his point total to 25, one more than Wilson.

HARRIS HOT

Bob Harris checked in with a goal and three assists while Jim McNeill and Gord Wickware scored Bucks' other goals. Ron Griffis turned in a steady, 22-shot-saving performance to score the shutout.

Ken Hunt scored two goals while Tom Allen, Pat Green and John Oliver added singles to help Transmission's victory.

Raith and Vivi No Strangers to Adventure

. . . BY SHIRLEY HEWETT

Perhaps inevitably, their introduction to sailing was a 1955 cruise on Tsu Hang from Victoria to Hawaii, accompanied part way by John Guzzwell in Trekka.

Hewett

But the Sykes, like many who take naturally to extended cruising, are no strangers to adventure.

Raith, an RAF glider pilot during the war, met Canadian-born Vivi in England. Returning to British Columbia in 1950, the couple settled in Duncan, where they operated a chicken farm.

In the summer of 1963, they acquired the Escapee, a 40-foot cutter designed and built in Australia in 1940. Two years ago, they set sail from Birdseye Cove, following the west coast down as far as Acapulco, Mexico, before striking off across the Pacific.

Obtaining a crew was no problem. Personal friends arranged to meet them along the way. (Like Helen and Graham Wade). Others, such as an American chap off a trimaran, and his girl friend off the Constellation, joined en route.

Escapee carried six across the Pacific.

"A good number," according to Vivi, "as there were always three men for heavy deck work." They always had two on for a four-hour watch, and the system "worked remarkably well, despite predictions of gloom."

The initial cruise took them from Acapulco to Nuka Hiva in the Marquesas; the Tuamotos; Tahiti; the Cook Islands; the Tongas; and finally to New Zealand, where they cruised the coastal waters.

At this point, their wanderings were interrupted by a steamship trip back to England, followed by a freighter crossing to Montreal.

Now, stopping over briefly in Victoria, the Sykes are en route back to Whangarei, New Zealand, where they will rejoin Escapee and resume their leisurely South Pacific roamings. They estimate at least another two years of sailing, departing in May for Fiji, the New Hebrides, Thursday Island, and Bali.

Then, it's either Durban, South Africa (Raith has a sister in Johannesburg) or back here.

Meanwhile, the queue is already forming of friends who are eager to share a little of the adventure, and join the Escapee for a few precious weeks of wandering.

SHOR TACKS: Weatherman Bob Fortune also sailed on the Escapee, in 1948, to the South Pacific . . . John Guzzwell and his family are still living on board their yacht Treasure, successor to Trekka . . . John has become a businessman, building and running a fleet of super speedboats which provide a fast ferry and scenic touring service in Russell, New Zealand . . . Latest communication from the Red Gurnett, formerly owned by Ron Scott-Moncrief, bore a Nuka Hiva postmark . . . Red Gurnett is also en route to New Zealand, home of skipper Frankham's wife . . . From John Manning comes news that Bob McKittrick, honored in many publications is the information - clearing - centre for the whole South Pacific, is dead . . . Bob's general store on Taohai in the Marquesas was world-famous among the seafaring.

There's nothing like a little racing to keep in practice for all things nautical . . . Raith and Vivi Sykes went as crew in last Sunday's Turkey Head Race with Guy and Vicki Screech on Barracouta II . . . Victoria Power Squadron's "foul weather cruise" enjoyed perfect boating conditions last Sunday . . . 42 members' boats transported 150 students from the Basic Piloting Course as well as the skippers and proctors . . . The students had practice in laying out courses from Sidney to Birdseye Cove, and a "free run" back home . . . Officer-of-the-Day was Victoria Squadron Commander, Oliver Summers, in Canadian Fifer . . . Cruisemaster was Tom Dalzell, with Al Price in charge of the students' program . . . Victoria Canoe and Kayak Club will meet Monday to view National Film Board movies The Voyageurs, The Nahanni, and The Dewdney Trail . . . . Time is 7:30 p.m. in the Entertainment Room at Goodacre Towers (south), 350 Douglas Street . . . Further data from club officials.

Rural, Central Saanich Board Seats Open

By DON VIPOND

Retirement of chairman Mrs. Nora Lindsay and trustee George Bone has attracted five candidates to the school board elections on the Saanich Peninsula Saturday.

But paradoxically two other school board members whose terms expire at the end of the year have been re-elected by acclamation.

Mrs. Lindsay, a trustee for four years and chairman of the six-man board for the past two, has been representing rural Saanich. Mr. Bone sat for Centreal Saanich for the past two years.

School District 63 stretches from Royal Oak to Sidney.

Mrs. Rubymay Parrott, representing North Saanich, and George Howard, trustee for Sidney, return to the board unopposed.

Brief sketches of the candidates:

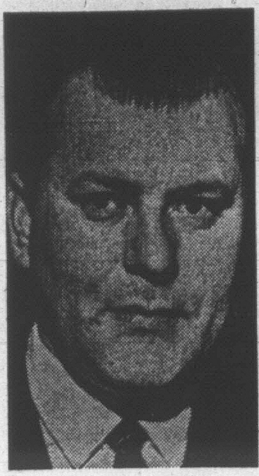
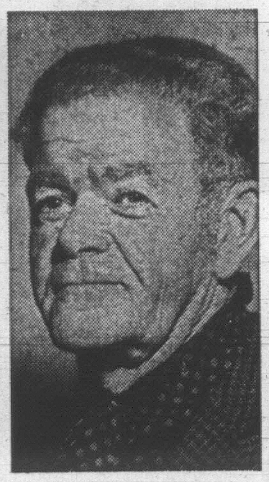
JOHN HUBBARD

Z. M. HAMILTON



HAROLD JORDAN



ROBERT DERRINBERG

John Hubbard, 44, of 4992 Lochside, planner with the Greater Victoria school board, he has three children one in school.

Prior to taking his present job in 1964 Mr. Hubbard was 14 years with the department of education dealing in finance and administration. With the department he worked on processing referendums, reviewing school district budgets and processing equipment, land and transportation requirements.

He feels education finance is the biggest problem facing trustees today, arguing federal and provincial contributions are not keeping pace with increasing revenues.

He sees the school board as the group which must make the financing problems clear to teachers. Trustees generally must present a united front to both senior levels of government on the money dilemma.

More and better communication is needed within the school system, says Mr. Hubbard, with teachers speaking through their principals advising the administration.

Harold Jordan, 35, of 5196 Delmonte, assistant supervisor of school construction with the department of education, in his first attempt at public office.

He feels his job would not present him with a conflict of interests if he was a trustee and his superiors agree. His work has him evaluating school district construction programs.

"Although I advise the government what to do I don't sign the mail."

Mr. Jordan suggests his experience would be of value to the school board in implementing the recently approved $4 million building referendum because he is familiar with department requirements.

The main task of trustees there is a close watch on spending, he says.

STANLEY OAKES

Stanley Oakes, 49, of 814 Royal Oak Ave., a civil engineer with four children, all in school. He finished third among five seeking a school board seat last year.

His primary interest is achieving the best possible in education offered children, he says. To do this he supports a vigorous program of research on teaching methods and classroom environment.

Teachers should be encouraged to develop better methods and work toward higher qualifications and work under way to update curricula should be supported by trustees.

"I am strongly in favor of maximum community use of schools and would support an extension of the adult education program."

In Central Saanich: (one seat open)

R. C. Derrinberg, 56, of 8085 Derrinberg, a retired farmer, is a former trustee, on the Saanich board for six years and the first representative from Central Saanich.

Youngsters need a better eeucation than they are getting now to meet the future, he says. The fact that rebel students at Simon Fraser University did not realize they faced potential criminal records is an example of their ignorance.

Mr. Derrinberg holds a master's degree from UBC in agriculture and taught at high schools in the interior for two years.

Trustees must foster co-operation with teachers and make sound representations to the department of education, he says. One reason he is running is to avoid having the seat filled by acclamation.

Z. M. Hamilton, 64, of 2918 Lamont Rd., a kennel operator, is the father of two grown children and is seeking public office for the first time.

Business administrator for 14 years of the Regina school board, largest in Saskatchewan he handled annual budgets of close to $3 million with an additional $1 million in new construction yearly.

The major issue before trustees is good planning for expansion, he says, and there will be plenty on the peninsula. A trustee must always remember he is there to protect the public interest.

The public must understand that schools have to be integrated into the community as a whole. As public property, they should fit into community recreation programs and be utilized to the fullest, day, night or anytime.

Mr. Hamilton is standing for trustee because he believes people with special qualifications have an obligation to offer their services.

Canvass to Start For Adventist Charity Causes

Victoria Seventh-Day Adventists will begin a week-long canvass Saturday to raise funds for medical, welfare and educational services in 190 countries, including Canada.

The Victoria effort is part of a world-wide appeal by the Adventist Church.

"Last year the church aided more than eight millon persons and distributed more than 11 million articles of clothing," said Mrs. Dolly Jewkes, in charge of the Adventists' Community Welfare Centre at 1117 Blanshard.

"During the past year the church has helped more than 1,150 people in Victoria alone."

'Copter Plucks Men from Floe

WINNIPEG (CP) — Three fishermen were rescued Thursday after spending the night on a small ice floe on Lake Winnipeg about 100 miles north of here.

Walter Bessason, Gordon Sanderson and Harold Asham, all of Selkirk, Man., were plucked from the five-inch-thick floe by a H-21 search and rescue helicopter and are in good condition.

RA 68-1

Japanese Still Buying Wheat

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin told the Commons today Japan has not stopped buying Canadian wheat.

Replying to Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North), the minister said the Japanese food agency had asked for a meeting with Canadian grain officials to discuss the quality of the 1968 crop.

Mr. Woolliams referred to a report Thursday night that Japan had refused to take Canadian wheat.

A report from Tokyo said the Japanese food agency had temporarily stopped buying certain types of Canadian wheat following discovery of rain-damaged grain in a shipment of Manitoba No. 4 wheat.

It said the order only applied to the new crop and to No. 4 or lower grades for fodder.

Mr. Pepin said Japan usually buys quality wheat—No. 2 Northern or better.

He said the Japanese request for a meeting with Canadian grain officials was prompted by difficulties the Japanese have been having with imports from the United States.

"I take it that means we have lost that (the Japanese) market," Mr. Woolliams said.

"That would be a wrong conclusion," Mr. Pepin replied.

Frank Hamilton, chairman of Canada's board of grain commissioners, told a recent meeting of the Commons agriculture committee that Japanese importers were satisfied with the quality of Canadian wheat but were demanding a higher consistency of protein content.

The problem was being solved by mixing high-protein Saskatchewan wheat with lower-protein Alberta wheat.

Subsidies Key To Wheat Future

BRANDON (CP) — Canada's long range prospects for a better break on the world wheat market hinges on other countries growing tired of subsidizing their production, Agriculture Minister Olson said Wednesday.

"There is a new sense of urgency to make adjustments," he said in a speech to the Manitoba Livestock Association.

"There are indications some of these countries are getting tired of paying subsidies."

Without these changes, Mr. Olson acknowledged that the prospects are not bright.

"You have to be a western farmer to be optimistic" after reading a report on the meeting of the Organization of Economic Co-operation and Development at which Mr. Olson represented Canada.

PROJECTS PRODUCTION

Under existing conditions, the report projected the North American bread wheat production available for export in 1985 at 56,100,000 metric tons compared with the average of 31,300,000 tons in the 1961 to 1967 period.

At the same time, western and southern Europe would move from an import position to having 2,800,000 metric tons available for export by 1985.

A similar situation exists in coarse grains and Mr. Olson said "unless there are some changes in incentives and subsidies in other countries, the prospects for exporting bread grains are not all that good."

If the changes develop, "I have no fear we can compete favorably but we can not compete against the treasuries of the other countries."

Criticism 'Endangers Exports'

OTTAWA (CP) — Criticism of government efforts to deal with damp and tough Western grain is endangering export markets, Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson said in the Commons Thursday.

He charged Conservative and New Democratic MPs with "publicity seeking" in concentrating on the problem of poor harvesting conditions and the dangers of crop loss through rot.

Overseas customers were asking if the entire Canadian wheat crop was in poor condition.

Mr. Olson emphasized that Canada has adequate supplies of dry, high-quality grain to fill all commitments.

He said there are more ways to care for damp grain than shipping it to terminal elevators for drying.

"I put a great deal of faith in the ability of the individual farmer to take care of his own crop."

Opposition Leader Stanfield, in a major attack on the government's agricultural policies, said the government has to be "pushed, prodded and hounded" even to recognize the problem.

Ratepayers Boo Alderman Over 'Hard Work' Remark

By ED GOULD

DUNCAN — "We are here to revise the South End Municipal Ratepayers' Association and listen to candidates to the North Cowichan district council," chairman Mickey Sharp said Thursday night.

But the crowd of 75 came to shout, boo and catcall as well as sit and listen to promises.

Object of much of their anger was Ald. Dennis Hogan—on the council for five years—who got the first wave of boos when he mentioned "a hard-working council."

Cairman Sharp brought the meeting back to order and Mr. Hogan was accorded silence long enough to outline his platform which included a desire to have the provincial government survey local water reserves "as they have done in Alberta."

"It may take three to five years but when expansion comes we'll be ready for it," he said.

Ald. Hogan admitted expansion isn't likely at the moment but expected the economy to stabilize in the next few years.

Ratepayer Keith Partridge wanted to know how much it cost to place a bylaw before the public.

Told "about $1,000," he wanted to know why the same bylaws were presented "again and again."

"Because in the case of the recreation bylaw 52 per cent of the people were in favor of it," Mr. Hogan said.

Ratepayer Bruce Reid brought up dike costs on low-lying Beverly Street and Ald. Hogan said $4,000 had been spent on it and agreed to check to see why the dike hadn't been completed beyond its present stage.

Val Kyle and several others wanted to know why sewer hookups had jumped from $81 to $150 in two months and why weren't municipal crews used "when they do it cheaper" than contractors.

Bob Evans asked why North Cowichan found it necessary to build a sewage lagoon adjacent to one already in use by the city of Duncan. He contended the city had been willing to share sewage facilities and costs for a long time.

Ald. Jerry Smith said the city only wanted to take over service to "accessible" areas and only when it was to their benefit.

"In areas where we've got sewage running into drainage ditches all summer they're not interested at all."

In response to ratepayers Fred Green's suggestion that some assistance be made available for people on fixed income to pay for their sewage hookup, Ald. Hogan said Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said the Municipal Act had no provision for assistance.

Newcomers to the civic political field, personnel supervisor Daryl Moraes and businessman Jim Roome outlined their platforms to polite applause.

Mr. Roome promised if elected his Hamilton Electric firm would "not be eligible for municipal business."

His experience in business would be of value to the ratepayers because "municipal affairs should be run as efficiently as any other business."

"You may find my platform a little dull," Mr. Moraes said, "But I don't believe in promising swings or teeter-totters in any particular area. He favored slower expansion done properly rather than stop-gap.

Ald Jerry Smith wooed voters with his comment: "I am not an educated man and I don't intend to be."

He noted that recreation cost had jumped from $2,000 to $64,000 in the 10 years he had been on council.

He had taken a leading role in establishing Pioneer and Kinsmen parks.

"Cowichan Valley has given me a good living and I would like to continue giving some of that benefit back to the community," the motel owner said.

Salmon Study Under Way On Jordan R.

The federal government's fisheries department is conducting engineering and biological studies to determine what steps are necessary to protect salmon runs in the Jordan River.

A three-year hydro-electric expansion program for the river will cost $30 million and preliminary work on it is under way.

Information on the fisheries study came to light in the Commons recently when MP David Anderson (Liberal—Esquimalt-Saanich) asked whether the project represented a hazard to salmon and whether construction of a spawning channel had been considered.

E. F. Whelan, parliamentary secretary to the fisheries minister, replied that the current studies will determine the best course of action for continuation of the salmon run.

Poll Book Study Ordered by Judge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A judge decided Thursday that poll books will be reviewed to determine if there were irregularities in voting in the Comox-Alberni constituency in the June 25 federal election.

Thomas Barnett, NDP candidate elected over rookie Liberal Richard Durante by three votes election night, was declared defeated by nine votes in a subsequent judicial recount.

Mr. Barnett has filed a petition in British Columbia Supreme Court contesting the election on grounds some Canadian Forces voters cast ballots in a civilian poll without the right to do so.

Mr. Durante has been given to Dec. 15 to file an answer to Mr. Barnett's petition. No date has been set for a hearing.

Mr. Justice W. R. McIntyre, at Mr. Barnett's request, Thursday ordered J. H. Hamel of Ottawa, chief electoral officer, to produce the poll books for the Vancouver Island constituency.

Election night count gave Mr. Barnett 11,943 votes to Mr. Durante's 11,940. The recount reversed the order, giving Mr. Durante 11,939 votes and Mr. Barnett 11,930.

Mr Barnett had been the member for the seat from 1953-58 and again from 1962.

'I Was Joe Boy,' Says Ex-Mayor

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Brentwood marina operators and a candidate for Central Saanich council clashed at an election meeting over the extension of waterfront leases for boating.

John Edward Gordon, former mayor of Rossland who is seeking a one-year term, was accused by one operator of running for office for the sole purpose of opposing the expansion of marinas.

Mr. Gordon admitted he had been asked by a group of residents to run for office to oppose further commercial development along the Brentwood waterfront.

"I was the joe boy," he said.

He said he is against commercialization encroaching on all recreational areas in the municipality.

"People are more important than commercial enterprise," he said. "Brentwood Bay is for the enjoyment and recreation of all residents."

VOTE SATURDAY

This was the only contentious issue raised at the meeting in Saanichton Agricultural hall—the last before ratepayers go to the polls Saturday.

About 120 residents heard 11 candidates—seven contesting three two-year council seats and four a one-year seat—outline their platforms.

$9 MONTHLY

Mayor R. Gordon Lee, who is retiring, said he expected plans for the proposed $1,991,300 sewerage project to be completed within the next three months.

Cost to home-owners of small lots will be about $9 per month and $9.75 for larger lots.

Council hoped for financial assistance from the provincial government to alleviate the high costs for installing the sanitary system, he said.

"But whatever the ultimate cost may prove to be for the system, it will be more than compensated for in the enhancement of the property values," he stated.

He said reliable sources had indicated at least a $1,000 resale value increase for the average householder.

There were no disagreements between the candidates and their platforms differed little from one another. But they all expressed concern at expansion problems facing Central Saanich.

Main points raised by the candidates were:

- Development of more recreational areas and construction of a sports centre jointly with Sidney and North Saanich.
- An agreement with School Board 63 for use of school gymnasiums and playgrounds for recreational use.
- Construction of a hospital on the northern end of the peninsula to replace Rest Haven in Sidney.

Strict adherence to a new land-use and zoning bylaw to prevent urban sprawl.

Robert C. Derrinberg and Zachary Hamilton, contesting a two-year seat on the school board, both supported the establishment of a strong liason with council on recreation matters.

New Mill for Nanaimo

Construction of a new timber mill on Nanaimo Harbor will begin in February.

It will be built on the site of the old Anglo-Canadian mill, which was dismantled 18 months ago.

The new mill is a joint venture by C. Itoh and Company of Japan and Pacific Logging Co. Ltd. to be called CIPA Lumber Co. Ltd.

A company spokesman in Tokyo, according to Reuters, said the joint firm is to be established in Nanaimo with a capital of $10,000,000 Canadian, of which 80 per cent will be put up by the Japanese.

The mill will have a capacity of 140,000 cubic metres annually at a cost of $2,000,000 and will be in full operation by the spring of 1970.

Construction of the mill will employ about 150 men, William Sloan, president of Pacific Logging, said today.

Wide Barrage Of Criticism At Smallwood

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland's three-day conference on financing education ended Thursday in a barrage of criticism of the provincial government, the denominational education system and the man who called the meeting—Premier Joseph Smallwood.

Delegates passed resolutions approving increases in personal and corporate income taxes and taxes on tobacco and liquor. They also approved a hotel and accommodation tax expected to bring in about $900,000 a year, but rejected the idea of a provincial property tax.

The meeting, whose resolutions are not binding on any government, also approved a suggestion the province ask "in the strongest possible terms" that Ottawa help provide education facilities in Newfoundland "equal at least to the Canadian average."

Emoitonal outbursts marked the final day, as delegates claimed they were being used as rubber stamps in advance of planned provincial tax increases in the 1969-70 Newfoundland budget.

Others questioned why a government should ask the general public for permission to increase taxes.

About 200 Memorial University students turned up to vote down a resolution to abolish their "salaries" of $50 and $100 monthly.

'SHOULD RESTRICT JOEY'

One delegate said Premier Smallwood should be restricted, like any other delegate, to three minutes' speaking time on each resolution.

The premier shot back that he had called the conference. "Am I not permitted to ask for clarification? . . . It is I who have to interpret these resolutions for the cabinet."

He told the conference $10,000,000 must be found next year just to continue the existing education program. The figure would be $25,000,000 "if we do what we ought to do."

Pat Tarrant, a Labrador delegate, said the conference was "just window dressing . . . Premier Smallwood has already said the costs are to be borne by the province . . . so I say send the government back to do the job they were elected to do."

He received applause when he said he was "getting sick and tired of this" and one way to save money was avoid conferences.

REFUSED TO VOTE

Rev. James Reid refused to vote on any of the resolutions or discuss them. He felt anything the conference did would be taken at budget time next year as approval of tax increases already decided upon by the government.

Memorial University Professor Harry Cuff agreed. He said it was not the job of educational leaders to suggest tax increases.

Power Failure

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Hundreds of homes were in darkness for about three hours Thursday night after a power failure. The failure was caused by a burned-out cable near the New Westminster substation. Power was lost at about 6:50 p.m. and was restored shortly before 10 p.m.

APPOINTED superintendent of the B.C.-Yukon division, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is J. Arthur MacNaughton. The appointment is effective Jan. 1. He comes to his new post from Edmonton where he was superintendent of the Alberta division for three years.

'Absolutely False'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Gordon Shrum said Wednesday that a charge that British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority has been borrowing government money at low interest rates is "completely false."

Dr. Shrum, Hydro co-chairman was commenting on a statement by Dr. Pat McGeer, B.C. Liberal leader. Dr. McGeer had said government surpluses were being channeled to B.C. Hydro for power projects.

Dr. Shrum said B.C. Hydro borrowings from the B.C. government "consistently reflect the open market rate and Dr. McGeer's statement they have been below the market rate is completely false."

Feeling of Well Being In Bickering World

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Forbes

A few moments ago a friend phoned to tell me she had all her Christmas puddings and mince meat made and she was working on her second batch of Christmas cakes.

On the surface this was merely a statement of fact. Something my friend does each year at this season as surely as the holly turns red and the oak leaves fall.

However, the very fact that this is a yearly happening and that my friend (and many more like her) accepts it quietly and with no fuss or fanfare (no headlines in the papers), does bring the permanence of tradition into sharp focus.

It also creates a feeling of well-being that transcends, at least for a short time, the unrest that besets us in our immediate surroundings and in the world.

Youth may scream and yell. Angry voices may be heard in city squares and on campus. Governments may bicker and fight. But thousands of men and women, like my friend, go on about their daily tasks, and, whether they realize it or not, they create for us a sane and normal perspective.

The making of puddings and cakes at this season of the year goes back into my childhood. To a day when the world was a big kitchen in our family home and safety was a mother with pink cheeks, bright blue eyes and curly brown hair.

About this time of year, that kitchen was a place of wonderful odors. A place of work, too, as fruits were washed and dried and chopped up. Nuts were sorted and candied peels sliced.

Currants, washed and clean, were set to dry in shallow pans in our coal and wood stove. Every once in a while our mother would stir them up with her quick moving hands and turn them over to hasten the process.

A huge mixing pan was placed on the table. Ingredients were arranged around it. A big wooden spoon came out of hiding. Then our mother was ready for "the mixing".

She worked fast but never fast enough to please us. We waited impatiently for our turn at "a stir for good luck" and for the privilege of spooning up the last of the gooey mixture and eating it.

Puddings were moulded into crockery bowls, then tied tightly at the top with pieces of white cotton and placed on a rack in a huge container of boiling water where they bubbled away for nearly a day.

Mincemeat was "put down" in a big stone crock to ripen. Fruit cakes were baked in the oven with our mother watching the fire and keeping it going at just the right heat.

Times have changed considerably since them. The friend who phoned me this morning has an electric stove with all the modern timing and heat control gadgets.

At the same time she still prepares the makings in much the same way as did her mother. And she uses the same recipes.

So it is that tradition is kept alive.

Put it on your "must" list for tomorrow to get out and VOTE.

How you mark your ballot is your own affair. That is a freedom we enjoy in Canada.

If you vote or not is of vital importance to your city or municipality and to those who are up for election.

Those citizens who have signified a willingness to hold office as aldermen or school trustees in the city and all the municipalities have a well-defined sense of responsibility.

You too, have a responsibility.

Don't shrug it off by saying it doesn't matter if one, or two, or perhaps three or more people in your vicinity do not mark their ballots.

Put all the ones and twos and threes together and it can make a formidable total.

One that could mean that the candidate or candidates you'd really like to see elected will not make it. The ones and twos and threes who do not vote could well be responsible for such a happening.

Don't be one of them. Vote . . . vote . . . vote!

FIRST HEART TRANSPLANT IN ISRAEL

PETAH TIQVA, Israel (AP) — Israeli surgeons announced today they successfully carried out Israel's first heart transplant in a 3½-hour operation Thursday night.

Dr. Morris Levi, who headed the six-man operating team, said the patient's condition is "satisfactory and improving."

He refused to name the heart recipient, but the Israeli radio identified him as Yitzhak Sulam, 41, an Algerian-born Jewish resident of Jaffa.

The doctors also declined to confirm or deny whether the donor was the victim of a highway accident Thursday night, as reported by an Israeli radio broadcast.

Black Sea 'Stroll' Angers Russians

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Communist party newspaper Pravda today accused the United States of planning to heighten tension in the Black Sea area by sending two destroyers through the Bosporus.

A report from Pravda's Ankara correspondent, I. Ugolkov, said the destroyers, one of them equipped with torpedo-rockets capable of carrying nuclear warheads, would sail through the Bosporus into the Black Sea Saturday and will spend five days there.

Western observers in Moscow noted that Russian Navy ships have passed through the Bosporus for more than a year going from the Black Sea to join a growing Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean.

Pravda said the U.S. ships would come from the Mediterranean-based U.S. 6th Fleet.

Ugolkov added: Why does the American military need to take such a 'stroll' in the Black Sea? The United States is many thousands of miles from its shores and has no relationship to the given region.

"The Middle East is now experiencing the extraordinarily dangerous consequences of the tension caused by . . . Israeli aggressors . . . against the Arab states.

"It is quite obvious that the forthcoming visit of the unsummoned guests has the aim of further complicating the situation in a region in the direct vicinity of the Soviet Union, which is consistently following a policy of detente and growing all-around co-operation and good-neighborly relations with all countries. . ."

Ugolkov also said the fact that one of the destroyers would be equipped with missiles capable of carrying nuclear warheads contravened a convention limiting the calibre of weapons that can be carried by warships of non-Black Sea countries when they sail in the Black Sea.

VICTORIA B.C., FRIDAY, DEC. 6, 1968 —PAGE 23

Arthur Mayse

Vancouver, Nanaimo, Prince Rupert . . . they all have their Indian friendship centres where the newcomer from the reserve can find the help he so badly needs. In those centres are people of his own race to understand him and explain a puzzling new world to him. They make his transition to urban living easier.

Victoria hasn't acquired such a centre yet, but if present hopes are realized, a start won't be far off.

"We need a meeting place," says one of the men who shares those hopes, "and we badly need public support."

The speaker is Harry Dick, aged 27 and Songhees by birth. With his wife Linda and their eight-month-old son, David, Mr. Dick lives at 3010 Quadra Street. He works on James Island, and much of his spare time goes to friendship centre planning.

One evening this week, Harry and Linda Dick talked with me about the big job that needs doing.

"A person who is homesick is no good to anybody," Harry told me. "It's very easy for my people to become homesick in the city. So much is new and strange to them."

"Confused?" Linda spoke from where she sat with David in her lap. "You have no idea! They don't know where to go, or how to ask for information. You see, if they come from a remote village, they're afraid their speech won't be understood. So much is new to them, and they don't know what services are available to help them."

It's different on the reserve. There, everybody else is Indian, and all is friendly. Anyone in trouble can knock on any door. Sometimes the difference weighs too heavily, and homesickness wins out.

The idea of a place to go where new friendships could be made and old ones renewed has been under review for well over a year in Victoria.

Success of the Klauhawesic Club for Indian and Eskimo students attending school or university in Victoria has spurred it.

Larry Tompson, Klauhawesic president, is one member of the three-man initial planning committee that Harry Dick heads. Club secretary Thomas Dennis is the third. Friendly white groups that understand the problem are helping where and as they can.

But essentially, the friendship centre will be run by Indians for Indians, and for any Eskimos who may find themselves lonely in Victoria. It will be a counselling centre. It will be a place for talk and games, and eventually it may also function as a hostel.

To serve its purpose, it would have to be downtown and not too far from the bus station, so that Indians newly arrived here could walk to it.

"We're looking toward the future," Harry said. "I think it's important to equip the Indian to adjust better to urban living. The friendship centre will help my people integrate with the rest of the community."

Harry realized the necessity for a changed outlook when, as a Grade 12 student, he found himself for the first time in an integrated class. This was at Kamloops, and it's plain as he speaks of the experience that it had a profound effect on his thinking.

From white students, he learned a different approach to life and learning. They were aggressive; they went after what they wanted. For Harry, the year presented many problems, but he feels that it also broke down barriers to understanding.

"It helped me get up on my own two feet," he says, "and go after what I wanted."

Harry Dick wants the Friendship Centre for his people, of whom over 800 are now trying the new life in Victoria.

Will they get it? I hope so. This is a fine project, and one that is proving itself to the benefit of both Indians and whites in a number of Canadian cities.

You'll hear more about the drive to establish the service. But for now, a last word from Harry Dick.

"We will show you how to dig clams," says he, smiling, "if you will help us get the equipment."

Team Men Wanted By Mayor

'Think Long and Hard' Before Vote Saturday

Voters in Greater Victoria go to the polls Saturday to elect new municipal councils, school trustees and decide on one referendum.

In total the eligible voter's list adds up to a whopping 70,488 people with the right to vote. An average turn-out of between 25 and 30 per cent is expected.

Saanich heads the eligible voter's list with 29,783 residents entitled to cast ballots to select four council members from eight candidates, two school trustees from four candidates and to decide whether garbage should be collected once weekly or continue under the present every two weeks system.

Voters will state their preference at 13 polling stations:

At Cloverdale School, Cordova Bay Elementary School, Frank Hobbs School, Glanford School, Gordon Head Elementary School, Lansdowne Junior Secondary School, St. Joseph's parish hall, Mount View Secondary School, Prospect Lake community hall, Royal Oak Secondary School, St. Luke's Church hall, St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Church hall, and Tillicum School.

FIVE POLLS

In Victoria, 20,462 eligible voters will select four council members from six contestants and one school trustee from three candidates.

Voting will take place at five polling stations located at the Senior Citizens' Activity Centre, Fisgard and Government; Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped, 220 Bay Street; James Bay Elementary School, Simcoe and Oswego; Sir James Douglas Elementary School, Thurlow Street, and Oaklands Elementary School, 2827 Belmont Avenue.

As in all municipalities throughout the region polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Mayor Hugh Stephen this morning asked the electorate to give him a council team he could work with.

WORK TOGETHER

"As a leader of a team I am (also) obviously deeply concerned that I should have around me men and women who, despite individual differences of opinion, can work together sincerely and with integrity towards the continuing well-being and prosperity of our community," the mayor said.

He urged that every eligible voter throughout the area cast a vote and "exercise the most priceless privilege in their possession—their right as free people to control the destiny of their community through the selection of the men and women they consider best suited for the task.

"So please get out and vote tomorrow—and before you vote, think long and hard about the future of the city."

In Oak Bay 9,231 voters will select three council members from five candidates and one school trustee from two candidates.

Polling stations are at Oak Bay Municipal Hall, 2167 Oak Bay Avenue, and St. Philip's Church, 2928 Eastdowne.

Esquimalt voters totalling 4,427 will select three council members from six candidates. One vacancy for school trustee was filled by acclamation.

Central Saanich voters will also vote at the Municipal Hall where 2,389 eligible voters face one of the tougher selections in the district. There are four vacant seats, 11 candidates and one vacancy on the school board with two candidates seeking office. The mayor's post was filled by acclamation.

North Saanich voters totalling 2,601 select three council members from four candidates. One school trustee vacancy was filled by acclamation.

ONE UNOPPOSED

Sidney with 1,953 eligible voters selects two council members from four candidates. A lone school board seat was filled by acclamation.

Returning officers throughout the district this morning reminded all voters that ballot papers listed names in alphabetical order.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the difference between flotsam and jetsam? —I.M.B.

A. Flotsam is the wreckage of a ship or its cargo floating on the surface of the ocean. Jetsam designates goods tossed overboard to lighten a ship in distress. Discarded cargo which has been washed ashore is also referred to as jetsam.

Man Charged After Couple Die in Crash

A Colwood man today was charged with impaired driving following a head-on collision on Millstream Road Thursday night in which an elderly couple was killed.

Alfred H. Burnell-Higgs, 70, of Finlayson Arm Road, and his wife Constance, 55, died after the crash.

The husband was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital. His wife died 30 minutes later.

The truck-car collision occurred just after 6:30 p.m. when the road was icy, police said.

Colwood RCMP said the Burnell-Higgs car was travelling south on Millstream Road and the Rabbitts vehicle, a three-quarter ton truck was northbound. They met head-on in the 2500 block near a trailer sales company on the corner of Millstream and the Trans-Canada Highway.

A passenger in the truck, David Frayer, also of 1938 Trans Canada Highway, suffered leg and arm injuries in the crash and is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital. Rabbitts was not hurt.

PRIED OUT

Police said the Burnell-Higgs had to be pried from the wreckage of their car. Damage was estimated at $3,200 and about $3,000 to the truck. Both vehicles are said to be beyond repair.

Thursday's fatalities brought the total in Colwood to 14 this year, the highest of any area in the Greater Victoria district. Total for the whole area this year is now 25.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said he has ordered an autopsy today and an inquest would be held early next week. Funeral arrangements have yet to be arranged.

The Burnell-Higgs are survived by a daughter, Mrs. K. Botsfort, 1077 Goldstream Road. Names of other members of the family were not available.

'OUTSIDERS' ASK CITY TO SAVE POOL

Of the 29 signatures approximately half are city residents or own property in the city. The balance live in other municipalities.

City officials said they were not surprised, that close to 50 per cent of the petition-signers lived outside the city limits.

The Crystal petition was spearheaded by Mrs. Bill Scott wife of the lighthouse philosopher of 1062 Newport Avenue, Oak Bay. Mrs. Scott is not listed on the city voter's list.

The petition asks council to reconsider its decision to tear down the Crystal and to keep as a symbol of an environment that is "slipping through our fingers."

31 FATALITIES

Two more fatalities here overnight brought the Canada total for Safe Driving Week to 31.

The cross-country toll for the first five days of "safe driving" shows Ontario with 12 fatalities, Quebec 10, B.C. five, Nova Scotia two, Manitoba and Alberta each one.

In Safe Driving Week last year 81 traffic deaths were recorded.

Everyone knows the safety rule — stay one car length behind the car ahead for each 10 miles of speed.

But who can estimate six or seven car lengths?

Greater Victoria and District Safety Council says it is easier and safer to set yourself two seconds behind the car ahead.

Watch the rear of the car ahead passing a sign, telephone pole or a crack in the road and start counting "One thousand and one, one thousand and and two . . ."

PLENTY OF ROOM

If the front of your car doesn't pass the same checkpoint in that time, you have plenty of room between the two cars, the council states.

If another car is following yours too closely, slow down. Usually the following car will pass. But even if it does not, your speed can be reduced to a level which will mean minimum damage if the following car runs into yours, says the safety council.

Rear end collisions are among the most common types of accidents.

Rate Delay On Auto Insurance

Adoption of 1969 auto insurance rates for B.C. has been delayed until February.

A spokesman for the Independent Insurance Conference in Vancouver said agencies belonging to the group had been instructed to continue with 1968 rates for current and new business until the end of January.

He said the national figures upon which suggested rates are based had been delayed, which was expected to affect other companies as well.

The "green sheets," published annually and submitted to the federal insurance authorities, are still under study and review, the IIC spokesman said.

It has been customary for new rates to be published by Dec. 15 to take effect Jan. 1.

Americans Here For 'Recreation'

It will be Saturday night liberty for the 220 officers and men of the American destroyer U.S.S. Marshal, scheduled to arrive in Victoria late Saturday afternoon.

A navy spokesman said today the ship is involved in naval exercises in local waters and the purpose of its visit here is "purely recreational".

Isolation Hurts Vets' Hospital Says Minister

The Veterans' Hospital can not continue to give the best of services to veterans if it remains isolated from community hospitals, Veterans Affairs Minister Jean Eudes Dube said here today.

"They are exploratory talks on the question of turning veterans' hospitals over to civilian administration," he said. "We have arrived at no decision."

He thought the 20-year-old hospital needs improvement.

He said this could be achieved by integrating the hospital with Royal Jubilee Hospital or affiliating with a university as has been done in Ontario.

Another method would be to share facilities with a civilian hospital, he said.

"We are exploring these various avenues," he said. "Each area has different problems and what is good for one province is not necessarily so for another."

He said the difficulty in maintaining veterans hospitals as separate units is providing adequate treatment and care for chronic cases.

'NOT INTERESTED'

"Young doctors today prefer to work in the field of acute illnesses," he said. "They are not interested in chronic care."

The Victoria talks, arranged by David Groos, MP, are being closely watched across Canada. They are expected to set the stage for new federal policies on veterans' hospitals.

National president Robert Kohaly of Estevan, Sask., who took part in the discussions with Mr. Dube, said he had no quarrel with the minister's views.

AUTHOR COMPARES CITY TO MONARCHY

FIRST OF TRILOGY ON CAPITAL

Victoria: 'A Blend of the Ludicrous, Admirable'

By JOHN SLINGER

"Good-bye," said the author of a brand-new history of Victoria, "I am going to feed the chickens and get the paper."

We walked out to the back porch of the white-trimmed, brown clapboard cottage where Derek Pethick's rubber boots stood. He shucked off his slippers, clambered into the boots, picked up a blue tobacco tin he would use to sprinkle feed and headed off through the chill afternoon.

Moments before he fashioned a phrase that touched the life, the city and the works of Derek Pethick the way a few opening notes can bring to mind a whole familiar symphony.

"Victoria," he said, "is rather like the monarchy—a pleasant blend of the ludicrous and the admirable."

The conversation began earlier that day after a letter came from Howard T. Mitchell, a Vancouver publisher, inviting us to a reception this evening "honoring Derek Pethick on the occasion of the publishing of his book—Victoria: The Fort."

FIRST OF THREE

It said the book is the first of a trilogy detailing Victoria's history.

Mr. Pethick mused that he had never been to a publisher's reception before, and "I don't know whether there's going to be free booze or free books—I'll take a chance on either.

"I don't even know whether to wear a suit or to go sort of sporty and arty." His blue-grey eyes gave a twinkle that was, like his voice, gentle yet very clear.

A 48-year-old bachelor, born in Victoria, he has lived for the last 32 years in the single-storey house just north of Elk Lake on the Patricia Bay Highway.

SELLS CHICKENS

He makes his living by bringing chicks from the mainland, raising them on his five-acre farm and selling them.

He fashions his love with a pencil, a pad, dry provincial archives' files and a typewriter he received as a gift 38 years ago.

Victoria was chosen as subject because, he says, the over-all story has never been presented. The author suggested a title for this article: "At last! Victoria's story is told. "I think it sort of catches the eye and tells what's in the book," he added.

THREE DATES

In 1843 James Douglas built Fort Victoria where Bastion Square now is; from there the city rippled out.

In 1858 gold was discovered littering the Fraser Valley; Victoria, the only supply point, all but exploded.

In 1864 Douglas, knighted and governor of both Vancouver Island and British Columbia, retired from public office and the last palisades of the fort came down; an era ended as does the first volume.

The second volume, Victoria: The Middle Years, will take the story to the end of the First World War. The third volume is not yet titled.

Mr. Pethick says he wants to tell the story, as much as possible, in the words of the people who lived it. Material comes from documents, letters and newspapers of the time.

"You see how they felt when they were first thrown into new situations," he said, hands clasped behind his neck, eyes drifting from the sizzling logs in the fireplace to the window filled with a December sun tumbling into evening.

AVERAGE READER

It was written for the average reader ("I think they'll think it's interesting.") as well as the professional historian ("I think they'll say 'He's got all the facts and figures and he's got them right.' ")

Apart from an essay in the 1967 book B.C. and Confederation, published for the University of Victoria, and a few CBC radio talk scripts, this is Mr. Pethick's first venture into print.

Holder of a UBC bachelor's degree in history, he says "I think you can sort of understand your own times better by sort of knowing what happened in the past."

"You could put out a handbook of dates" over which there could be no dispute. "But when you begin to interpret, then you always have to interpret in the light of something." Something like what's happening today.

'ROOTS GO DEEP'

"Victoria's roots go deep," he says. The city today bears marks of "the solid little English class—everybody had a rank" of first settlers.

Came 1858—"a hurricane of a year"—when some 20,000 gold-hungry "roughnecks" flooded through the settlement of 300.

The colonists couldn't be sure the newcomers "might not take over the country."

Mr. Pethick spoke of today's "hunger" for Canadiana, the hunger of "a nation kind of groping" to find itself.

"Anything that contributes to our identity is a good thing."

In the living room the fire sputtered and went out, the grandfather clock remained stopped at 10 minutes to one. The author stood, stretched, smiled and said: "This wretched livestock sort of ties you down." We went out.

This high-fashion stole is made of angora wool, and looks almost like real fur. It is both simple and quick to knit with No. 7 needles.

Children Prepare A Fishy Dinner

By PENNY SAVER

I suspected something fishy was going on when my children offered to cook dinner last Friday, but I didn't realize just how fishy it would be. They invited Mathilda, Jayne and her husband, both grandmothers and our friend Mrs. Smith, swelling our numbers to 12. I was completely barred from the kitchen and was not even permitted to set the table! All I could do was entertain the guests as they arrived and keep my fingers crossed.

Dinner when it came was completely marine. Instead of sticking to a single dish, the youngsters decided on a smorgasbord arrangement with a variety of different dishes to choose from. All were delicious and I marvelled at their cooking skill.

After the dishes were washed I was able to enter the kitchen (which they left almost spotless) where a peek in the waste-can revealed their secret. The children had made the best use they could of canned goods. For instance, the base of the tasty tuna casserole was a heat-and-serve creamed tuna that comes in 15-oz. cans for 45 cents. This and the creamed salmon with peas (41 cents a tin) that was served "as is" just need to be heated (but not boiled.) These are wonderful for quick, hot lunches and are delicious served with toast.

The oyster stew that had us all singing the cook's praises also came from a can. The 10-ounce cans are 31 cents each and contain milk, butter, salt, preservatives and, of course, oysters. The can suggests seasoning to taste. I am sure the children added something but they refuse to admit anything at all.

Champion Chowder

The chowder that served as an entree, was made by the girls from a recipe they found on a can of whole butter clams. These clams are 69 cents a can. I was pleased to note that the weight given, six ounces, was drained weight so I know they weren't paying for the broth. Baby clams are 39 cents for five ounces drained weight. These also include a recipe for chowder as well as a recipe for clam omelette—a dish I am longing to try. The butter clam can, incidentally, includes two chowder recipes, a plain chowder and a Rhenish chowder.

Oysters are also available in cans. A five and an eighth ounce drained weight can of whole oysters is 35 cents. They are packed in water and salt.

I would like to say a word to the reader who called to ask if I knew where she could taste a store's Christmas cake before buying. I could only suggest a few places that might do this, but soon after she hung up I mentioned the call to a friend who told me of a bakery where this is a policy. The samples are free of charge and the baker tells me this practice has worked well for him, which in turn speaks well for the quality of his cakes. I wish now that I hadn't made my own, so that I could try some myself! The cakes without decoration or almond paste are $1.25 a pound.

Please call 382-3131 if you would like to know where to shop for items in this column.

KNIT AND CHAT

By MAY MAC LEAN

Hints on Scarf Knitting

Dear May, I noted with interest the letter printed in your column from Mrs. M.D. of Winnipeg asking for instructions for a knitted scarf for her husband in a ribbed stitch. I have made several of these from 3-ply wool on about a size 12 needle.

Mac Lean

The number of stitches will depend on the width of scarf one wishes. I use 73. Whatever the number, it must be a multiple of four plus one stitch.

The pattern is made by simply knitting two stitches, then purl two and continue to end of row, knitting last stitch. The next row is the same. The one extra stitch gives a very nice rib and a better texture than simply knit two, purl two with an even amount of stitches.

This scarf does not need to be folded when worn as it is sort of double and never pushes up under the coat, but lies flat. The length again is optional. Just keep on until the scarf is long enough and then finish the ends with a fringe made of uniform pieces of wool, cut and pulled through the end stitches with a crochet hook, then knotted.

The men in my family really like these scarves and they wear for ever! — Mrs. W.D.M., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Many thanks Mrs. W.D.M., I'm sure that readers who are thinking of knitting scarves will find your letter very interesting.

Many thanks also to Miss J.M. of St. Louis, P.Q., who also wrote explaining exactly the same stitch. She was very kind and enclosed a sample swatch of the stitch. It's one of the few knitting stitches that are the same both sides!

For those of you who have enquired about a doggy sweater, I do have one, Leaflet No. 6736. Made from a 4-ply yarn in a broken rib pattern, the length from neck along centre back to rear of sweater is 14 inches.

The chest measurement of sweater unstretched is 14 inches, though I imagine this would fit a dog with a chest measurement up to about 18 inches, as the broken rib pattern has quite a bit of elasticity. The price of the pattern is 35c from the address at the end of the column.

High fashioned stoles that look almost like real fur! What a wonderful gift idea! Why not make one for yourself, too? It's both simple and quick to knit with No. 7 needles and angora wool.

To order Leaflet No. 6850, send 35c in coin or money order (no stamps or personal cheques please) together with a long-self-addressed 6c stamped envelope to: May E. Mac Lean "KNIT AND CHAT," C/O The Times. Please be sure to state pattern number when ordering.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Serious Hubby Has No 'Soul'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday was our ninth anniversary and my husband didn't remember it. I was heartsick all day. I suppose I should have gotten over it by now, but I still feel very hurt about it.

He is a good provider, and otherwise a good husband and father, but he's very serious-minded and isn't given to sentimentality. He just doesn't have any "soul." Birthdays, anniversaries and most holidays are overlooked. If the children didn't make such a big fuss about Christmas, I'm sure he'd forget that, too.

Last year I tried giving him a taste of his own medicine and I "forgot" his birthday, but it didn't work because he forgot it, too. I am so hurt, Abby, I have even considered leaving him. Any suggestion?

HURT AGAIN

DEAR HURT: Yes. Create a festive mood by planning in advance to celebrate "occasions." On his birthday, bake him a cake and invite some friends in. Or arrange to go out to celebrate. On yours do the same.

This goes for Mother's day, St. Valentine's day, and any other day about which you're sentimental. But if you sit in silence feeling sorry for yourself, you have no one to blame but yourself.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, 16 and a junior in high school, slipped off the other day and got married to her 19-year-old boy friend.

To beat all, his mother went with them! She didn't even have the courage to tell her husband. The children had gone together for two years. I thought for sure his mother was on my side and didn't want an early marriage either, because she had even told me so. And now this, with her blessing! I am so mad at her I just don't know what to do.

I am not going to show my anger because I don't want the children to start off married life with parents who are mad at each other, but I want you to tell me what you think of this whole sneaky deal. Thank you.

BOILING OVER

DEAR BOILING: I think it's pretty sneaky. But simmer down. There may be a little "sequel" to that story.

DEAR ABBY: For several years I have wanted to write to you about different problems, but other people have done it for me. Now I just want to thank you for probably saving my children's lives, my marriage, and my sanity.

I don't leave my children ages two and four) in the tub alone any more. Or in the car, either.

My mother-in-law's visits are much nicer. I tolerate her taking over my kitchen and spoiling the kids. I now keep quiet and take what she says.

My husband can now watch all the baseball, football, and golf he likes without being nagged to death. And on his golf days I take my children to the park or to visit a friend instead of sulking.

But most important, I finally realized through your column that I myself was the problem —not my husband. Our marriage still isn't a bed of roses, but things are getting better. So thanks a million, Abby. Just keep telling people the truth about themselves.

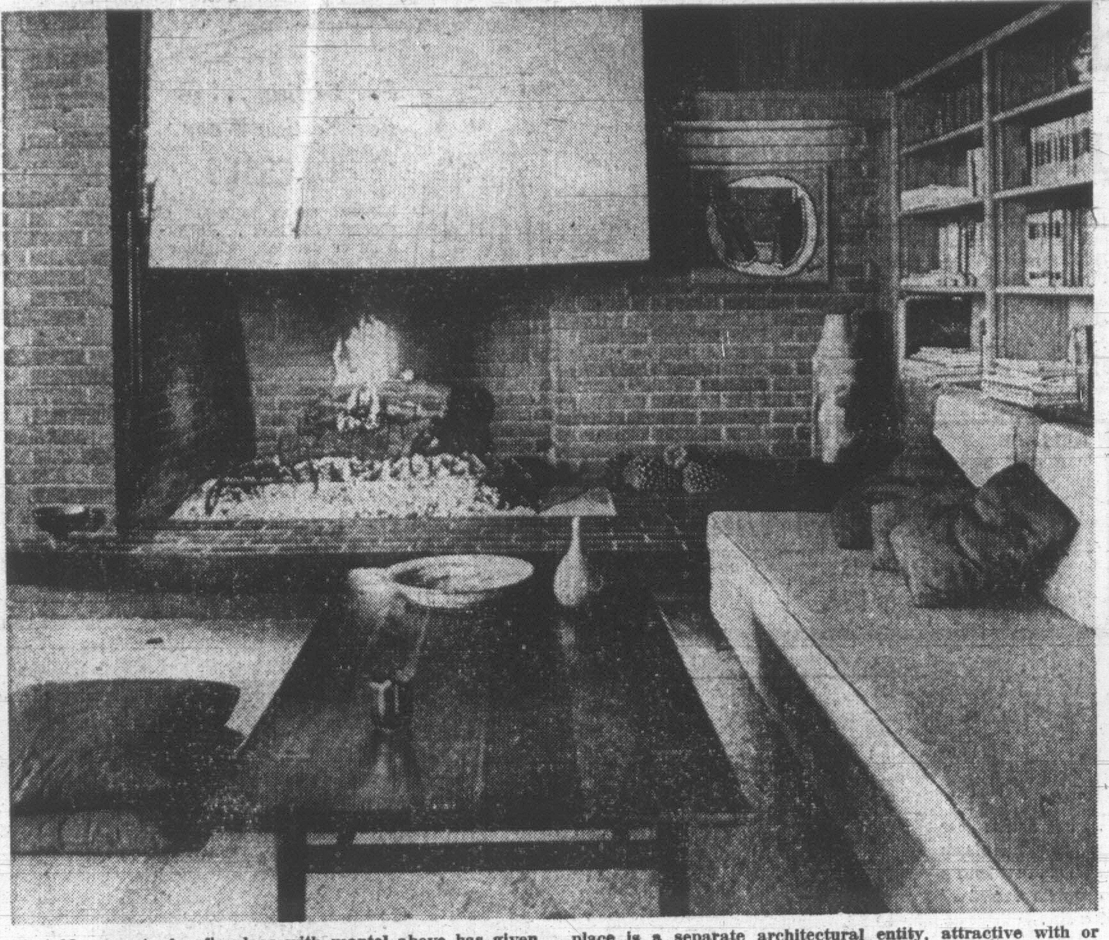
Fireplace Plays Important Role In Present-Day Architecture Plans



The old concept of a fireplace with mantel above has given way to new designs and use of materials, so that the fireplace is a separate architectural entity, attractive with or without a fire. (Conrad Buff photo)

If your future plans include building a new home or remodelling an older structure, give a lot of thought to the fireplace design. In any room that it is used, the fireplace is the focal point, the centre of attention, around which furniture is placed and where people gather. For too many years, the design was standard, with the rectangular opening and the mantel above. But today, the design itself is decorative and the mantel no longer a necessity.

Illustrating this point is the fireplace shown here, designed by architects Buff, Straub and Hensman, A.I.A. Clearly it dominates the room, with the white slab that juts out over the opening and functions as a hood. A foot above the floor, the fire can easily be seen and enjoyed by everyone in the room, and the matching hearth, also raised, continues to the wall. The continuation of the hearth creates a wide platform to the right of the fire, which takes the place of a mantel in that it displays decoratives and accessories beautifully. And the wall behind offers a good spot for a picture, particularly with the cornice lighting above.

An important part of the design is the way in which building materials are used, the narrow bricks set horizontally in a broken joint pattern on the hearth and lower wall. But above, 1"x4" cedar siding contrasts strongly with vertical joints going from the plate rail height to the ceiling.

POINSETTIA BALL

Approximately 250 dancers will gather at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria on Saturday evening for the annual Poinsettia Ball of the Gallery's Women's Committee. This year the decorative theme, designed by Mrs. W. L. Wood, is "Winter Wonderland" and the Gallery will be decked in silver and white for the occasion. Mrs. Robin Skelton is ball convener and ticket convener is Mrs. W. M. C. Stone. Jim Ryan's J's Combo will play for dancing in the upper gallery and a buffet dinner will be served in Spencer Gallery at midnight. Many large parties, several with 18 at a table, have been arranged. A whirl of cocktail parties in members' homes will precede the ball.

Married 60 Years

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Giles, 1666 Ruby Road, celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary on Sunday. A family gathering was held to celebrate the occasion. It was attended by the couple's seven children, their husbands and wives. They have three sons and four daughters. They are Albert, Maddock, Alta.; Bruce, Bellevue, Wash.; Donald, Victoria; Mrs. H. (Frances) Powers, Edmonton; Mrs. T. (Phyllis) Darlington, North Vancouver, and Mrs. R. (Bessie) Lavoie and Mrs. J. (Grace) McCormick, both of Victoria. There are 17 grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren. Queen Elizabeth II was among the many who sent congratulatory messages. Mr. and Mrs. Giles were both born in England. They were married in Alberta, living in Edmonton until they came to Victoria in 1944.

GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mockford, 9717 Third Street, Sidney, will mark their golden wedding anniversary on Wednesday. To celebrate the occasion they will receive their friends at a reception to be held this Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mockford, 1405 Erindale Place. The couple has another son, Fred, also of Victoria, and four daughters. They are Mrs. R. (Doris) Miller, Saanichton; Mrs. R. (Winnifred) Owens, Victoria; Mrs. A. (Olive) Windle, Lake Cowichan, and Mrs. B. (Valerie) Denham, Richmond. There are 22 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Both Mr. and Mrs. Mockford were born in the English county of Sussex, were married there, and came to Canada in 1927, settling on a farm at Abbotsford. They've lived in Victoria since 1940. Mr. Mockford served overseas in the First World War and was a member of Victoria's Veterans' Home Guard during the last war.

Grade Seven Reporters Developing Newspaper Styling of Their Own

By MAUREEN DUFFUS

Times' columnist Arthur Mayse wrote recently about the students in his creative writing class.

I don't know whether any of his students have had their work published yet, but my own stable of creative writers has produced a newspaper.

The Tom Thumb News is published by an energetic group of Grade Seven reporters, and a nicely balanced newspaper it is, too.

The editorial policy of the paper is anti-litter ("Keep the School Grounds Clean"); anti-cheating (it doesn't work) and pro starving children. The first edition raised $10 for Biafran refugees.

DELIBERATE MISTAKE?

Our sports reporters are developing a colorful style reminiscent of professional sports writing. In one story I was reluctant to change the part about the school taking a ferious beating to the more orthodox ferocious beating, but an editor has to be a bit conservative about spelling innovations.

In other ways, our paper is progressive. We do not have that little ghetto of the newspaper world known as the women's section, on the theory that if a story is interesting, it's interesting to everyone.

Our science section contains a technical description of the artifical lung some of the boys are making, but I think I'll have to ask for a re-write on the other project, a vacuum cleaner. I couldn't understand a word.

Along with these stories will go a thoughtful editorial on the necessity for space research (for one thing, it will be useful to have cities on other planets when we are over-populated.)

Our reporters have done straight news stories, interviews and opinion polls. It was discovered that Grade One students like school, most of them because they like the teachers, and the boys can chase the girls and vice versa. On the other hand, Grade Seven comments ranged from "I think school is a drag" to "BLAH!"

We have our literary section, too, with contributions from other classes. The first edition came from Grade Six and consisted of Hitchcockian horror tales of haunted houses.

Grade 1 has provided the literary efforts for the coming edition, and I highly recommend the poem that begins "I have a turtle, His name is Murtle."

We had an editorial conference the other day, to decide on page layout and headlines.

BORN, NOT MADE

"I've come to the conclusion that head-line writers are born, not made. Once the children got the idea that they were no longer writing titles for compositions they came up with some that many a deskman might wish he'd written.

"What Animals Make Good Pets?" for instance was changed to "Ouch! What Bit Me?" A report on winners of a contest is headed "What Lucky Ducks Won the Bucks?" which I admit is corny but it should get more readers than "Contest Winners Announced."

"Disaster Area Teacher's Downfall" should be a reader-getter, too, and "Boy Scientists Make Artificial Lung from Balloons, Bag and Glass Jars" has a nice professional sound about it.

TOUCH OF GRANDEUR

As editorial advisor to the Tom Thumb News—a title I gave myself because it sounds grander than plain teacher aide—I'm having great fun.

This is partly because I adore being editor. Imagine the feeling of power that comes from relegating the Principal's Message to an inside page, because he nearly missed deadline!

But before I get too arrogant, I must mention the teacher who decided that kids who were bored with compositions might possibly be a bit more enthusiastic if they were writing for their schoolmates.

"I don't care what they write, as long as they write something," she said, thus increasing her work-load even more.

After a shaky start, the newspaper staff really is writing, and already they're coming up with ideas for yet another edition.

Their grammar and sentence structure are often depressing, and their spelling is appalling.

But somehow it's more acceptable to ask for a re-write of a newspaper story, making suggestions for a clearer presentation "so the younger grades will read it" than it is to mark the mistakes in compositions with a red pencil.

Kindergarten Students Grow Plants for Fair

The fair, which was opened by Mrs. R. A. Phillips, PTA president who served as general convener, realized $1,300.

Stall conveners were Mrs. T. Custance, Christmas gifts; Mrs. R. D. Kilshaw, white elephant; Mrs. J. Williams, home baking; Mrs. W. Jones and Mrs. T. F. Ward, sewing and jewelry; Mrs. W. F. McWilliams, toys; Mrs. J. Kirkham, candy; Mrs. R. F. Biscoe, books and records; Mrs. P. Henderson, plants; Mrs. D. A. Smith and Mrs. J. H. Steele, cake-walk.

Games were operated by R. A. Phillips, R. D. Kilshaw, W. Thomson and J. Williams. They were assisted by former Willows School pupils Michael Phillips, Bruce Hurn, Richard Kirkham, Colin Morrison, Dannie Belcher, Stephen Creed, Ralph Hutchings, Glen Carter, Kevin Nuttal and Alan Peterson.

Movies for the children were shown by vice-principal K. Hurn, assisted by student Mark Leemacher and teachers R. Duke, R. Gage, R. Abbott, B. Chamberlain, D. Rutherford and R. Wall.

The fish pond was convened by Mrs. J. M. Jamieson, and Miss C. Kilshaw looked after the checkroom. In charge of refreshments was Mrs. G. A. Brittain. Mrs. D. R. Carlow sold ice cream bars.

Mrs. W. Thomson, Mrs. S. Zaruby and W. F. McWilliams were in charge of tickets. P. J. Steel was in charge of the door prize, and D. A. Smith, treasurer, handled receipts.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Having 'Stuck Up' Hair Was Once Fashionable

Lowman

Not long ago in my question box a reader asked if sugar and water are good for the hair and scalp. Someone had told her this was so. I answered the question by telling her I had never heard of this and was not going to try it because I was afraid I would get "stuck up."

In the mail today there is a letter from a reader which brought information about this subject. I quote, "Sugar and water as a setting lotion is as old as the hills. Both my mother and grandmother have used it on occasion. It had a big comeback in this city a few years ago when I was in grade school.

"It makes your hair look and feel like stiff cotton candy. I think a beautician would frown on the practice, because it makes your hair and scalp very dry."

It still sounds sticky to me, but this is an interesting bit of information. I feel certain that it would be damaging if used very often.

Q. I am 12 years old and haven't any trouble with my face, yet, but when I do I want to know how to take care of it.

A. This young woman surely believes a stitch in time saves nine, and how right she is: She is just entering the period in life when skin blemishes are most likely. Few people pass through the teen-age years without some trouble of this kind, because the little oil glands are especially active during these years.

Washing your face three times a day with soap and water is an excellent preventive measure. If your face is not at all oily, wash it twice a day. Cut down on the "junk" food. This will be good for your health as well as your complexion. Do not pick at your face.

Q. I have chronic back trouble. Every time I try to do any exercises my back goes out of kilter and the pain is very intense. I have read that exercise will strengthen your back muscles and get rid of back trouble. What exercises should I perform? I would love to lose some unwanted inches from my waist and hips.

A. Any exercises you do should be prescribed by your physician. Others might be damaging for you. It is true you can strengthen muscles with exercise, but you should do just those which are specific for your particular trouble. If your doctor does not allow most exercises, he might let you do some stretching exercises. If you are overweight, count calories for a loss in measurements.

Q. Everyone tells me that I look young for my age. I am 45 years old. However, recently I have noticed that my lower jaw line is beginning to sag. What can I do to stop this and correct what I have?

A. Facial exercises will help. Try this one. Apply a lubricating cream to your face. Open your mouth a little more than half-way. Slowly, as though against resistance, close your jaws and at the same time lift the corners of your mouth as you do when smiling. Relax and repeat six times the first day, gradually increasing until you are doing this exercise 10 times daily.

If you would like to have my facial exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them. Address it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Second-Class Attitude Attributed to Schools

OTTAWA (CP) — Schools contribute to the attitude that women are second-class citizens, Mrs. Joseph Klein of Ottawa said at a women's rights seminar this week at the National Conference on Human Rights.

Mrs. Klein said she thinks girls in school are "made to feel not mentally or physically fit for public life."

She also was bothered by the apathy of women in general towards politics.

Miss M. E. MacLellan of Ottawa said that the fact only one woman now is a member of Parliament is a "rather sad commentary" on women's participation. Miss MacLellan, one of the seminar leaders, is chairman of the National Council of Women of Canada's committee on women's status.

Mme. Therese Casgrain of Montreal, who prepared a working paper for the seminar, said women's role in politics unfortunately seems to be confined to licking and stamping envelopes and doing work in the kitchen.

She did not think women should be satisfied with crumbs. "I want a whole dish before I die."

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

South's three no-trump call was the winning bid. It was also well-thought-out. He did have five pretty good hearts and his partner had raised him but his distribution was 5-3-3-2 and he felt that the hand would probably produce as many tricks at no-trump as at spades.

North almost let the hand play there but North kept looking at his four good hearts and finally took the hand back to the suit contract.

At three no-trump South would have eventually got around to leading his jack of clubs. If West covered South would have a sure club trick, if West played low South would let the jack ride and make his club trick that way. Since South had eight top tricks, one in clubs would have been all he needed.

Opening lead—♠ 3

Playing at four hearts South needed two club tricks for his contract. He made a valiant effort to get them but brilliant defence was too much for him.

After winning the spade lead South played out two rounds of trumps. Then he cashed his remaining top spade and dummy's ace of diamonds. A second diamond lead put East in. East took one more diamond and was left with just spades and clubs. A spade lead would give South a ruff and discard and East wasn't going to fall into that trap. He led his deuce of clubs.

South played the jack and here is where West showed his mettle. Ninety-nine players out of 100 would have covered the jack with the queen but West played the four.

The Detroit expert, Chuck Berger, sat West. He had counted the hand and knew that South still held two clubs and was sure to lose both unless one happened to be the ace. In that case, Chuck might have lost a trick but it would have been an overtrick, not the contract trick.

SOUTH OAK BAY
A private estate of 1¼ acres
A unique, outstanding, Victoria residence

Probably the only property of its type within this municipality available today or in the foreseeable future. It offers privacy embraced by lawns, shade trees, a sunken garden and patios. Also extensive views. The 1½ storey plan provides 12 rooms and five bathrooms plus guest or staff accommodation. There is a swimming pool with changing rooms and a billiard room, garaging for four cars with extra guest parking. It is offered at

$125,000

Obviously a property you would want to discuss first. Illustrated brochures with full details are available which will be mailed to interested out-of-town clients. Please contact MR. SIMPSON, eves. 385-7369.

ONE OF VICTORIA'S STATELY HOMES

Makes an ideal setting for fine antique furnishings and provides space for those who love to entertain on the large scale. This one is well located adjacent to the border of south Oak Bay and is surrounded by one half acre of treed lawns and flower beds. From its wide hospitable entry hall to the mahogany panelled library, all 10 rooms are on the grand scale and provide over 4,000 sq. ft. of living space. Yes, it needs some restoration to bring it up to date to modern standards, especially from the utility standpoint of bathrooms and kitchen. Basically it is sound, solid and pleasingly designed with the half timber styling for which Victoria is noted. An unusual opportunity for those of moderate means and artistic taste. Priced at—

HANDYMAN OPPORTUNITY

1500 down could purchase this 5-room bungalow in the Marigold area. Certainly it needs up-dating to modern standards, the kitchen is large but the counters are terrible. There is a fireplace in the living room but it has been blocked up. Full basement and with an iron fireman coal furnace (it works). On a nice treed lot with fruit trees (badly neglected) the property can be bought by the right party for only—

Anderson Blasts 'Waste' of Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has "wasted a tremendous amount of foreign aid" in Vietnam, the Commons external affairs committee was told today.

David Anderson (L — Esquimalt-Saanich), a former external affairs department officer, administered Canada's foreign aid in Vietnam in 1963-64.

He told the committee aid to Vietnam was given for "international political purposes" and had no real value for the Vietnamese.

Fergus Chambers, director of planning in the Canadian international development agency, said the government will not achieve its foreign aid targets as soon as originally stated.

"We don't plan to reach our target of aid equal to 1 per cent of gross national product until some time in the late 1970s," he testified.

Foreign aid this year is estimated at some $300 million, including loans. Mr. Chambers said aid amounted to .44 per cent of GNP. The average for 15 countries which supply foreign aid was .69 per cent.

Mr. Anderson said money was wasted in Vietnam partly because of a top-heavy administration and added "This is taking place in far too many countries."

He suggested Canada's foreign aid be concentrated in a smaller area, perhaps in one country. "Band-aid" programs were spread far too thinly.

Pound Hit By Rush For Marks

LONDON (Reuters) — British and West German currency markets showed ominous signs of unsteadiness today.

The official central banks of both countries were active in the markets—with West Germany selling marks to keep down the price and Britain buying pounds for dollars to support its official exchange rate.

The official Bank of England was reported to have dipped into its reserves to keep up the price of the pound, which in the first hour of trading dropped to its lowest level since a currency crisis last month.

Friday trading often reflects nervousness about what might happen during the weekend, and by noon today the pound fell to $2.3836 U.S.—one-fifth of a cent below its Thursday level.

It was a speculative rush to buy marks—because many people expected the West German currency to be revalued upward—that started the economic crisis last month and put strong pressure on France for a devaluation of the franc.

Most of the movement of money today was toward the mark again, and traders also reported wide demand for Swiss francs.

Language Standards Proposed

A plan for common standards of teaching German across Canada was presented to provincial education ministers this week.

The result of a two-year study chaired by Dr. J. B. MacLean, head of the University of Victoria's German language department, the plan was drafted for the Canadian Association of Teachers of German.

Its aim is to simplify university entrance by creating equal standards of instruction in every province and making transfers easier, the association said.

Dr. MacLean said he hopes the provinces will organize equivalent levels in their instruction programs.

The curriculum plan outlined in the brief would start at the Grade 6 level. Eventually, said Dr. MacLean, he would like to see it starting at Grade 3 when students "are most receptive" to instruction in another language.

Nixon Denies He Will Send An Observer

By CARROLL KILPATRICK

NEW YORK (WP) — Ambassador W. Averell Harriman was contradicted Thursday after he had reported that president-elect Richard M. Nixon would send an observer to the Paris peace talks later this month.

Harriman made the statement after conferring with Mr. Nixon for more than an hour on the negotiations and other world matters.

"I got the impression that he will send an observer but I don't know who he will be or when he will come," Harriman said.

Later, aboard the Nixon plane heading for California, spokesman Ron Ziegler said that Harriman apparently got the wrong impression.

"There will be no observer sent to Paris ... between now and Jan. 20 Ambassador Robert D. Murphy is, and will continue to be, Mr. Nixon's foreign policy observer and he will continue to carry out his responsibility in Washington, D.C.," Ziegler said.

Report Summary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney-General Ramsey Clark described today as "pure fabrication" a published report that the United States justice department rewrote the special report on violence during the Democratic national convention in Chicago in August.

Clark acknowledged that government attorneys received advance copies of the report, but said the department only suggested changes involving deletion of comments on cases under investigation.

"The department did not suggest the change of even one word in the summary," he said.

The Chicago Tribune says Daniel Walker, who headed the task force that prepared the special report for the president's commission on violence, brought advance copies to Washington.

The Tribune says Clark was not satisfied and, at his direction, the report — particularly the summary — was substantially rewritten.

Jury Calls For Changes

NATAL (CP) — A coroner's jury Thursday night called for changes in the provincial Mines Act to regulate dumping of overburden from open-pit mining operations.

The jury was investigating the deaths of John Louis LaPaire, 47, and his wife Shirley Elaine, 46, of Natal, killed when a massive slide of overburden buried their car Nov. 24.

The car was crushed as 300,000 tons of overburden from a Kaiser Coal Co. strip mine thundered down onto the Southern Trans-Canada Highway near this mining community 375 miles east of Vancouver.

The jury made no finding other than that the man and woman were crushed in their car. Jurors did not make any specific suggestions for changes in the Act.

No regulations now exist for inspection of mine waste heaps in British Columbia.

'Play for Voices' Hurt by Over-Production

By AUDREY JOHNSON

In the beginning there was Wales. And the spirit of Wales spoke in the music of the soft Celtic tongue and the lilt of the Welsh voices.

And then in the 20th century came Dylan Thomas, who perfectly transposed that music and those voices and the spirit behind them into another language—English.

Thomas, whose strings of gorgeous words weave, in Under Milkwood and A Child's Christmas in Wales, memories, sensual response, glimmerings of tender humor, a never-to-be-assuaged nostalgia.

And there lies the essential heart of the matter in any attempt to perform the "play for voices," Under Milkwood.

It is being done for the third time in Victoria this week and next at McPherson Playhouse, on this occasion by RPA Productions. Former producers were the Theatre Guild and University of Victoria.

Under Milkwood is, let's face it, for the specially indoctrinated audience; it is most ideally suited to being performed in the intimate atmosphere of the coffee club or the small experimental theatre.

RPA have undoubtedly realized this. It was clear at Thursday night's opening that they have attempted to alter its format to suit quite different conditions and a more general audience.

It is unfortunate that in attempting this so much of the music, the poetry and poignancy has been lost through over-production.

If director Timothy Bond had used as light a touch in providing "action" as designer Susan Benson has done in the pleasingly skeletal setting and indicated costumes, all might still have been well.

The set works nicely despite a faintly Chinese overtone because Miss Benson, in borrowing from the high oriental art of understatement, has been perceptive.

But the opposite is true of Mr. Bond's direction. This is over-stated all the way.

The continual popping in and out of characters, many times to speak no more than two or three words, struck me simply as a waste of energy, an impediment to clear enjoyment of the poetry; a distracting echo of old-fashioned elocution or classroom dramatizations of poems.

There was effective lighting that, next to the set, should take top honors. The mechanical quality of most of the sound effect, however, was but another disruption of mood.

Most of the voices were no more than adequate for the task. Exceptions—Owen Foran, Pam O'Neill, Ethel Lloyd Jones, Jill Adams.

And there were characterizations by some of the same actors that, if they had been occasional cameos in the voice-tapestry, would have been highly effective.

This evening with Dylan Thomas will be repeated tonight, Saturday and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

There is a kind of man who tries.

Falling off a horse is one thing. Falling with a horse is quite another. A steeplechase rider knows the hazards well, and still pushes his mount and himself to the utmost. The full shot. There is a whisky like that. A whisky that gives the full shot in taste and remarkably full flavour. Gold Stripe.
It will put 100% full, laughing taste in your mouth with every sip. And quietly leave. Without biting. If you want a little honest taste, maybe you should try Gold Stripe.
And get the full shot.

'Y' Adds Classes for Jogging Craze

So many men over 30 are interested in jogging, the YMCA has added two veterans' classes to its cross-country run in Beacon Hill Park Dec. 14.

They are:

1. Joggers, 35 years and up, who will run 1.8 miles.

2. Masters, 30 years and up, who will run 2.9 miles with a five second start for every year over 30.

This means that the 40-year-olds will have a 50-second advantage over the 30-year-olds.

"So far we've had 28 entries in the joggers' class and 29 in the masters," says Y physical director Art Burgess, "and many of the latter are university professors and teachers.

"We invited entries from the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada. Many of those who responded are NCOs in the over-30 bracket."

Mr. Burgess says he has been "besieged" by inquiries from older men who seem anxious to improve their standard of physical fitness. Entry forms can be obtained at the Y, 880 Courtney Street.

More than 100 boys and girls, ages ranging from 11 to 17, have entered the open classes for a five-mile jog around the park.

All classes—under-30s and over-30s—will assemble on the south slope of the Dallas Road waterfront at 1 p.m. on Saturday Dec. 14.

Is Merger of Churches Only a Bid to Survive?

By DAVID DAVIDSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Is union between the Anglican Church of Canada and the United Church an expedient to keep a dying church going?

This was asked Wednesday night at a public meeting called by the general commission studying union of the two churches.

"I'm not prepared to accept that the church is dying," said Dr. A. B. B. Moore, president of Victoria University, Toronto. "I think it is a live church keeping itself from dying."

Dr. Moore, co-chairman of the three-day meeting of the commission that began Wednesday, said that if union is being used as a device for survival "then we may as well forget about it."

Chairman of the public meeting attended by both Anglican and United Church lay members and clergy was Arnold D. P. Heeney, the former Canadian ambassador to the United States and now chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission.

Most Rev. William L. Wright, Archbishop of Algoma and co-chairman of the Commission meetings here, said the purpose of union is not a "striving for a pan-Protestantism" but a search toward the unity of the entire Christian church.

He said also he does not believe that "unity can be divorced from truth or holiness."

The archbishop said he is not discouraged by efforts for union because "I believe we're making progress."

The Anglican system of bishops is seen as an important factor in the progress of union talks and Archbishop Wright said he hopes there will be an impartial assessment of the office of bishop.

"The United Church has accepted some constitutional form of episcopacy . . . but I do hope and pray that there will be an impartial presentation of the office, the nature, the function of a bishop in the church of God. . . ."

Dr. Moore, who with Archbishop Wright made opening statements to the public meeting, said the goal of present negotiations is organic union.

This did not mean there was no concern with a wider union but the immediate aim was for a church that is "open to the world it seeks to serve."

The goal of union, Dr. Moore said, is a new manifestation of the church "not merely the restructuring of a chruch that carries the freight of the past."

Archbishop Wright was asked about intercommunion of the Anglican and United churches and accused of waffling by one questioner at the meeting.

The archbishop said there already is limited intercommunion but it was not yet time for complete intercommunion. The Anglican Church "must not do something at the top level that will be misunderstood at the local level."

HOME GARDEN

Check Plants After Rain

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

After any period of heavy rain, it is a wise gardener who makes the rounds in his garden, visiting every plant to see whether it needs special attention.

Small additions to the rock garden and borders may suffer root exposure as loose soil was washed away by running water.

If these were plants put in during fall weeks, it might be the best plan to take a trowel and replant. Additional topsoil mixture will be needed to replace that washed away, and a final topping of gravel, or granite chips, would help prevent a similar future condition.

In cases where plants have been in place for several years, the roots are likely to extend wide and deep, so that it is only around the crown of the plant that soil needs to be replaced.

A mixture of leafmould and sand will be good for most plants in this rock garden and border category.

Trees and shrubs planted this fall will need visiting. First to check name labels, stakes and ties, replacing any loosened by wind.

Then without tramping too much on wet soil, see that no roots are exposed, and the stem of a tree for instance has not been blown around enough to create a gap between it and surrounding soil.

This frequently happens with fall planted trees and shrubs and certainly contributes to failures when spring growth should be apparent.

A pailful of almost dry, screened compost and sand is an excellent remedy to carry on these investigation trips.

Trickle some of this material around any plant stem which seems to have been loosened by wind and rain. It will go well down to fill air spaces below, preventing roots drying by air or subsequent frost penetration through the gap around the stem.

Alcoholics Should Heed Blackouts

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

I have recently been reading some articles that give me more hope for alcoholics. For ages, they have been looked on as social outcasts or criminals, but today, many people, and particularly physicians, are beginning to see alcoholism is a disease — usually a mild psychosis often inherited, and an equivalent of a family psychosis. Commonly the drinking is a compulsion due to the patient's great need for relief from nervous tension, from depression, and from a desire to forget many mistakes and many injuires to friends and loved ones.

Alvares

Recently, I read an article which pointed out the man who becomes an alcoholic often is also a compulsive smoker and compulsive user of drugs which influence the mind. For instance, if he gets hold of a bottle of barbiturate capsules, he may take so many he may nearly kill himself. At other times, in his efforts to get over a hangover, he may take too much of a tranquilizer of some amphetamine like benzedrine.

I often think of a very able man who once came to me. He — one of the leading attorneys in a big city — was beginning to drink himself out of his practice. When I asked him why, with his great intelligence, he was starting on a course which he could easily see would soon lead to a terrible disaster, he said every so often such a distressing nervous tension built up in him he felt he just had to get relief some way.

Often he would get up from his desk and walk up and down the hall. Then when Friday night came, he would say to himself, "If only I could drink a bit, I could get a rest from this awful tension, and I would feel better by Monday morning." But after some months of heavy drinking, he could no longer go to work on Mondays; he had too bad a hangover, or he just couldn't stop drinking. And then his partners had to retire him.

One fact that interested me was the man's son, by the time he was 16, was already an alcoholic; he had become an alcoholic ahead of his father, which showed his trouble was not imitation — it was hereditary. I am sorry to say that, like so many alcoholics, the lawyer never came back to me for help; he just drank and drank until he had a stroke and died. He died when he was in his 40s.

One of the worst things about alcoholism is that hundreds of thousands of alcoholics will not admit they have any problem; and a man cannot be helped until he sees clearly what is happening to him, and calls for help. As long as an alcoholic won't admit he is one; as long as he says, "I can handle this," as long as he cannot see he is wrecking his business, or he is going to be fired from his job, of he is "pickling his liver" or literally shrinking his brain, he can't be helped.

As I always say, the people in Alcoholics Anonymous, which is the best cure for alcoholism I know of, usually cannot help people until they come of their own free will, asking for help, and admitting alcohol has got them down. So many alcoholics say, "I can take it or leave it," when they cannot.

A high percentage of alcoholics, after they have apparently been cured, must not ever touch a drink again, because they can't be sure they can stop with one or two drinks.

FLASHBACK ON CANADA

Brave Island Woman Saved Crew of Ship

By BOB BOWMAN

Madeleine de Vercheres and Laura Secord have long been recognized as Canadian heroines. Has anybody heard of Minnie Paterson? She deserves a place on the list of gallant Canadian women.

Bowman

On Dec. 6, 1906, the 850-ton barque Coloma sailed from Puget Sound on the Pacific coast with a cargo of lumber for Australia. While passing south of Vancouver Island the Coloma ran into a heavy gale, was partially dismasted, and sprang a leak. As she drifted helplessly towards the shore, Captain Allison hoisted the flag upside-down on what was left of a mast. This distress signal was recognized by Thomas Paterson, lighthouse keeper at Cape Beale, who realized that the only way to save the men on board would be to get the lighthouse tender Quadra which was at Bamfield, six miles away.

The telephone had been put out of action by falling trees, and Paterson could not leave the lighthouse, so his wife Minnie, mother of five children, volunteered to try to get a message to the Quadra. By this time it was dark, but she dressed warmly, took a lantern and the family dog, and set out along the rocky shore for Bamfield.

It was a terrible winter walk in a gale, at night, and part of the journey was through the woods. However, she arrived at the McKay home only to find that Mr. McKay was away. So she and Mrs. McKay got a small boat and rowed out to the Quadra, despite the waves. The Quadra, a small steamer, managed to get to the Coloma in time to put a line on board and enable the crew to get off. Shortly after the last man was saved the Coloma struck a reef and sank.

Mrs. Paterson did not stop at the McKays' for the night, but walked home again, exhausted. She never recovered from the ordeal and died five years later. Her determination and bravery saved the lives of men that stormy night off the southern tip of Vancouver Island.

Other events on Dec. 6:

1837 — Rebels invaded Lower Canada from Vermont but were defeated.

1880 — First issue of Edmonton Bulletin.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prize? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a 20 volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Joseph Scorcio, age 12, of Spokane, Washington, for his question:

What are ultrasonic waves?

Sonic equipment copes with sound and a sonic boom delivers a resounding bang. "Ultra" adds something extra to a word. "Ultrarapid" is faster than normal and "ultrawise" means super sensible. "Ultrasonic" refers to sounds that are so high that they are above the range of normal human hearing.

Sound, as you know, is a form of energy that vibrates at different speeds through solids, liquids or gases. Its different qualities are governed by variations in its vibrations. Sound waves rise and fall in cycles, and they are measured by frequency—so many pulsing cycles of sound per second. The lowest note on a piano has a frequency of 27. An organ may utter a deep throaty note of 15 sound vibrations per second, while the highest not on a piano is 4,000 vibrations per second. Normal human hearing equipment can sense and interpret the variations with a frequency range from 20 to 20,000 vibrations per second. We hear the highest of these wave lengths as thin, very high pitched sounds.

But sound waves are not limited to our range of hearing, and ours are not the best ears in the world. Maybe you call you dog home to dinner by blowing into what seems to be a noiseless little whistle. Actually the whistle utters a note that is too high for your ear to hear. Most dogs have super hearing equipment that can detect shorter sound waves than we can. Waves of such high frequency are called ultrasonic waves. This range of super sound begins with about 20,000 cycles per second. Its lowest notes may be just within the capabilities of a well-tuned human ear.

Bats, dolphins and many other members of the animal kingdom have astonishing biological equipment for using ultrasonic waves. Scientists have borrowed these ideas to build all sorts of mechanical ultrasonic equipment. Ultrasonic waves can be fed into a microphone and then into an electronic oscilloscope, which transposes them into shadowy images for viewing on a special fluorescent screen. The high frequency sounds can thus be seen.

Detects Flaws

Ultrasonics, like audible sound wave, bounce and echo back from solid objects in the air and water. Ultrasonic beams are directed to scan underwater and report echoes from enemy submarines. Distance is estimated from the time that the sound waves take to reach the target and echo back. This echolocation is sonar—Sound Navigation and Ranging. Similar devices are used to chart the floor of the ocean. Ultrasonic waves also are used for many other purposes, such as detecting flaws in metals and drilling tooth cavities, pasteurizing milk and sterilizing surgical instruments. The somascope is a super X-ray machine. It uses ultrasonic echolocation to reveal nerves and muscle within the body. And we expect many more amazing new uses for inaudible supersonic waves.

Much of our information in this field has been gathered from studies of how the little brown bat uses ultrasonics to echolocate his way around obstacles. His built-in receiving equipment can interpret sound waves up to 50,000 cycles per second, almost three times higher than frequencies we can hear. The porpoise can do even better. He can interpret frequencies of 150,000—seven times above the human range. Certain whales now being studied may be able to do even better.

Andy sends a World Book Globe to Cindy Tripp, age 9, of Rockford, Illinois, for her question:

Why are rainbows always in the eastern part of the sky?

This question must come from someone who is much too busy to look up at the sky during the morning. The glimmering rainbow appears in the eastern part of the sky only during the afternoon, when the sun is dipping down in the west. The day, of course, must be showery. The sun must be shining from a clear patch of blue and over in the opposite part of the sky a cloud must be weeping a shower of raindrops. The falling raindrops act like zillions of shiny little mirrors. When the slanting rays of the sun strike them from across the sky, the raindrop mirrors relfect ribbons of color and a rainbow arches over the heavens.

The same weather picture may happen in the morning. But now the sun is rising in the east. The rainy cloud must be in an opposite part of the sky, which now is the west. Rainbows that appear in the early morning are in the western part of the sky—and they are just as glamorous as those that appear in the east late in the day.

FEATURED as part of Victoria Secondary School's production, Stage '68, tonight and Saturday, will be an art show by the students of Michael Hemming. The art is for real but there must be a joke somewhere as Peter Duckworth puts finishing touches on one of the exhibits. Nicole de Goutiere and Mr. Hemming also share the fun. Also in the program are two one-act plays directed by H. C. Farr and music by the symphonic band under A. Waldhaus. Stage '68 gets under way each night at 8:15.

'Half a Dozen' Names Suggested

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said there are "about half a dozen" prospects for filling the $40,000-a-year vacancy on the new Provincial Mediation Commission.

He said the names had been suggested to him as suitable replacements for D. R. Blair, who resigned more than a month ago.

Mr. Peterson said he is considering the names and hopes cabinet will make an appointment "in a few days — I wouldn't want to narrow the time down more than that."

Before Magistrate

An 18-year-old youth appeared in court Thursday charged with theft after a citizen became suspicious and phoned police when he saw two youths enter a garage across from his home.

Police said the man called after seeing one of the youths go to the garage door several times and look up and down the street.

Frank Kingses, 1160 North Park, pleaded guilty to stealing a car battery and was remanded to Dec. 13 for pre-sentence report and sentence.

Const. David Glancy said when he arrived at the scene Kingses and another youth were in front of the garage. A battery had been taken from a car and placed on the ground.

He said a pair of vice grips and some wrenches were found on the youths and both had soiled hands. Value of the battery was $26.

Kingses didn't give any explanation for the theft.

Trial date has been tentatively set for Jan. 7 for a 21-year-old Victoria youth facing four charges arising from an incident at a city night club about three weeks ago.

Richard Paul Howard, no address available, pleaded not guilty to possession of an offensive weapon, possession of an unregistered firearm and a spring-knife and assault.

Gerald Harvey, 20, of Vancouver charged following the same incident will face trial Jan. 3.

Reorganization Of NRC Members

OTTAWA (CP) — A major administrative reorganization has been made at the top of the National Research Council to give the council better control of its own research effort and to reinforce its assistance and involvement with university and industrial research.

Dr. W. G. Schneider, NRC president, announced his reorganization at a news conference Wednesday at which he also said the council will make special efforts to promote bilingualism.

However, initial efforts in this field had failed to attract a French-speaking scientist to take on one of the five senior posts involved in the reorganization.

To strengthen NRC activities in industrial research assistance and promotion, Richard D. Hiscocks, former director of research and future projects of de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., was named one of two scientific vice-presidents of NRC.

The second is Dr. Donald J. LeRoy, chairman of the University of Toronto's chemistry department and dean of the graduate department. His responsibility will be close liaison with the universities and generating policies and programs for NRC's extensive grants and some announced previously, at the same level

—Dr. D. W. R. McKinley, former head of NRC's radio and electrical engineering division, becomes executive director of NRC laboratories, responsible for developing policies and research programs conducted in council laboratories.

—Dr. K. F. Tupper, former scientific vice - president, becomes vice-president for administration with financial and personnel management responsibilities.

—Dr. L. G. Cook, formerly manager of General Electric's project and analysis and program planning section at Schenectady, N.Y., becomes delegue-general, a term borrowed from France.

His appointment, announced previously, involves long-range policy and plans formulation covering NRC's activities in its own laboratories and in support and encouragement of universities and industry.

Dr. Schneider said discussions were held with many French-speaking Canadian scientists and serious negotiations with eight or 10 in an effort to fill one of the scientific vice-presidential posts, or other senior posts.

But the general feeling of these men had been that they had such an important task in the current buildup of science and engineering in Quebec universities that out of loyalty they could not leave their posts.

The council "fervently hoped" to be able to attract French-speaking Canadians to senior posts in future and was emphasizing a "change of atmosphere" aimed at wider knowledge and use of both official languages.

Efforts were being made to arrange one-year exchanges of English-speaking scientists from the NRC for French-speaking scientists or engineers from French-language universities and institutions.

JAILED TELLER'S GOODS OFFERED

VANCOUVER (CP) — Crowds were large Thursday at the auction of articles from the home of a jailed Penticton bank clerk but eyes were on the costly items not yet offered for bids.

"The big stuff goes tonight," said Maynard's Auctioneers Ltd., referring to luxury cars and expensive jewelry from the home of Anne Kathleen Spiller, 26, jailed three years for theft.

The Royal Bank of Canada is attempting through the sale to recover some of the $492,000 stolen from a Penticton branch where Miss Spiller worked and was described as a model employee.

No figures were available on progress of the auction Wednesday and Thursday. About 1,500 persons attended Wednesday and Maynard's said Thursday night: "The crowds are still big."

Miss Spiller was sentenced last month for theft of $492,956.17. The Crown has filed notice of appeal on grounds the sentence is too light in view of the nature of the case.

Frances (Bambi) Shubin, 41, who shared Miss Spiller's home at Naramata, near Penticton, has been committed for trial on a charge of unlawful possession of more than $50, knowing it to have been obtained through an indictable offence.

Man Guilty Extorting Intercourse

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Robert Raymond Bird, 32, of Vancouver was convicted Wednesday of extorting sexual intercourse from a Burnaby woman.

Bird, the father of two and described in court as a pillar of his church, was remanded in custody for sentence by Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan of the British Columbia Supreme Court.

It was the first charge of extorting intercourse ever laid in Canada.

The charge was that Bird did "... without lawful justification or excuse and with intent to extort or gain something, to wit, sexual intercourse, with ..., by threats, accusations or menaces, induced her to have sexual intercourse with him ..."

The 28-year-old woman testified she was led to believe by a telephone caller that photographs had been taken of her husband engaging in an indecent act at a party.

She said she was told she could obtain the pictures in exchange for intercourse with the caller.

She said she did it to save her husband from public disgrace.

Evidence proved there had been no indecency committed, and that pictures purported to show this act did not exist.

CHILDREN OF ASIA

Abandoned, Lonely, Foster Parent Plan Gives Them Hope

By SUSAN RILEY

For $10 a month you can adopt a child you'll never see.

You will be feeding him, educating him—maybe saving his life—but never meet him.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova calls the starving children of Asia "my children," but she's more than willing to share them with you through the Unitarian Service Committee Foster Parent Scheme.

Of her recent trip to Asia Dr. Hitschmanova said, "I saw scars on the children that will never be erased.

The USC has helped more than 15,000 children since the Second World War.

"This year I still have about 100 children unassigned to foster parents," she said. "More and more are being abandoned by their parents because of hunger."

In USC homes they find more than food and warmth.

"They also receive education. They long cherish the memory of school and are so eager to learn," said Dr. Hitschmanova.

"There is great power in human beings," said Dr. Hitschmanova who rarely discusses her personal philosophy.

"It is there for us to use, and you can see it in little children.

"But these children," she said, speaking of the orphans in India and Korea, "are disabled and maimed in outlook. There is hope, if you give them opportunity, even for the most forgotten, the most maltreated."

She has seen "miracles" performed for these children when they are given the opportunity. Opportunity

MPs Hear Plan To Streamline House Rules

OTTAWA (CP)—The special committee on Commons procedures submitted its report to the House today and its recommendations for sweeping changes were promptly branded by the opposition as debate-throttling closure.

The bulky report, arising out of weeks of consideration by an all-party committee, among other things proposes abolishing the traditional House committees of supply and ways and means—main vehicles now for debate.

Thhe whole procedure of debates, referral to committee, length of speeches and hours of sittings would be drastically revamped if the report wins parliamentary approval.

But outside the chamber, opposition spokesmen began whetting their knives.

Gerald W. Baldwin, Conservative House leader, termed it a government bid to apply closure to debate. Other party spokesmen were preparing detailed criticism of the document.

DENIES CLOSURE

Mr. Blair denied in an interview that the proposals amount to closure. The purpose was "to get Parliament to use its time more effectively and more efficiently."

He said the areas of sharpest disagreement are over the allocation of time for certain debates and the new procedures for dealing with supply motions—the motions that give the government money to meet day-to-day bills.

The committee proposals would give Commons committees more authority—and more work. In essence, much of the subject of debates now conducted on the House floor would be shifted to the committees.

The report recommends these committees improve the quality of their debates and hopefully win for committee members more recognition than they now have as back-bench MPs.

On the committee of supply—a committee of the entire House which scrutinizes government spending—the report says:

Bell Asks Rate Hike; Not In B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Bell Canada applied to the Canadian Transport Commission today for approval of higher telephone rates, to take effect next March 1.

The increases for private-line residence service, if approved, will go up by 40 to 70 cents a month in most communities served by Bell in Newfoundland, Quebec, Ontario and the far North.

Telephone service for business establishments will be raised more than residential service.

Long-distance rates will be raised for most calls requiring the services of a long-distance operator, but no increase is planned for long-distance calls over 35 miles dialed directly by customers.

In Vancouver, British Columbia Telephone Company said it will not follow the Bell Canada lead in seeking increases in telephone rates.

J. Ernest Richardson, president, said in a statement that the company "has no plans at present to apply to the Canadian Transport Commission for any general revision of its present rate structure."

"Our basic rate structure for exchange service has remained unchanged since 1958," the statement said.

The statement said advanced technology and productivity and the rapid growth of B.C. had assisted in maintaining existing rates.

Suit Asks Accounting

VANCOUVER (CP)—Crown Trust Co. filed suit in British Columbia Supreme Court on Thursday against Centennial Mortgage Corp. Ltd., one of the Commonwealth group of companies under the receivership of A. D. Peter Stanley. Crown Trust asks for an accounting of what may be owing to holders of certain notes and debentures issued by Centennial in 1961 and 1962 under trust agreements.

No Question Of No Voice For Indians

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today there's no question of the National Indian Brotherhood having a voice in the federal-provincial constitutional conference two weeks hence.

He said in a Commons reply for Robert Simpson (PC—Churchill) that he knows of no request from the Brotherhood for a role.

Mr. Trudeau said only federal and provincial government representatives will address the meeting.

Snowstorm Halts Traffic, Shipping

TORONTO (CP) — Southwestern, eastern and central Ontario were hit by a major snowstorm Thursday, which caused several power failures, a number of minor traffic accidents and for a time forced the closing of two highways and Welland Ship Canal.

High winds hindered ship traffic on Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. Ship traffic resumed on the Welland Canal as the storm tapered off.

At least one traffic fatality was attributed to the storm when a woman was killed in a two-car crash in London.

Provincial police at Stratford said a 12-mile stretch on Highway 8 to Mitchell had to be closed for three hours when snow driven by winds up to 60 miles an hour reduced visibility to a few yards and built snow drifts up to four feet.

In the Lake Simcoe area, Highway 69 between Brechin and Washago was also closed to traffic for several hours.

Orillia received about eight inches of snow.

Winds up to 45 miles an hour caused a two-hour power failure in the Sarnia area.

Winds up to 55 miles an hour brought down several power lines in Mississauga, just west of Toronto, and resulted in short power failures in surrounding areas.

Two houses being transported by tractor-trailers on Highway 27 northwest of Toronto were blown off the road.

No Evidence Of Genocide, Says Report

OTTAWA (CP) — The international observer team for Nigeria reported today that it found no evidence that the federal Nigerian army is practising genocide against the Ibos.

In a report on its activities from Sept. 24 to Nov. 23, the four-nation team, including a representative from Canada, said that in the areas it visited the federal military government was protecting Ibo people and Ibo property.

The observers neither saw nor heard evidence that the federal army is following a policy of genocide towards the Ibo people, it said.

'ASSIST IBOS'

"There is evidence that the federal military government and the Nigerian army have a program to assist all persons affected by the war, including Ibos.

"Based on what the observers saw and heard they are of the opinion that the use of the term 'genocide' is unwarranted."

The report was signed by Maj.-Gen. W. A. Milroy of Canada, Maj.-Gen. Arthur Raab of Sweden, Col. Alfons Olkiewicz of Poland and Brig. Sir Bernard Fergusson of Britain.

Its findings were broadly in line with three interim reports issued since the team went to Nigeria at the invitation of the Nigerian federal government to investigate charges by secessionist Biafra that Nigerian troops were trying to exterminate the Ibos.

Some Progress At Paris Talks

Times News Services

SAIGON—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops launched a major assault against 37 South Vietnamese bases and towns overnight in the heaviest shelling since the Nov. 1 halt in bombing of North Vietnam.

The bombardment was followed by a ground assault by North Vietnamese troops on the key U.S. base at Dong Ha just below the demilitarized zone.

While the Communist assault continued, American and South Vietnamese diplomats in Paris reported some progress in peace negotiations and there were indications that the full-scale conference could begin next week.

In South Vietnam, Viet Cong and Hanoi forces fired between 300 and 400 mortar and rocket shells, killing at least 27 South Vietnamese and wounding 104.

The majority of the rocket and mortar attacks came in an arc northwest to north of Saigon. Guerrillas in that area also rampaged through a hamlet, killing 11 persons, wounding another 22 and burning 25 houses.

In 28 of the attacks the targets were 10 provincial capitals and district towns and 18 South Vietnamese military bases, a government spokesman said.

The government said that since the halt in the bombing there have been 115 shellings of provincial capitals and district towns, with 56 civilians killed and 498 wounded.

DOWN TWO 'COPTERS

The American command also announced that two U.S. helicopters were shot down within 10 miles of heavily defended provincial capital of An Loc Wednesday and Thursday, killing all eight crew members.

At the northern end of South Vietnam, U.S. bombers and the battleship New Jersey made coordinated attacks Thursday on North Vietnamese gun positions and bunkers inside the demilitarized zone for the second time this week.

U.S. headquarters said shells from the New Jersey's 16-inch guns and the bombs from the jets smashed five 50-calibre machine-gun emplacements, 15 bunkers and 65 yards of trenches.

Military spokesmen said U.S. marines overran 30 enemy bunkers 11 miles south of Da Nang, and apparently there was no resistance. The marines reported finding 58 bodies.

This was part of Operation Meade River, a two-week-old hunt for a force of North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong guerillas posing a potential threat to Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city.

A spokesman said the 7,000-man force, which includes South Vietnamese infantry and South Koreans, have killed 499 guerrillas. About 50 U.S. marines have been killed, and other allied casualties are reported light.

In the Paris peace negotiations U.S. officials said agreement has been reached with Hanoi on five points:

- The first session of the broadened conference will immediately start discussing pro-

Both Sides Square Off Over Table

Times News Services

PARIS — A serious disagreement has broken out at the peace negotiations here on whether the four delegations will sit at a square or rectangular conference table.

North Vietnam's chief delegate, Xuan Thuy, told reporters at a reception Thursday night that North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front want a square table. This would underline the Communist view that the Paris conference is to be a four-party affair.

They said the Americans plugged for a rectangular table, with two long sides representative of the U.S. view that the talks will be between a Communist delegation and a joint U.S-Saigon delegation.

U.S. Ambassador Cyrus Vance and North Vietnam's Col. Ha Van Lau, who have been conducting the private sessions, were scheduled to meet again today or Saturday to tackle the table issue again.

Homemade U-Boat Used To Flee East Germany

BERLIN (UPI) — A young musician today said he escaped from communist East Germany in a homemade submarine.

West German refugee officials said Bernd Boettger, 28, was telling the truth about his undersea flight from the East German Baltic Sea coast to a Danish lightship.

Boettger told newsmen he piloted his self-made U-boat 15½ miles, part of it underwater, at a speed of three miles an hour Sept. 8.

"I was dressed in a frogman's outfit sent by my aunt in West Germany. I wore a belt with 12 pounds of lead in it to keep deep under water until I got past the searchlight, watchtowers and police patrol boats along the East German coast," Boettger said.

Proudly he showed newsmen the tiny craft he built at cost of $50.

"My next trip will be across the English Channel next year," he said.

His getaway machine consisted of a 22-pound motor enclosed in a watertight cylinder with a two-foot snorkel attached. The snorkel kept the underwater motor supplied with air from the surface as Boettger steered it away from communism to the Danish lightship Gedser.

"The whole coast is heavily guarded and it would have been impossible to escape in a rowboat or sailboat that could be seen on the surface," he said.

He tied a 10-foot long rope to the motor and was towed to the west.

"This is a new invention and I have applied for three patents on it in West Germany," he said. "Right now the U-boat must keep close to the survace so the snorkel can get air but soon I will be able to really dive when I perfect it."

He said the trip from his beach, nine miles east of the East German port of Warnemuende to the Danish light ship, went without mishap.

"There was no trouble although I was a bit frightened when a giant cod popped up in front of me," he said. "And the wave made me a bit seasick and I had a stomach ache. I was not prepared for the waves by my two years of training and experimenting on inland waters."

Story of Courage Of Heart Patient

"He may not be alive to read this."

So said the story written about Montrealer Gaetan Paris for Weekend Magazine which appears with Saturday's Times.

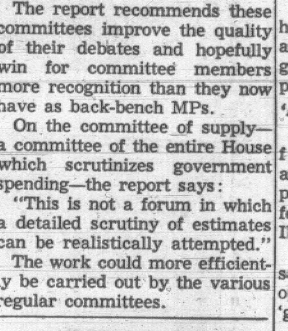
The words proved prophetic. Mr. Paris, Canada's second heart transplant patient, died Nov. 30.

Mr. Paris won't read his story. But readers across Canada may well find it inspirational.

The story is an intimate look into the private life of a man who fought heart disease for five years. Five months ago he was given a chance to start life all over again—this time with the vibrant young heart of a 23-year-old motorcycle victim.

Doctors said the heart didn't fail, that Mr. Paris died of asphyxiation following an attack of indigestion.

Mr. Paris is dead, but his personal story lives in Weekend. It's recommended reading for those who enjoy tales of courage.



IN CRITICAL condition in New Jersey hospital today is Martin J. Meade, 37, dean of Fordham University student affairs, after suffering a heart attack following a student demonstration. Students blocked Meade in his office and forced him to sign a statement urging federal grants for students demonstrators before setting him free.

SOLUTION PREDICTED TO END COLLEGE TURMOIL

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters) — Police guarded San Francisco State College today after a day of violence in which they drew guns and fired Mace, a debilitating chemical spray, at students who stopped street cars and rolled parked cars at them.

There was, however, a slight hope that a dispute which kept the university in a state of turbulence for a month might be settled.

It came after a conference between the acting university president, Samuel Ichiye Hayakawa, and San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto.

Hayawaka, a native of Vancouver, said he would be making an announcement that "can serve as a breakthrough toward resolution of campus turmoil."

He refused to go into details but Alioto said "Come February 1, there will be a school of ethnic studies at San Francisco State."

Negro demands are the heart of present unrest at the college and black and white militants demand a special school to include Negro studies.

The trouble Thursday started as about 80 student strikers marched into the university administration building, banging on walls, beating garbage cans and smashing up pictures of past presidents hanging on the walls.

Other police then moved in as the students retreated.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto, N.Y. Post Gains

Both Toronto and New York markets edged higher today. Trading was active at Toronto and moderate on Wall Street.

Price changes were generally small on both exchanges.

AT TORONTO Canadian Tire A gained 2¾ to 70½, Consolidated Bathurst 1⅞ to 22, Empire Life 1¾ to 23, Industrial Adhesives 1 to 9 and Silverwood Dairies A ⅞ to 22.

Among the heaviest traders, Bell jumped 2⅛ to 50 on news that the company has applied to the Canadian transport commission for permission to increase its telephone rates.

Among golds, Dome rose 1 to 80 and Giant Yellowknife ⅝ to 12½.

Canadian Superior Oil gained 2 to 55. The company has bought about 2,000,000 offshore acres in the Canadian Arctic in a joint purchase with its parent, Superior Oil Co. of Houston, Tex.

At NEW YORK, an improvement by steels was linked with news of recent price boosts and a more favorable attitude towards steel stocks in some Wall Street quarters.

American Telephone recouped a point of recent losses taken in reaction to the higher interest rate for commercial borrowers announced by U.S. major banks early this week.

Consolidated Bathurst gained 2¼ to 22¼ and Fleetwood 1 to 25. Famous Players fell 3¼ to 71 and Texaco 1½ to 31½.

Home Oil issues were strong as the company's A stock climbed 2¼ to 36¾ and the B, up 1⅝ to 37¾.

Among the most active traders, Massey-Ferguson rose ⅜ to 23¼ and Levy ⅜ to 36½. Husky and Price slipped ⅛ each to 25½ and 14 respectively.

AT LONDON the government stocks continued to decline and equities were unsettled today on the stock market.

Dollar stocks were mostly lower, with Standard Oil of New Jersey, U.S. Steel and General Motors showing losses of 2 to 3¼. Chrysler and Gillette both added about $4, while Ford and Shell rose 2½ each.

Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas fell 3 among Canadians, while Cominco, Pacific Pete and Imperial Oil all lost about 1½. Brazilian Light and Power and Hiram Walker edged higher.

Toronto Dominion rose 7 shillings among the banks. Nova Scotia and Imperial Commerce improved but U.K. issues eased. Insurances were quiet.

AT VANCOUVER Sunlite led the oils section in pre-noon trading, jumping $1.50 to $11 on 33,200 shares.

In the industrials, Fields gained $1 to $20 and PWA was .25 better at $13.75. EDP lost .50 to $20.50.

Marshall Creek was the most active mining issue and lost .05 to .65 on 208,000 shares.

Alwin rose .15 to $2.40 on 21,200 shares and Kimberley put on a similar amount to $1.95.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Oilseeds maintained a stronger price pattern to the close of trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, but volume turned light at mid-session.

Export interest in rapeseed continued moderately aggressive but prices moved up due to light offerings coming from commission houses and locals on the scale up.

There was a little short covering in flaxseed, mostly by locals.

Oats saw a moderate amount of domestic shipper buying and December and May futures moved up fractionally.

Action in barley and rye was almost nil throughout the session.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto, N.Y. Post Gains

Both Toronto and New York markets edged higher today. Trading was active at Toronto and moderate on Wall Street.

Price changes were generally small on both exchanges.

AT TORONTO Canadian Tire A gained 2¾ to 70½, Consolidated Bathurst 1⅞ to 22, Empire Life 1¾ to 23, Industrial Adhesives 1 to 9 and Silverwood Dairies A ⅞ to 22.

Among the heaviest traders, Bell jumped 2⅛ to 50 on news that the company has applied to the Canadian transport commission for permission to increase its telephone rates.

Seaway Hotels and Levy Industries dropped ⅞ each to 37½ and 36 after Seaway announced a share exchange offer to the remaining Levy shareholders.

Among golds, Dome rose 1 to 80 and Giant Yellowknife ⅝ to 12½.

Canadian Superior Oil gained 2 to 55. The company has bought about 2,000,000 offshore acres in the Canadian Arctic in a joint purchase with its parent, Superior Oil Co. of Houston, Tex.

At NEW YORK, an improvement by steels was linked with news of recent price boosts and a more favorable attitude towards steel stocks in some Wall Street quarters.

American Telephone recouped a point of recent losses taken in reaction to the higher interest rate for commercial borrowers announced by U.S. major banks early this week.

Consolidated Bathurst gained 2¼ to 22¼ and Fleetwood 1 to 25. Famous Players fell 3¼ to 71 and Texaco 1⅛ to 31½.

Home Oil issues were strong as the company's A stock climbed 2¼ to 36¾ and the B, up 1⅝ to 37¾.

Among the most active traders, Massey-Ferguson rose ⅜ to 23¼ and Levy ⅜ to 36½. Husky and Price slipped ⅛ each to 25½ and 14 respectively.

AT LONDON the government stocks continued to decline and equities were unsettled today on the stock market.

Dollar stocks were mostly lower, with Standard Oil of New Jersey, U.S. Steel and General Motors showing losses of 2 to 3½. Chrysler and Gillette both added about $4, while Ford and Shell rose 2½ each.

Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas fell 3 among Canadians, while Cominco, Pacific Pete and Imperial Oil all lost about 1½. Brazilian Light and Power and Hiram Walker edged higher.

Toronto-Dominion rose 7 shillings among the banks. Nova Scotia and Imperial Commerce improved but U.K. issues eased. Insurances were quiet.

AT VANCOUVER Sunlite led the oils section in pre-noon trading, jumping $1.50 to $11 on 33,200 shares.

In the industrials, Fields gained $1 to $20 and PWA was .25 better at $13.75. EDP lost .50 to $20.50.

Marshall Creek was the most active mining issue and lost .05 to .65 on 208,000 shares.

Alwin rose .15 to $2.40 on 21,200 shares and Kimberley put on a similar amount to $1.95.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Oilseeds maintained a stronger price pattern to the close of trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, but volume turned light at mid-session.

Export interest in rapeseed continued moderately aggressive but prices moved up due to light offerings coming from commission houses and locals on the scale up.

There was a little short covering in flaxseed, mostly by locals.

Oats saw a moderate amount of domestic shipper buying and December and May futures moved up fractionally.

Action in barley and rye was almost nil throughout the session.

Arthur Mayse

Vancouver, Nanaimo, Prince Rupert . . . they all have their Indian friendship centres where the newcomer from the reserve can find the help he so badly needs. In those centres are people of his own race to understand him and explain a puzzling new world to him. They make his transition to urban living easier.

Victoria hasn't acquired such a centre yet, but if present hopes are realized, a start won't be far off.

"We need a meeting place," says one of the men who shares those hopes, "and we badly need public support."

The speaker is Harry Dick, aged 27 and Songhees by birth. With his wife Linda and their eight-month-old son, David, Mr. Dick lives at 3010 Quadra Street. He works on James Island, and much of his spare time goes to friendship centre planning.

One evening this week, Harry and Linda Dick talked with me about the big job that needs doing.

"A person who is homesick is no good to anybody," Harry told me. "It's very easy for my people to become homesick in the city. So much is new and strange to them."

"Confused?" Linda spoke from where she sat with David in her lap. "You have no idea! They don't know where to go, or how to ask for information. You see, if they come from a remote village, they're afraid their speech won't be understood. So much is new to them, and they don't know what services are available to help them."

It's different on the reserve. There, everybody else is Indian, and all is friendly. Anyone in trouble can knock on any door. Sometimes the difference weighs too heavily, and homesickness wins out.

The idea of a place to go where new friendships could be made and old ones renewed has been under review for well over a year in Victoria.

Success of the Klauhawesic Club for Indian and Eskimo students attending school or university in Victoria has spurred it.

Larry Tompson, Klauhawesic president, is one member of the three-man initial planning committee that Harry Dick heads. Club secretary Thomas Dennis is the third. Friendly white groups that understand the problem are helping where and as they can.

But essentially, the friendship centre will be run by Indians for Indians, and for any Eskimos who may find themselves lonely in Victoria. It will be a counselling centre. It will be a place for talk and games, and eventually it may also function as a hostel.

To serve its purpose, it would have to be downtown and not too far from the bus station, so that Indians newly arrived here could walk to it.

"We're looking toward the future," Harry said. "I think it's important to equip the Indian to adjust better to urban living. The friendship centre will help my people integrate with the rest of the community."

Harry realized the necessity for a changed outlook when, as a Grade 12 student, he found himself for the first time in an integrated class. This was at Kamloops, and it's plain as he speaks of the experience that it had a profound effect on his thinking.

From white students, he learned a different approach to life and learning. They were aggressive; they went after what they wanted. For Harry, the year presented many problems, but he feels that it also broke down barriers to understanding.

"It helped me get up on my own two feet," he says, "and go after what I wanted."

Will they get it? I hope so. This is a fine project, and one that is proving itself to the benefit of both Indians and whites in a number of Canadian cities.

You'll hear more about the drive to establish the service. But for now, a last word from Harry Dick.

"We will show you how to dig clams," says he, smiling, "if you will help us get the equipment."

Those are all Hannans, with Reid, second officer flying DC-8 jets out of Vancouver for Air Canada, pinning pilot's wings on brother, Keith, a Grade 13 student at Claremont senior secondary who soloed after a little less than three hours dual flight training with Victoria Flying Club. Between them is father, J. R. Hannan, who founded cadet squadron 10 years ago and with son Wayne, at left, works with Air Canada at Patricia Bay Airport. Man Charged After Couple Die in Crash

A Colwood man today was charged with impaired driving, following a head-on collision on Millstream Road Thursday night in which an elderly couple was killed.

Alfred H. Burnell-Higgs, 70, of Finlayson Arm Road, and his wife Constance, 55, died after the crash.

The husband was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital. His wife died 30 minutes later.

The truck-car collision occurred just after 6:30 p.m. when the road was icy, police said.

Colwood RCMP said the Burnell-Higgs car was travelling south on Millstream Road and the Rabbitts vehicle, a three-quarter ton truck was northbound. They met head-on in the 2500 block near a trailer sales company on the corner of Millstream and the Trans-Canada Highway.

A passenger in the truck, David Frayer, also of 1938 Trans Canada Highway, suffered leg and arm injuries in the crash and is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital. Rabbitts was not hurt.

PRIED OUT

Police said the Burnell-Higgs had to be pried from the wreckage of their car. Damage was estimated at $3,200 and about $3,000 to the truck. Both vehicles are said to be beyond repair.

Thursday's fatalities brought the total in Colwood to 14 this year, the highest of any area in the Greater Victoria district. Total for the whole area this year is now 25.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said he has ordered an autopsy today and an inquest would be held early next week. Funeral arrangements have yet to be arranged.

The Burnell-Higgs are survived by a daughter, Mrs. K. Botsfort, 1077 Goldstream Road. Names of other members of the family were not available.

'OUTSIDERS' ASK CITY TO SAVE POOL

Of the 29 signatures approximately half are city residents mately half are city residents or own property in the city. The balance live in other municipalities.

City officials said they were not surprised that close to 50 per cent of the petition-signers lived outside the city limits.

The Crystal petition was spearheaded by Mrs. Bill Scott wife of the lighthouse philosopher of 1062 Newport Avenue, Oak Bay. Mrs. Scott is not listed on the city voter's list.

The petition asks council to reconsider its decision to tear down the Crystal and to keep as a symbol of an environment that is "slipping through our fingers."

31 FATALITIES

Two more fatalities here overnight brought the Canada total for Safe Driving Week to 31.

The cross-country toll for the first five days of "safe driving" shows Ontario with 12 fatalities, Quebec 10, B.C. five, Nova Scotia two, Manitoba and Alberta each one.

Everyone knows the safety rule — stay one car length behind the car ahead for each 10 miles of speed.

But who can estimate six or seven car lengths?

Greater Victoria and District Safety Council says it is easier and safer to set yourself two seconds behind the car ahead.

Watch the rear of the car ahead passing a sign, telephone pole or a crack in the road and start counting "One thousand and one, one thousand and two . . ."

PLENTY OF ROOM

If the front of your car doesn't pass the same checkpoint in that time, you have plenty of room between the two cars, the council states.

If another car is following yours too closely, slow down. Usually the following car will pass. But even if it does not, your speed can be reduced to a level which will mean minimum damage if the following car runs into yours, says the safety council.

Rear end collisions are among the most common types of accidents.

Rate Delay On Auto Insurance

Adoption of 1969 auto insurance rates for B.C. has been delayed until February.

A spokesman for the Independent Insurance Conference in Vancouver said agencies belonging to the group had been instructed to continue with 1968 rates for current and new business until the end of January.

He said the national figures upon which suggested rates are based had been delayed, which was expected to affect other companies as well.

The "green sheets," published annually and submitted to the federal insurance authorities, are still under study and review, the IIC spokesman said.

It has been customary for new rates to be published by Dec. 15 to take effect Jan. 1.

Americans Here For 'Recreation'

It will be Saturday night liberty for the 220 officers and men of the American destroyer U.S.S. Marshal, scheduled to arrive in Victoria late Saturday afternoon.

A navy spokesman said today the ship is involved in naval exercises in local waters and the purpose of its visit here is "purely recreational".

Isolation Hurts Vets' Hospital Says Minister

The Veterans' Hospital can not continue to give the best of services to veterans if it remains isolated from community hospitals, Veterans Affairs Minister Jean Eudes Dube said here today.

"They are exploratory talks on the question of turning veterans' hospitals over to civilian administration," he said. "We have arrived at no decision."

He thought the 20-year-old hospital needs improvement.

He said this could be achieved by integrating the hospital with Royal Jubilee Hospital or affiliating with a university as has been done in Ontario.

Another method would be to share facilities with a civilian hospital, he said.

"We are exploring these various avenues," he said. "Each area has different problems and what is good for one province is not necessarily so for another."

He said the difficulty in maintaining veterans hospitals as separate units is providing adequate treatment and care for chronic cases.

'NOT INTERESTED'

"Young doctors today prefer to work in the field of acute illnesses," he said. "They are not interested in chronic care."

The Victoria talks, arranged by David Groos, MP, are being closely watched across Canada. They are expected to set the stage for new federal policies on veterans' hospitals.

National president Robert Kohaly of Estevan, Sask., who took part in the discussions with Mr. Dube, said he had no quarrel with the minister's views.

Team Men Wanted By Mayor

'Think Long and Hard' Before Vote Saturday

Voters in Greater Victoria go to the polls Saturday to elect new municipal councils, school trustees and decide on one referendum.

In total the eligible voter's list adds up to a whopping 70,488 people with the right to vote. An average turn-out of between 25 and 30 per cent is expected.

Saanich heads the eligible voter's list with 29,783 residents entitled to cast ballots to select four council members from eight candidates, two school trustees from four candidates and to decide whether garbage should be collected once weekly or continue under the present every two weeks system.

Voters will state their preference at 13 polling stations:

At Cloverdale School, Cordova Bay Elementary School, Frank Hobbs School, Glanford School, Gordon Head Elementary School, Lansdowne Junior Secondary School, St. Joseph's parish hall, Mount View Secondary School, Prospect Lake community hall, Royal Oak Secondary School, St. Luke's Church hall, St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Church hall, and Tillicum School.

FIVE POLLS

In Victoria, 20,462 eligible voters will select four council members from six contestants and one school trustee from three candidates.

Voting will take place at five polling stations located at the Senior Citizens' Activity Centre, Fisgard and Government; Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped, 220 Bay Street; James Bay Elementary School, Simcoe and Oswego; Sir James Douglas Elementary School, Thurlow Street, and Oaklands Elementary School, 2827 Belmont Avenue.

As in all municipalities throughout the region polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Mayor Hugh Stephen this morning asked the electorate to give him a council team he could work with.

WORK TOGETHER

"As a leader of a team I am (also) obviously deeply concerned that I should have around me men and women who, despite individual differences of opinion, can work together sincerely and with integrity towards the continuing well-being and prosperity of our community," the mayor said.

He urged that every eligible voter throughout the area cast a vote and "exercise the most priceless privilege in their possession—their right as free people to control the destiny of their community through the selection of the men and women they consider best suited for the task.

"So please get out and vote tomorrow—and before you vote, think long and hard about the future of the city."

In Oak Bay 9,231 voters will select three council members from five candidates and one school trustee from two candidates.

Esquimalt voters totalling 4,427 will select three council members from six candidates. One vacancy for school trustee was filled by acclamation.

Central Saanich voters will also vote at the Municipal Hall where 2,389 eligible voters face one of the tougher selections in the district. There are four vacant seats, 11 candidates and one vacancy on the school board with two candidates seeking office. The mayor's post was filled by acclamation.

North Saanich voters totalling 2,601 select three council members from four candidates. One school trustee vacancy was filled by acclamation.

ONE UNOPPOSED

Sidney with 1,953 eligible voters selects two council members from four candidates. A lone school board seat was filled by acclamation.

Returning officers throughout the district this morning reminded all voters that ballot papers listed names in alphabetical order.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the difference between flotsam and jetsam? —I.M.B.

A. Flotsam is the wreckage of a ship or its cargo floating on the surface of the ocean. Jetsam designates goods tossed overboard to lighten a ship in distress. Discarded cargo which has been washed ashore is also referred to as jetsam.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

AUTHOR COMPARES CITY TO MONARCHY

FIRST OF TRILOGY ON CAPITAL

Victoria: 'A Blend of the Ludicrous, Admirable'

By JOHN SLINGER

"Good-bye," said the author of a brand-new history of Victoria, "I am going to feed the chickens and get the paper."

We walked out to the back porch of the white-trimmed, brown clapboard cottage where Derek Pethick's rubber boots stood. He shucked off his slippers, clambered into the boots, picked up a blue tobacco tin he would use to sprinkle feed and headed off through the chill afternoon.

Moments before he fashioned a phrase that touched the life, the city and the works of Derek Pethick the way a few opening notes can bring to mind a whole familiar symphony.

"Victoria," he said, "is rather like the monarchy—a pleasant blend of the ludicrous and the admirable."

The conversation began earlier that day after a letter came from Howard T. Mitchell, a Vancouver publisher, inviting us to a reception this evening "honoring Derek Pethick on the occasion of the publishing of his book—Victoria: The Fort."

FIRST OF THREE

It said the book is the first of a trilogy detailing Victoria's history.

Mr. Pethick mused that he had never been to a publisher's reception before, and "I don't know whether there's going to be free booze or free books—I'll take a chance on either.

"I don't even know whether to wear a suit or to go sort of sporty and arty." His blue-grey eyes gave a twinkle that was, like his voice, gentle yet very clear.

A 48-year-old bachelor, born in Victoria, he has lived for the last 32 years in the single-storey house just north of Elk Lake on the Patricia Bay Highway.

SELLS CHICKENS

He makes his living by bringing chicks from the mainland, raising them on his five-acre farm and selling them.

He fashions his love with a pencil, a pad, dry provincial archives' files and a typewriter he received as a gift 38 years ago.

Victoria was chosen as subject because, he says, the over-all story has never been presented. The author suggested a title for this article: "At last! Victoria's story is told. "I think it sort of catches the eye and tells what's in the book," he added.

THREE DATES

In 1843 James Douglas built Fort Victoria where Bastion Square now is; from there the city rippled out.

In 1858 gold was discovered littering the Fraser Valley; Victoria, the only supply point, all but exploded.

In 1864 Douglas, knighted and governor of both Vancouver Island and British Columbia, retired from public office and the last palisades of the fort came down; an era ended as does the first volume.

The second volume, Victoria: The Middle Years, will take the story to the end of the First World War. The third volume is not yet titled.

Mr. Pethick says he wants to tell the story, as much as possible, in the words of the people who lived it. Material comes from documents, letters and newspapers of the time.

"You see how they felt when they were first thrown into new situations," he said, hands clasped behind his neck, eyes drifting from the sizzling logs in the fireplace to the window filled with a December sun tumbling into evening.

AVERAGE READER

It was written for the average reader ("I think they'll think it's interesting.") as well as the professional historian ("I think they'll say 'He's got all the facts and figures and he's got them right.'")

Apart from an essay in the 1967 book B.C. and Confederation, published for the University of Victoria, and a few CBC radio talk scripts, this is Mr. Pethick's first venture into print.

Holder of a UBC bachelor's degree in history, he says "I think you can sort of understand your own times better by sort of knowing what happened in the past."

"You could put out a handbook of dates" over which there could be no dispute. "But when you begin to interpret, then you always have to interpret in the light of something." Something like what's happening today.

'ROOTS GO DEEP'

"Victoria's roots go deep," he says. The city today bears marks of "the solid little English class—everybody had a rank" of first settlers.

Came 1858—"a hurricane of a year"—when some 20,000 gold-hungry "roughnecks" flooded through the settlement of 300.

The colonists couldn't be sure the newcomers "might not take over the country."

Mr. Pethick spoke of today's "hunger" for Canadiana, the hunger of "a nation kind of groping" to find itself.

"Anything that contributes to our identity is a good thing."

In the living room the fire sputtered and went out, the grandfather clock remained stopped at 10 minutes to one. The author stood, stretched, smiled and said: "This wretched livestock sort of ties you down." We went out.

Ratepayers Boo Alderman Over 'Hard Work' Remark

By ED GOULD

DUNCAN — "We are here to revise the South End Municipal Ratepayers' Association and listen to candidates to the North Cowichan district council," chairman Mickey Sharp said Thursday night.

But the crowd of 75 came to shout, boo and catcall as well as sit and listen to promises.

Object of much of their anger was Ald. Dennis Hogan—on the council for five years—who got the first wave of boos when he mentioned "a hard-working council."

Cairman Sharp brought the meeting back to order and Mr. Hogan was accorded silence long enough to outline his platform which included a desire to have the provincial government survey local water reserves "as they have done in Alberta."

"It may take three to five years but when expansion comes we'll be ready for it," he said.

Ald. Hogan admitted expansion isn't likely at the moment but expected the economy to stabilize in the next few years.

He noted that recreation cost had jumped from $2,000 to $64,000 in the 10 years he had been on council.

He had taken a leading role in establishing Pioneer and Kinsmen parks.

"Cowichan Valley has given me a good living and I would like to continue giving some of that benefit back to the community," the motel owner said.

ALD. HOGAN
. . . target

Ratepayer Keith Partridge wanted to know how much it cost to place a bylaw before the public.

Told "about $1,000," he wanted to know why the same bylaws were presented "again and again."

"Because in the case of the recreation bylaw 52 per cent of the people were in favor of it," Mr. Hogan said.

Ratepayer Bruce Reid brought up dike costs on low-lying Beverly Street and Ald. Hogan said $4,000 had been spent on it and agreed to check to see why the dike hadn't been completed beyond its present stage.

Val Kyle and several others wanted to know why sewer hookups had jumped from $81 to $150 in two months and why weren't municipal crews used "when they do it cheaper" than contractors.

Bob Evans asked why North Cowichan found it necessary to build a sewage lagoon adjacent to one already in use by the city of Duncan. He contended the city had been willing to share sewage facilities and costs for a long time.

Ald. Jerry Smith said the city only wanted to take over service to "accessible" areas and only when it was to their benefit.

"In areas where we've got sewage running into drainage ditches all summer they're not interested at all."

In response to ratepayers Fred Green's suggestion that some assistance be made available for people on fixed income to pay for their sewage hookup, Ald. Hogan said Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said the Municipal Act had no provision for assistance.

Newcomers to the civic political field, personnel supervisor Daryl Moraes and businessman Jim Roome outlined their platforms to polite applause.

Mr. Roome promised if elected his Hamilton Electric firm would "not be eligible for municipal business."

His experience in business would be of value to the ratepayers because "municipal affairs should be run as efficiently as any other business."

"You may find my platform a little dull," Mr. Moraes said, "But I don't believe in promising swings or teeter-totters in any particular area. He favored slower expansion done properly rather than stop-gap.

Ald Jerry Smith wooed voters with his comment: "I am not an educated man and I don't intend to be."

Salmon Study Under Way On Jordan R.

The federal government's fisheries department is conducting engineering and biological studies to determine what steps are necessary to protect salmon runs in the Jordan River.

A three-year hydro-electric expansion program for the river will cost $30 million and preliminary work on it is under way.

Information on the fisheries study came to light in the Commons recently when MP David Anderson (Liberal—Esquimalt-Saanich) asked whether the project represented a hazard to salmon and whether construction of a spawning channel had been considered.

E. F. Whelan, parliamentary secretary to the fisheries minister, replied that the current studies will determine the best course of action for continuation of the salmon run.

Poll Book Study Ordered by Judge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A judge decided Thursday that poll books will be reviewed to determine if there were irregularities in voting in the Comox-Alberni constituency in the June 25 federal election.

Thomas Barnett, NDP candidate elected over rookie Liberal Richard Durante by three votes election night, was declared defeated by nine votes in a subsequent judicial recount.

Mr. Barnett has filed a petition in British Columbia Supreme Court contesting the election on grounds some Canadian Forces voters cast ballots in a civilian poll without the right to do so.

Mr. Durante has been given to Dec. 15 to file an answer to Mr. Barnett's petition. No date has been set for a hearing.

Mr. Justice W. R. McIntyre, at Mr. Barnett's request, Thursday ordered J. H. Hamel of Ottawa, chief electoral officer, to produce the poll books for the Vancouver Island constituency.

Election night count gave Mr. Barnett 11,943 votes to Mr. Durante's 11,940. The recount reversed the order, giving Mr. Durante 11,939 votes and Mr. Barnett 11,930.

Mr Barnett had been the member for the seat from 1953-58 and again from 1962.

'I Was Joe Boy,' Says Ex-Mayor

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Brentwood marina operators and a candidate for Central Saanich council clashed at an election meeting over the extension of waterfront leases for boating.

John Edward Gordon, former mayor of Rossland who is seeking a one-year term, was accused by one operator of running for office for the sole purpose of opposing the expansion of marinas.

Mr. Gordon admitted he had been asked by a group of residents to run for office to oppose further commercial development along the Brentwood waterfront.

"I was the joe boy," he said. He said he is against commercialization encroaching on all recreational areas in the municipality.

"People are more important than commercial enterprise," he said, "Brentwood Bay is for the enjoyment and recreation of all residents."

VOTE SATURDAY

This was the only contentious issue raised at the meeting in Saanichton Agricultural hall—the last before ratepayers go to the polls Saturday.

About 120 residents heard 11 candidates—seven contesting three two-year council seats and four a one-year seat—outline their platforms.

$9 MONTHLY

Mayor R. Gordon Lee, who is retiring, said he expected plans for the proposed $1,991,300 sewerage project to be completed within the next three months.

Cost to home-owners of small lots will be about $9 per month and $9.75 for larger lots.

Council hoped for financial assistance from the provincial government to alleviate the high costs for installing the sanitary system, he said.

"But whatever the ultimate cost may prove to be for the system, it will be more than compensated for in the enhancement of the property values," he stated.

He said reliable sources had indicated at least a $1,000 resale value increase for the average householder.

There were no disagreements between the candidates and their platforms differed little from one another. But they all expressed concern at expansion problems facing Central Saanich.

Main points raised by the candidates were:

- Development of more recreational areas and construction of a sports centre jointly with Sidney and North Saanich.
- An agreement with School Board 63 for use of school gymnasiums and playgrounds for recreational use.
- Construction of a hospital on the northern end of the peninsula to replace Rest Haven in Sidney.

Strict adherence to a new land-use and zoning bylaw to prevent urban sprawl.

Robert C. Derrinberg and Zachary Hamilton, contesting a two-year seat on the school board, both supported the establishment of a strong liason with council on recreation matters.

New Mill for Nanaimo

Construction of a new timber mill on Nanaimo Harbor will begin in February.

It will be built on the site of the old Anglo-Canadian mill, which was dismantled 18 months ago.

The new mill is a joint venture by C. Itoh and Company of Japan and Pacific Logging Co. Ltd. to be called CIPA Lumber Co. Ltd.

A company spokesman in Tokyo, according to Reuters, said the joint firm is to be established in Nanaimo with a capital of $10,000,000 Canadian, of which 80 per cent will be put up by the Japanese.

The mill will have a capacity of 140,000 cubic metres annually at a cost of $2,000,000 and will be in full operation by the spring of 1970.

Construction of the mill will employ about 150 men, William Sloan, president of Pacific Logging, said today.

Ont. Hydro Will Seek $625 Million

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro will try to raise $625,000,000 in world capital markets to help finance a $1,035,000,000 expansion program, Chairman George Gathercole announced Thursday night.

He said in an interview that about 30 per cent of the total investment will be financed within Hydro. "The rest will be raised in Canada, the United States and, possibly Europe."

Hydro announced plans earlier in the day to build two new generating plants with a combined capacity of 5,000,000 kilowatts.

The nuclear plant will be built on a 2,300-acre site adjacent to the 208,000-kilowatt nuclear station already operating at Douglas Point on Lake Huron, 130 miles northwest of here.

The other plant, a $275,000,000 coal-fired station near Bath, 22 miles west of Kingston, will have a capacity of 2,000,000 kilowatts.

Tied in with the expansion will be a heavy water plant to be built by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., also at Douglas Point.

Contract Awarded

VANCOUVER (CP) — University of British Columbia said Thursday a contract worth almost $3,000,000 has been awarded to Laing Construction and Equipment Co. for an addition to the UBC biological sciences building. The addition will provide both teaching and study space.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Toronto, N.Y. Post Gains

Both Toronto and New York markets edged higher today. Trading was active at Toronto and moderate on Wall Street.

Price changes were generally small on both exchanges.

AT TORONTO, in industrials, Famous Players gained 3 to 76½, Bell 1⅞ to 49¾ and Consolidated Bathurst 1⅞ to 22.

Home Oil A rose 2⅝ to 37⅛, Canadian Superior 2½ to 55½ and National Pete 80 cents to $7.00. urry-Rainbow lost ½ to 43.

Bethlehem Copper was up ⅞ to 17⅞ Bankino 80 cents to $7.75 and Preston ¾ to 20¼.

At NEW YORK, an improvement by steels was linked with news of recent price boosts and a more favorable attitude towards steel stocks in some Wall Street quarters.

American Telephone recouped a point of recent losses taken in reaction to the higher interest rate for commercial borrowers announced by U.S. major banks early this week.

Alwin rose .15 to $2.40 on 21,200 shares and Kimberley put on a similar amount to $1.95.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Oilseeds maintained a stronger price pattern to the close of trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, but volume turned light at mid-session.

Export interest in rapeseed continued moderately aggressive but prices moved up due to light offerings coming from commission houses and locals on the scale up.

There was a little short covering in flaxseed, mostly by locals.

Oats saw a moderate amount of domestic shipper buying and December and May futures moved up fractionally.
